CHICAGO EQUIPS LABORATORIES FOR SCIENTISTS

Apparatus Making Is Key Industry.

MAKE CHICAGO THE FIRST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

As one of the world's scientific centers, Chicago finds that one of its key industries, perhaps the most fascinating of them all, is the manufacture of scientific instruments and equipment. It develops the apparatus needed by scientists in their research work, and applies the newest laboratory discoveries to the devising of new instruments.

This industry has developed at a great rate since the war, until in Chicago more apparatus is made for teaching purposes than anywhere else in the United States. Here is the largest American company manufacturing apparatus for educational, industrial, hospital, and clinical laboratories. Here also are a leading maker of psychological and physiological apparatus and others who are foremost in their specialties.

Each Has Its Reputation.

As the industry charts it, Chicago is known for concentration upon scientific apparatus; Rochester is center of optical instruments, while the center of electrical measuring apparatus is in Philadelphia and the east, and laboratory glassware centers in Corning, N. Y.

Chicago produces about one-fifth of the yearly output of scientific apparatus in America. About 11 million dollars a year is the value of the equipment made in Chicago, and about 60 million is the normal national output. About 3,000 skilled workers are employed in the work here; in peak times as high as 4,500.

The apparatus and instrument makers complete a cycle of industries and enterprises which through laboratory research have made possible the modern high speed age and the advances in the field of medicine. The industrial laboratories produced the new lightweight, rustless, tough alloys which made possible streamlined, mile-a-minute trains, high power, high speed automobiles, 200 mile-an-hour airplanes.

Some Phases of the Cycle.

The oil industry's laboratories produced the new oils and gasoline which enabled the new machines to operate. The clinical laboratories in Chicago, a world medical center, and the scientists in the university laboratories; the electrical industry in its research plants, and others have been discovering new things in the world about us.

And the scientific instrument industry is in a way a superlaboratory which translates into terms of apparatus and equipment the discoveries of the scientists. So there is in Chicago a complete cycle.

Before the war Germany used to be the great apparatus maker. Its laboratory porcelain and glassware were in every American laboratory. During the war a chemical glass was developed at Corning, N. Y., that stands heat and mechanical shock even better than the German glass. It is being made for European markets in branch factories in France and England.

Important Factories Here.

Moreover, a laboratory porcelain was developed in America. Before the war Royal Berlin used to be used in our laboratories. At Golden, Colo., during the war a fine American porcelain was developed. Now the American laboratories are independent of foreign sources.

In Chicago are at least six manufacturers at the top in their specialties. Nowhere is the line more diversified. In addition great eastern houses have offices here as distributing centers for their products to the midwest.

The great expansion has come since the war, especially with the tremendous growth in high school and college attendance and the increase in laboratories of all sorts. The minute a scientist makes a discovery the laboratories clamor for apparatus to demonstrate it.

Chicago's vacuum pumps, for example, are now known the world over and have a wide foreign market. To show their rating they "made" the Encyclopedia Britannica. A scientist can start with a suggestion, build up, perhaps, a clumsy looking apparatus; the instrument makers then develop it into something compact and hand tooled. One new high vacuum pump reduces air pressure to a hundred millionth of an atmosphere.

Another device is a comptometer for bugs, to determine the bacterial count in water and milk; another shows whether a signature on a bank check has been tampered with.

BERLIN NAZIS MOB LEGATION OF LITHUANIA

Protest Sentences of 4 in Memel Plot.

New Hitler Demands

LONDON—Authoritative sources revealed that Reichsfuehrer Hitler in his conversations with Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, demanded a German-Austrian economic union; return of certain Czechoslovak territory and repatriation of 3,500,000 German residents in it; an air force equal to that of France or Britain, the common level to be determined by Russia's air strength, and a navy of about 400,000 tons.

BERLIN, March 27.—Police lorries loaded with reserves tonight blocked all approaches to the Lithuanian legation in Kurfuerstenstrasse and repelled the march of thousands of Germans angered at the death sentences meted yesterday to four Nazis at Kaunas, Lithuania. The Kaunas military court also gave prison sentences to 77 and set free the remainder of 126 accused of plotting to seize Memel territory and return it to Germany.

Shouting appeals for Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler to "give it to them in the neck," "bring Memel home," and "give us the murderers," the mob gathered from dozens of protest meetings in Berlin, the largest of which was one attended by 60,000 in the Lustgarten and addressed by Dr. Hans Steinacher, leader of the Association for German Nationality Abroad. Steinacher condemned the Kaunas verdict as a "perversion of justice."

Mob Breaks Through.

The direction of the mob to the legation was quickly perceived and the hastily summoned police rushed through the streets with the lorries' sirens shrieking. These forces, supplemented by Air Minister Gen. Hermann Goering's special police, drew up a barricade of trucks.

The vanguard of the mob broke through the first police cordon, but fell back at the second. The lines of protection were drawn tighter before the main body of demonstrators arrived singing Nazi songs. Balked, the demonstrators shouted, "Drive the Lithuanian ministers from Berlin," and other protests. After a threatening hour the police persuaded the demonstrators to depart in smaller groups.

Before reaching the legation the main body of the mob had halted momentarily before the chancellery in Wilhelmstrasse. The demonstrators called for Hitler to redress the alleged wrongs of the verdicts. They cheered loudly as Hitler appeared at a window and waved to them.

March in Koenigsberg.

Hundreds of Germans staged a similar protest march to the Lithuanian consulate at Koenigsberg, East Prussia, bearing placards reading "Protest Against the Lithuanian Shame."

As a protest against the Kaunas verdict, Herr Odendahl, Lithuanian consul general in Munich, resigned his post and removed the Lithuanian arms from the front of the consulate.

There were countless protest meetings throughout Germany under the sponsorship of Dr. Steinacher's association. Because the association has a semi-official status, the demonstrations were in the character of a government protest.

LITHUANIA DEFIANT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania, March 27.—The Lithuanian government refuses to be intimidated by protests from Germany against the severe penalties imposed by a court martial upon Memel Nazi leaders, according to government officials, who regard the Memel problem as an internal Lithuanian affair.

The refusal of the four men sentenced to death to appeal to President Antanas Smetona for commutation of sentence caused excitement in Kaunas, where the possibility of the executions was the chief topic of conversation. On Tuesday the court martial will hold its final session, reading a detailed verdict.

Although refusing to get excited over the clamor raised abroad, the government moved forcefully to forestall any disorders in this former German possession, canceling all police leaves.

The entire Memel district police force Memel was required to take an oath to uphold the Lithuanian constitution. Heretofore the oath has been given on the league of nations Memel statute.

WASHINGTON AD ASKS LOCATION FOR ARIZONA EMBASSY AND FLEET

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—The capital chuckled today over this advertisments:

"Embassy wanted: suitable site to build an elaborate embassy for housing Arizona's new ambassador [sic]. Prefer location near river front to accommodate our fleet. Address communications to Frank L. Gegax, chairman, Democratic county committee, Phoenix, Ariz."

The notice was an apparent gibe by Gegax, or some prankster, at the new law to send a $7,500 a year man to Washington to look after the state's interests.

No "ambassador" has been selected as yet by Arizona, according to the state's senators.

BLAME UNUSUAL ACCIDENT FOR DEATH OF NURSE

A coroner's jury decided yesterday that Miss Eleanor France, 21 years old, Vermont, Ill., died in St. Luke's hospital on Tuesday as the result of an unusual accident. Miss France enrolled in the hospital's training school for nurses in September, 1933. Some weeks ago she pricked her finger accidentally with the point of an instrument that had just previously been used in an operation for the removal of tonsils. A streptococcus infection set in and caused her death.

Atlantic City Capitalist Found Mortally Wounded

Germany Refuses to Admit Sir Philip Gibbs, Writer

BERLIN, March 27.—(AP)—The German ministry of the interior today declined to admit Sir Philip Gibbs, noted English writer, into Germany. Although no reason was given for barring Sir Philip, it was learned from Munich that the writer had incurred Nazi disfavor by his anti-Nazi writings.

President on Yacht; Greets Royal Couple

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., March 27.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today entertained British royalty in the first day of his annual cruise in Florida waters. The duke and duchess of Kent called upon the chief executive as he visited Bahaman waters on his two weeks' vacation fishing excursion in Florida waters.

The duke of Kent, son of King George and Queen Mary, accompanied by his bride, the former Princess Marina of Greece, boarded the yacht Nourmahal. The President had boarded Vincent Astor's yacht from the Destroyer Farragut at Cat Cay.

On the quarterdeck of the yacht of Mr. Astor, the President chatted for more than an hour before the duke took his departure. With him was Sir Bede Clifford, governor general of the Bahamas. Also with the party were Lady Clifford and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wasey of New York, owners of Cat Cay.

Roosevelt Sends Message.

A radio bulletin from the Nourmahal read as follows:

"Escorted by U. S. S. Claxton, dropped anchor Cat Cay ten this morning. Yacht Nourmahal already there. At noon governor of Bahamas, Sir Bede Clifford and Lady Clifford, accompanied by their guests, the Duke and Duchess of Kent and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wasey of New York, who own Cat Cay, called on the President. The Farragut and Nourmahal expect to proceed to southward this afternoon. Claxton returning Miami. Beautiful weather. Smooth sea. Roosevelt, U. S. S. Farragut."

The President, who departed from Jacksonville, Fla., at 3:30 yesterday afternoon aboard the new U. S. S. Farragut, transferred to the Nourmahal today. From the smaller vessel he hopes to catch deep sea fish.

Hopkins Stays in Florida.

In the meantime in Miami, Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins changed his mind about returning to Washington. Hopkins said he needed a few days' rest.

He is only one of a host of New Dealers who have vacationed and are vacationing here. Among the latest arrivals are James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator. Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, is to arrive here shortly.

Marvin H. McIntyre, White House assistant secretary, from Miami kept the President informed of the developments in the illness of Secretary Louis McHenry Howe. Howe's illness delayed the presidential departure from Florida from last Saturday until Monday.

White House attachés expect the President to absent himself from the White House until about April 10 when he will return to Washington.

WOMAN, 88, WHO ONCE 'CAME BACK TO LIFE' IN A COFFIN, IS DEAD

[Copyright; 1935; By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 27.—Of Martha Southwell, lifelong inmate of the Romsey poorhouse, it may be said that she is now quite dead.

Fifty years ago she saved herself from being buried alive by knocking inside her coffin as it was en route to the cemetery. The bearers, terrified, dropped it. Rising from the wreckage, Martha walked back home and resumed work in the laundry. As a memento she used the coffin lid as an ironing board. Now, being certified as dead at the age of 88, she will receive a second funeral.

One Romsey man can recall the scene in the poorhouse schoolroom when a mourner rushed in saying that Martha had risen from the dead.

FOUR MEMBERS OF ONE FAMILY VANISH ON TRIP

Harrisburg, Ill., March 27.—[Special.]—Local authorities tonight were confronted with the mysterious disappearance of four members of one family who have been missing since late Tuesday afternoon.

They are Mrs. C. G. Smith, 32 years old, wife of Dr. C. G. Smith, wealthy physician of Red Bud, a small village in the southwestern part of the state; her 5 year old daughter, Emily; Mrs. Smith's father, the Rev. W. E. Hauff, and his niece, Miss Elsie Linn, 34 years old, of Mitchell, Neb., who was visiting them.

On Tuesday they drove to Harrisburg, where Mrs. Smith was to make an address in connection with the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. Afterward Mrs. Smith telephoned her husband and said they had been invited out for dinner and would be home by 10 o'clock. That was the last seen or heard of the party.

Dr. Smith and Mrs. Hauff came to Harrisburg tonight and enlisted the aid of the police and the motor club to check the highways in an attempt to trace the automobile, a Cadillac sedan, which bore 1935 license No. 234,751. Dr. Smith feared the four may have driven off an embankment into the deep water of a river, or met with foul play. He said his wife was wearing a fur coat and $400 worth of jewelry.

New Deal Eyes Threats of 4 Basic Strikes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Strike threats in four basic industries employing more than a million workers burst like bombshells over the Roosevelt recovery program today. New Dealers led by NRA Chairman Donald Richberg sought hastily for peace plans which might avert wholesale labor trouble.

The four strike threats which came suddenly to a head today are in the bituminous coal, textile, tire, and automobile industries. Approximately 1,222,000 workers are on the pay rolls of these industries.

Strikes at Coal Deadlock.

Richberg's first counter-attack was aimed at the coal situation. He demanded that mine operators and union officials appear before the NRA governing board tomorrow to explain why weeks of negotiations have failed to bring agreement on a new wage scale.

Existing wage contracts between mine operators and the United Mine Workers of America expire April 1. Failure to reach an agreement on a new contract before that date might mean "suspension of activity" in all coal mines in the country, Richberg said.

Richberg gave the mine owners and the union until 2 o'clock tomorrow to settle their problems themselves. Practically 350,000 miners are affected by the controversy.

Textile Walkout Threatened.

While Richberg was moving to avert a coal tie-up, Francis Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers, was threatening to call a strike of the 400,000 textile workers because the NRA yesterday allowed textile mills to reduce their production and working hours by 25 per cent with no increase in hourly wage rates.

"The stage is now set for another strike in the industry. Employers cut prices and then try to make up the profit by taking it out of the hides of the workers. The only method we have of fighting this is by bringing into play our economic strength," Gorman warned while testifying before the house of representatives military affairs committee on a bill prohibiting the use of National Guard equipment against strikers.

Tire Strike Predicted.

A strike in the tire manufacturing industry within the next two weeks was predicted in union circles here after word had been received that the three big tire companies in Ohio, Goodyear, Goodrich, and Firestone, had rejected the demands of the United Rubber Workers. The union asked for recognition, wage adjustments, and abolition of company unions. Approximately 55,000 workers are employed in tire factories.

The question of issuing a strike call to the 417,000 employés in the automobile and automobile parts plants of the country will be laid before William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, tomorrow.

Armed Strikers Lose Rights.

While strike talk increased, the textile labor relations board created by President Roosevelt decided that strikers who brandish guns and other arms while on picket lines, or who indulge in "unwaranted display of force," lose any rights they might have under the NRA to be reinstated after the strike is settled.

WRECKED CARS MARK ROUTE OF 150 MILE FLIGHT

Last Seen Speeding Toward Chicago.

Janesville, Wis., March 27.—[Special.]—Law enforcement officers in half a dozen counties of southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois were striving tonight to learn the fate of two men and two women who were kidnaped this afternoon by three robbers fleeing after an unsuccessful attempt to rob the bank of Mauston, Wis., about 100 miles northwest of here.

The two couples, riding south in a large green sedan, were compelled to take the bandits in with them on a road a few miles north of Janesville. The seven then drove hurriedly through Janesville and continued on toward the Illinois line. It was assumed that the robbers were headed for Chicago and it was feared they might kill their victims or hold them until they had reached a place of safety.

Patrols Find No Trace.

Although dozens of deputy sheriffs patroled the main roads on both sides of the state line, no trace of the green car had been found up to midnight.

In their sensational flight from Mauston, which involved driving over more than 150 miles of well traveled highways, the bank robbers had previously kidnaped and released the occupants of three automobiles. Each of the cars, as well as the one in which they fled from the immediate vicinity of the Mauston bank, proved too slow to suit them or was made unusable by accidents.

It was about noon when the trio drove up to the Mauston bank. One man sat at the wheel and the others, with guns drawn, dashed inside. Three employés and a customer were ordered peremptorily to throw up their hands.

Cashier Opens Rifle Fire.

Opposition, which the bandits apparently were not anticipating, developed at once. Cashier Russell Hale, one of those threatened, jumped into a vault. He seized a rifle and came out shooting. Although wounded in the left shoulder, his resistance so disconcerted the bandits that they dropped the money one man had started to pick up and both retreated to the door.

Running across the sidewalk, shooting and cursing, they drove away to the southeast, in the direction of the Wisconsin Dells. A hastily gathered sheriff's posse pursued a few minutes later, but never succeeded in catching up to the desperadoes.

Mechanical trouble developed in the automobile of the robbers about five miles out of Mauston and they abandoned it. It bore the Illinois 1934 license 771,543, said to have been issued to W. C. Pettis, 2832 North 77th avenue, Elmwood Park, Ill.

Kidnap Minnesota Couple.

To replace the useless vehicle the men halted the first passersby. They were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Woodcock of Plainview, Minn. One man, with drawn pistol, seated himself on the rear seat with the Woodcocks and the others took the front seat. Again they roared on to the southward with a bandit at the wheel.

At 60 miles an hour the driver crashed, something more than an hour later, into a coal loaded trailer of a truck, smashing off a front wheel of the car and tearing away one side of Flight of bank bandits through southern Wisconsin. 1—Driven off in attempt to rob bank at Mauston by cashier, who is wounded. 2—Seize car and take man and wife as hostages. 3—Hit trailer and wreck car. Take second car from woman driver. 4—Seize another car and take man and girl as hostages. 5—Auto stalls. Hold up car with four passengers, two women, and disappear toward Chicago with four hostages. Authorities disagree whether the bandits drove through Beloit to Rockford and route 20 or took route 14 directly toward Chicago.

it. No one was hurt and all climbed out. In a few minutes another car, occupied by Mrs. Frank Condon of Brodhead, Wis., was halted at the scene.

Into it swarmed the gunmen. Mrs. Condon was thrust out. In her car the robbers drove through Evansville, some 15 miles northwest of Janesville. But it was too slow for the gang and when Ed Shea of Madison drove alongside in a faster vehicle, accompanied by Miss Aimee Winrich of Madison, the men flashed their guns and took possession.

It Also Is Too Slow.

This car likewise proved lacking in the going qualities fleeing robbers demand. After only a few miles the bandit driver halted it. His companions robbed Shea of $3 and then stood on the roadside to hitch hike again, with pistols instead of thumbs up. Shea and Miss Winrich were left as the big green car, a Studebaker, arrived and was commandeered with its human freight.

Where the men went after passing through Janesville was a mystery. They could have gone due south, passing through Beloit and into Rockford, or by switching the route a little could have struck route 14, which leads to Chicago by way of Harvard, Ill.

Credence was given the theory that the men were driving for Chicago by statements they made to Shea and Miss Winrich. They asked if the road would lead to Chicago and when Miss Winrich replied that it would, one man said:

"We're not from Chicago. We're from Milwaukee."

All Threatened with Death.

All the released hostages said they were treated fairly well, but were assured that if they made any resistance they would be killed. One of the theories was that the last four captives were held to be used as shields in the event any policemen or deputy sheriffs caught up to the car and attempted to give battle.

Frank Condon, who was driving a second car a few minutes behind that of his wife, arrived in time to pick up his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Woodcock. Woodcock remarked that he and his wife were lucky to be alive after riding with such reckless drivers. Mrs. Condon said that although she was ordered to go along with the robbers, she talked them out of the notion.

"Don't take me," she begged. "I would just be trouble, and I've got a baby back home."

One of the men continued to insist that she get into the car with them, but his companions told him to leave her and accompany them.

Woodcock was robbed of his wallet by the bandits. His wrecked car was towed into Evansville. Like Mrs. Condon, the Woodcocks were greatly frightened by their experience.

Because the length of the captivity of the last four hostages extended for many hours, the authorities here and in nearby counties suspected that the robbers might have taken refuge in some lonely farmhouse. No report on the license number of the victims' car was obtained.

Killed on Street; Inquest Today to Determine How

An inquest will be held today to determine whether a street car or a truck was responsible last night for the death of Joseph Meinhardt, 60 years old, 1242 Draper street. The accident happened at Halsted and Blackhawk streets. Witnesses were unable to tell if Meinhardt was struck by the truck of Anthony Calcagno, 6141 West 22d street, or the street car piloted by James Dougherty. Both denied being responsible.

KILLED BY AUTO 2 DAYS AFTER HE DISAPPEARS

Woman Drowned as Car Plunges Into Stream.

Edward Lorenz, 2233 North Damen avenue, reported to the police on Monday that his father, Peter Lorenz, 70 years old, had disappeared from their home. Last night at Ashland avenue and Erie street the automobile of Morris Weller, 1722 Taylor street, fatally injured an elderly pedestrian, whom the younger Lorenz identified as his missing father.

Lorenz's death and two others yesterday brought the 1935 Cook county traffic toll to 318. At 4 p. m. yesterday the total of automobile fatalities this year within the Chicago city limits stood at 174 and the number of injured at 3,352. The other deaths:

Thomas Sharkey, 59 years old, 2718 Polk street, an iceman. Died at the county hospital of a fracture of the skull incurred Monday night when he was struck by an automobile as he was crossing Harrison street and Francisco avenue.

Yen Lak, a Chinese, 74 years old, 2125 Wentworth avenue. Died at the county hospital of injuries received when a car struck him and sped on at Wentworth avenue and Cermak road on March 18.

Ann Hammond, 30 years old, 5443 Winthrop avenue, an entertainer employed in a night club at South Bend, Ind., was drowned early yesterday morning when she failed to make a turn in Washington avenue in South Bend and her automobile plunged into a millrace of the St. Joseph river. Washington avenue is the only downtown street that is unbridged.

Police searched in vain yesterday for the two occupants of a small green sedan which sped through a stop light at Cicero and Diversey avenues early in the day, killing Miss Eugenie Piotrowski, 20 years old, 2916 North Keating avenue.

HIT, RUN VICTIM IS UNCONSCIOUS AFTER 26 DAYS

Peoria, Ill., March 27.—(AP)—Unconscious 624 hours—26 full days—with a fracture of the skull and both legs, Mrs. Mary Wheaton today had drawn the attention and aid of the medical world. Doctors made a desperate fight for her life at Methodist hospital. She was the victim of a hit and run auto driver.

She is fed through a tube placed in her nose. At times, the attending physician said, she opens her eyes, but only stares. At times she starts to smile. Then she commences to weep.

The struggle to save Mrs. Wheaton began nearly a month ago, when, while she was trudging toward home shortly after dusk along the state highway with her family, she was struck.

Wheaton and their two sons spend all their free time at the bedside of Mrs. Wheaton or in the hospital corridor nearby.

Cart Dragged by Runaway Horse Knocks Down a Girl

Miss Florence Wiptner, 20 years old, 2244 Haddon avenue, was taken to the Lutheran Deaconess hospital with severe injuries yesterday after she had been knocked down by a careening wagon behind a runaway horse. The horse, owned by Joseph Axelrod, a peddler, ran away when a boy smacked him playfully as he was standing unhitched at Hirsch street and Western avenue. The wagon struck Miss Wiptner as the horse turned into Division street from Western avenue.

BARUCH FAVORS SCHEME TO BAN PROFIT IN WAR

Plan Would Keep Prices from Increasing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Bernard M. Baruch, who was chairman of Woodrow Wilson's world war industries board, today indorsed almost unreservedly the senate munitions committee's plan to "pay as you fight," by confiscating profits in war time.

Mr. Baruch's substantial acceptance of the senate committee's so-called "Flynn plan," was interesting in view of the fact that he is chairman of President Roosevelt's committee "to take the profits out of war."

Mr. Baruch said his knowledge of the Flynn plan was limited to newspaper accounts, whereupon Chairman Gerald P. Nye [Radical, N. D.], and other members of the committee explained it in substances as follows:

Tax all profits above 8 per cent at a rate of 50 per cent and all over 6 per cent at a rate of 100 per cent; "freeze prices" to prevent inflation during the war and "pay as you fight" to prevent deflation after the war; limit individual incomes to $10,000 by taxation; draft captains of industry into the army, and then make them operate their plants under threat of courtmartial.

Agrees to Proposal.

"Do you agree with that?" asked Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.].

"Absolutely; I would go as far down the road in removing profits as anybody," Mr. Baruch replied.

"Do you believe," asked Senator Vandenberg, "that as far as is humanly possible, we must pay as we fight?"

"Absolutely," said Mr. Baruch.

"And that we must make ourselves immune from post-war deflation?"

"Absolutely. That is the greatest loss of all."

Price "Freezing" Inadequate.

Under further questioning, Mr. Baruch agreed with the opinion of committee members that the pending house bill to "freeze prices" in wartime, introduced by Chairman John J. McSwain [Dem., S. C.] of the house military affairs committee, was "utterly inadequate." So far as is known, the McSwain bill is the only tangible result of President Roosevelt's appointment of a committee to "take the profits out of war."

Senator Vandenberg and Senator Bennett Clark [Dem., Mo.] raised objections to the McSwain bill on the ground that it provided for no taxes to prevent profits. Mr. Baruch said Representative McSwain had discussed that with him and explained that the house ways and means committee was jealous of its revenue prerogatives.

"This McSwain bill," said Senator Vandenberg, "is being held out as an answer to taking the profits out of war. By itself, the bill is utterly inadequate, isn't it?"

"O, yes, you must have those taxes," said Mr. Baruch.

Might Reduce Wage Value.

In response to further questioning, Mr. Baruch expressed the opinion that high taxes with "price freezing" would not be an adequate remedy, because a working man receiving $100 a month might have "a real wage" of only $50, due to skyrocketing prices, while manufacturers were having all their profits taken away in taxes.

Mr. Baruch told the committee "the government is run for the people who can't take care of themselves—not for those who are able to look out for their own interests."

"Some times I wonder about that," replied Senator Nye.

Senator Homer T. Bone [Radical, Wash.] then asked Mr. Baruch what he thought of drafting management in war time. This was with reference to the Flynn plan of drafting industrial leaders into the army, so they would have to operate their plants on the salary, perhaps, of a colonel and be subject to court martial.

"You don't have to do that," the witness said. "If you start drafting management you will have to draft labor. It is not necessary under the plan you are discussing. The threat of commandeering plants is all you need."

Replying to what he termed "insinuations and innuendoes" against him, the white haired Baruch declared that when he entered the service of his country he sold "at a heavy cost to my fortune" all "holdings that even remotely touched upon my official duties."

He summarized his returns to show that in 1916 he paid a tax of $261,169 on an income of $2,301,000; in 1917, a tax of $363,762 on an income of $617,061. In 1918 and 1919 he reported losses.

DOES ZAHAROFF RULE BRITAIN? DEMANDS DATA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—A demand for a full inquiry into the "close relationship evidently existing between the Vickers armaments firm and the admiralty" was made tonight in the house of lords by Baron Marley, former Laborite undersecretary for war.

"I hope the commission will be able to discover whether we are governed by the national government or by Sir Basil Zaharoff," Marley said, after referring to a letter written by the arms magnate which was revealed in the American arms inquiry.

Officers of high rank at the admiralty, war office, and air ministry, Marley charged, had stepped into lucrative positions in private armament firms upon leaving the service.

Replying for the government, Viscount Halifax asserted the committee would be given complete powers.

Illinoisan Files for Reno Divorce in Insanity Case

Suit for divorce was filed yesterday in Reno, Nev., by John W. Lambur, 112 South Eastern avenue, Joliet, against Clara Reida Lambur, on the grounds of insanity, according to dispatches. Mrs. Lambur is in the Elgin state hospital for the insane where she was committed Oct. 22, 1930 when the Lamburs lived at 6443 North Troy street. Insanity is not a ground for divorce in Illinois. The couple have one child, Anita, 11 years old.

WINTER STAGES COMEBACK AND FOOLS 4 MARTINS

Believing reports that spring had come to Chicago, four bedraggled purple martins, the first of the year, arrived two weeks early yesterday, only to find the city in the grip of a snowstorm, with colder weather in prospect for today and the rest of the week.

The martins took shelter in the birdhouse at Kendall M. Shankland's home on Park avenue in Flossmoor. His sanctuary, much higher than the usual martin house, is always the first stopping place of the birds on their northward flight.

Rain and sleet preceded the snow as the mercury tumbled from 56 degrees at 10 and 11 a. m. to 34 at 5:30 p. m. Although at times blinding, the snow melted as soon as it touched the ground, warm from weeks of balmy weather, and by 7 p. m. had spent itself. Freezing temperature was forecast for early morning.

Precipitation of .41 of an inch yesterday continued accumulation of an excess for the month of 1.28 inches and 1.17 inches for the year. Gardeners and home owners greeted the rain with smiles, confident that by now water had penetrated to the parched subsoil.

'Bare-ook' Correct Way to Pronounce Baruch

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—If you run into Bernard M. Baruch, please pronounce his last name "Bare-ook." At least that is the way the New York financier pronounced it before the senate munitions committee today. Most persons accent the last syllable of Baruch's name, but he stressed the first.

U. S. PLANS TEST OF AUTOGIRO IN AIR, LAND TRAVEL

Ship May Be Housed in Ordinary Garage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Hoping that it has found the air flivver of the future, the department of commerce today purchased for experimental purposes a new type autogiro which can fly in the air, run along a highway on its wheels like an automobile, and be stowed in a garage.

The new plane will have no wings, being kept in the air by its rotor, and it is thereby possible to run it along a highway of ordinary width or store it in a garage.

Its propeller can be disengaged by a clutch and the motor's power switched to the wheels on the undercarriage, making it travel along the ground like an auto. Its rotor, or horizontal propeller, can be disengaged and folded away.

Lands in Small Space.

Persons using such an autogiro could fly to a small, compact landing field near their destination, descend, and, by switching the power from propeller to wheels, roll along the roads or streets to their destination just as if they were in an automobile, the department pointed out. An official description of the new experimental plane said:

"The autogiro being purchased will be designed for operation on the highways after it has made its landing or prior to its takeoff. This will be accomplished by providing rotor blades which can be folded readily over the fuselage, a clutch between the engine and propeller, so that the propeller may be disconnected from the engine and a power drive from the engine to the wheels so that the rotor plane becomes virtually an automobile for ground operation.

May Drive to Field.

"It therefore should be quite possible to house this rotor plane at home and drive it to the nearest suitable field for takeoff, or land on a field near one's point of destination and then proceed thereto over the highway.

"The engine will be placed back of the pilot and passenger to afford the greatest of comfort and the rotor will be of the direct control type, which obviates the need of any fixed wings. The passenger and pilot will sit side by side and the space available will be equal to that provided in the average coupé. The plane will be powered with an 85 horse power engine."

BURGLAR MAILS BACK PORTION OF EVANSTON LOOT

Two Evanston men whose homes were looted by burglars a few days ago, yesterday received through the mail in identical packages that part of the loot which was valueless to the burglar. Prof. Arthur J. Todd of Northwestern university, had two stickpins and a pair of cuff links returned to him. His home at 602 Lake street was robbed Sunday. Bond certificates and jewelry worth $107 were returned to D. H. Bremerman, whose home at 539 Hinman avenue, was looted Monday of jewelry and securities worth $304.

Faces Deportation Because His Cackling Is So Real

Portland, Ore., March 27.—(AP)—Stephen Fink, 57, faces deportation. State police came upon him near Medford. He had hidden in a ditch near a farm, they said, had covered himself with brush, and by an amazingly lifelike cackle was enticing farm chickens within range and popping them into a bag. Roy Norene, immigration inspector, said Fink, an Austrian, had entered this country illegally three times since 1889.

ARREST TWO YOUTHS FOR HECKLING DERN AT ARMY WAR SHOW

Philadelphia, Pa., March 27.—[Special.]—Two youths arrested for heckling Secretary of War George Dern and Mayor Hampton Moore at the demonstration of army guns and equipment here yesterday were held in $1,000 bail each for the grand jury today.

They are Matthias Shallcross, 20, and John Adams, 21, both of Philadelphia and both members of the Eastern Pennsylvania Youth Congress now in convention in the local Y. M. C. A. The charge against them was disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace. Although the program was marked throughout with distribution of peace propaganda by the Society of Friends, and letters and telegrams of protest against the war display, these were the only arrests.

Shallcross and Adams, who were taken to the county prison in default of bail, were distributing handbills condemning war and were shouting, "Down with war; war funds for the unemployed!" The arresting guards testified that the two also shouted, "Get down out of there, you big bums," as Mayor Moore and Secretary Dern took the platform.

VOTE TO ASK U. S. O. K. ON FILLING IN FORK OF RIVER

The city council voted yesterday to memorialize congress to pass Congressman A. J. Sabath's bill to declare the west fork of the south branch of the Chicago river nonnavigable. Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], who presented the resolution, pointed out that if the city were permitted to fill in this branch, which has not been used for navigation since 1900, it would abate a nuisance and would avoid renewing bridges at Western and California avenues.

The council passed Mayor Kelly's amendment to the city code calling for quarterly statements to be issued by the city controler, starting on April 10, setting forth the exact state of collections and expenditures.

A resolution was adopted recommending that the Rapid Transit lines be authorized to install feeder buses to connect the Logan square and Douglas park elevated branches on the southwest side. The company is awaiting ruling by the Illinois Commerce commission on its petition for permission.

The aldermen designated May 6 as tag day for the Chicago Federation of Aged and Adult charities.

BEDFORD-JONES' EX-WIFE SAYS HE WAS STOLEN

Testifies in $200,000 Alienation Suit.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Mrs. Helen W. Bedford-Jones, divorced wife of Henry Bedford-Jones, the adventure story writer, got on the witness stand yesterday and told a jury about her encounters with the woman who became Mrs. Bedford-Jones after the divorce in 1929.

She was testifying in her $200,000 suit against the woman, the present Mrs. Mary Bernardin Bedford-Jones, whom she charges with alienating the affections of the author back in 1928 while Helen Bedford-Jones was still his "wonderfully happy" wife. The case is on trial in the court of Federal Judge William H. Holly.

The present Mrs. Bedford-Jones was the widow of Albert Bernardin, a bottle cap manufacturer, when she married the writer.

Not Revenge; It's $75,000.

Before her appearance on the stand, Mrs. Helen Bedford-Jones brushed away tears and told reporters: "I am not bringing this suit out of motives of revenge, but because Mr. Bedford-Jones never paid the $75,000 settlement agreed upon when he divorced me in June, 1929."

In October, 1929, Mrs. Bernardin married Bedford-Jones in England. The next year the suit was filed in the Superior court of Cook county, the defendant being served here. It was transferred to the federal court because the parties in the action reside in different states. The Bedford-Joneses home is now in Palm Springs, Cal.

In his opening statement to the jury, Attorney Royal W. Irwin, counsel for Mrs. Helen Bedford-Jones, charged that the present Mrs. Bedford-Jones instituted aggressive tactics in 1928 and "maliciously and intentionally broke up my client's home and took from her her husband."

Defense Attorney Earle Ewins in his statement said Bedford-Jones left his Evansville home in 1928 "to get some peace of mind away from a nagging wife."

Testimony of First Wife.

Speaking with a pronounced southern accent and dropping her final "g's," Mrs. Helen Bedford-Jones, who said she was 54 years old, five years her former husband's senior, testified steadily for two hours. She interrupted the attorney and Judge Holly, her flow of language accompanied by smiles, fluttering motions of her hands, and frequent coy glances at the jury.

She testified she lived 14 happy and busy years as Mrs. Bedford-Jones.

Q.—[By Attorney Irwin]—When did you first know Mary Bernardin? A.—I met her at a reception in Evansville in 1926. [Mrs. Bernadin also lived in Evansville at that time.]

A Private Conversation.

Q.—When did you next meet her? A.—In 1928. We went to a Sunday afternoon party, and she dropped in. Immediately she took Bedford-Jones off in a corner and began a private conversation with him.

Q.—When did you next see Mrs. Bernardin? A.—It was on the night of Hoover's election, in 1928. About 8:30 Mrs. Bernadin came in with a friend and suggested a game of cards. I called Mr. Bedford-Jones. We played, then went to a sandwich shop.

Q.—Was there any conversation between Mrs. Barnardin and Bedford-Jones? A.—Yes. Suddenly I noticed Mrs. Bernardin was a-leanin' way over the table speakin' to Mr. Bedford-Jones. She said: "Why, didn't you know? That's what divorce is for. If your wife bores you, get rid of her, like that!" And she snapped her fingers in my face.

Where He Could Find Her.

Q.—And what happened later? A.—We left in her car. He sat in front with her. She drove out to the country and wanted to stop at a roadhouse, but I refused. When we got home, she turned to him and said she was going to Chicago the next day, and he could find her at a hotel here any minute of the day or night. She went up and took him by the coat lapels.

Q.—And did he leave? A.—He left on a train the next night. After a day and night he came home.

She identified a farewell note she said Bedford-Jones left on his pillow on the following Christmas night when he departed forever.

ERA OF NEW DEALERS CALLED 'MUDDLE AGE' BY JAMES M. BECK

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Declaration that we have now "in fact, although not in form, a totalitarian socialistic state, which claims ullimited power," was made by James M. Beck, former solicitor general, in a radio speech tonight. He characterized the present as the "muddle age."

Mr. Beck, who resigned from a house seat because he refused to continue as a "rubber stamp" insisted it was more necessary to follow the fundamental law today than at any time since the civil war.

Criticizing concentration of powers under the New Deal acts, Mr. Beck said: "The destinies of the American people cannot be lastingly controled from Washington."

TAXING CONFLICT DELAYS REPEAL OF U.S. PINK SLIPS

Basic Law Phases Are Hotly Argued.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—A preview of the tax battle into which the Roosevelt spending program will plunge the congress, and a constitutional situation demanding speeches from all the experts, prevented the senate from passing the pink slip, income tax publicity repeal bill this evening.

The overwhelming sentiment of the senate against the pink slip was indicated by the vote of 51 to 25 with which it rejected an amendment of Senator Robert La Follette [Rad., Wis.], providing for mandatory full publicity.

La Follette, however, followed up this vote with an amendment to increase the surtax rates on individual incomes up to 71 per cent, and this precipitated a scene of wild confusion.

Funds Come from House.

Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee, made a point of order against La Follette's second amendment on the ground that revenue legislation must originate in the house of representatives. Senators Borah [Rep., Idaho], Norris [Radical, Neb.], Gore [Dem., Okla.], La Follette and several others immediately served notice that they regarded the question as debatable.

The presiding officer, Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], did not rule on the point of order but explained that an appeal from his ruling would be debatable tomorrow.

After the defeat of La Follette's mandatory publicity amendment, which would have made all returns open to public inspection, Senator Costigan [Radical, Colo.] submitted an amendment requiring the treasury department to permit inspection by any state, county, or municipal taxing official, but not allowing such officials to make such information public except in court action. Costigan said he was urged to press this amendment by the United States Conference of Mayors, the American Municipal association, and the National Association of Tax Assessing Officers.

Raises Basic Law Point.

La Follette had insisted that his amendment was in order because the house bill repealing the pink slip was itself an amendment to a revenue measure, the 1934 act, and that the senate therefore could attach any amendments it saw fit. Senator Borah indicated he would support this theory of law, while Senator Gore maintained that any amendment creating new revenues was an invasion of the constitutional prerogatives of the house of representatives.

In addition to this close constitutional point, which will give senators who regard themselves as authorities a wondrous opportunity to talk, the substance of the amendment will open up the field of debate to the radicals who are already clamoring for drastic increases in taxes.

La Follette's amendment would levy graduated surtaxes on individual incomes, beginning at 6 per cent on $6,000, and increasing up to 71 per cent. The present graduated rate is 1 per cent, beginning at $4,000, up to 59 per cent. The amendment would increase the normal tax from 4 to 6 per cent, on net incomes up to $6,000, instead of the present $4,000, and the personal exemptions would be only $2,000 for husband and wife and $800 for an individual, instead of $2,500 and $1,500 respectively.

La Follette estimated the increased rates would bring in about 375 million dollars a year.

SHOOTS HIMSELF TO DEATH.

Despondent over ill health, Percy Foote, 58 years old, a lithograph foreman of 210 South 7th avenue, Maywood, shot and killed himself yesterday in the garage behind his home.

NEW SUPREME COURT TEST OF NRA TAKES INDUSTRIAL SPOTLIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—A new Supreme court test of the NRA cropped up today as the New Dealers disagreed among themselves over whether they should have retreated yesterday from the first test case on wages and hours.

The new test came when the W. Ames company, New Jersey steel manufacturer, filed a case with the Supreme court charging that the NRA was unconstitutional. The company's particular complaint was that the government had barred it from federal contracts merely because it did not have the blue eagle of NRA.

The company charged that the recovery administration had no right to regulate employer-employé relationships since these relationships were not a matter of interstate commerce. The Ames case probably cannot be heard until next fall.

Meanwhile Donald Richberg was hinting that he did not entirely agree with Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, who yesterday decided not to fight before the Supreme court the NRA case against the Belcher Lumber company of Alabama.

Also Asks Economic Union with Austria.

LONDON, March 27.—(AP)—Sir John Simon came back to London today to tell the British cabinet just what Reichsfuehrer Hitler wants in return for Germany joining a European security system.

The ministers were called into special session to receive the foreign secretary's quick report on the results of his conversations Monday and Tuesday with Germany's strong willed chancellor.

While no official version of the results of Simon's mission was forthcoming, authoritative sources said before the cabinet met that the Fuehrer's demands included:

1. Economic union with Austria.

2. Return of certain Czechoslovak territory and repatriation of 3,500,000 German residents in it.

Wants Equal Air Force.

3. An air force the equal of the British or the French, the common level to be determined by Russia's air strength.

4. A navy of about 400,000 tons.

An earlier list given out by the same quarters also included Hitler's reported demand for return of Pomorze—the Polish corridor—but this, the most sensational report yet to reach London, was corrected immediately after Simon's return from the German capital.

The Reichsfuehrer, it was explained, merely discussed future possibilities regarding German territorial desires along the eastern frontier without making any specific demand in that connection.

Hardly had the hum of his airplane's motors died away before the foreign secretary was hurrying to the cabinet session to deliver his preliminary report.

MacDonald Reports to King.

For 40 minutes the ministers listened while he presumably expounded the German thesis that it must be granted full and unfettered equality. Later Prime Minister MacDonald visited Buckingham palace to be closeted with King George for half an hour.

It was believed the fast moving developments in the arms situation were laid before the British ruler.

The cabinet, it was understood, will receive another fuller and more formal report from Simon. The government was described as believing the trip to Berlin well worth while and personal contact with the outspoken German leader entirely justified.

Dispatches from Berlin said the German foreign office expressed the opinion that Downing street apparently had been out of touch with Simon and Capt. Anthony Eden, the other British conferee, who is now en route to Moscow. That was the explanation of the misunderstanding concerning Hitler's reputed Pomorze demand.

In the absence of an official statement, which Simon is expected to make to the house of commons tomorrow, rumors current in London even included one to the effect that Simon and Eden have different understanding of what Hitler said.

See Crisis at Stresa Parley.

Diplomatic quarters here expressed the opinion that the forthcoming Italo-Anglo-French conference at Stresa, Italy, has become of far greater importance with the revelation of the full import of Hitler's demands.

An armed ring around the reich is certain to be considered at the tripower parley, these sources said, and Great Britain is expected to have considerable difficulty in carrying out its previously expressed intention to keep aloof from such an alliance.

France and Italy are bound to reject the German demands, the diplomats asserted, so that Great Britain will find itself at the crossroads—forced to decide whether to join the former allies and whatever other countries enter the ring, or remain independent, clinging to the rôle of umpire in the hope of preventing any events which might lead to war.

Germany Demands Return of Seized Lands

The map shows:

[1] Territory taken from Germany and added to Czechoslovakia at end of World war. Dispatches from London yesterday said Reichsfuehrer Hitler had demanded the return of "certain Czechoslovak territory and repatriation of 3,500,000 German residents within it." The dispatches did not specify what portions of Czechoslovakia Germany demands. A majority of the Germans assimilated into the new state of Czechoslovakia were taken from the Austro-Hungarian empire.

[2] Memel, former German territory, given to Lithuania by the league of nations. Thousands of angry Germans marched upon the Lithuanian legation in Berlin yesterday in protest against the death sentence imposed on four Nazis Tuesday by a military court at Kaunas. Seventy-seven others were sent to prison. All were accused of plotting to seize Memel and return it to Germany.

The map also indicates the Polish corridor, former German territory given to Poland to provide an outlet to the sea. London reports said Hitler and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, had discussed this area.

NAZIS ARE PLEASED

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 27.—The Anglo-German negotiations proved much more satisfactory to Germany than was admitted in the official communique issued yesterday, a high Nazi official told representatives of the German press who were called to the propaganda ministry today.

The official said Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, had declared that England recognizes Germany's new military status and promised that he would do everything to induce other countries to take the same viewpoint Germany then promised it would, as soon as its "full equality was thus recognized," reënter the league of nations, the spokesman said.

The Austrian problem, he continued, proved an extremely delicate matter, but the Nazi government is "trusting to the new feeling of mutual understanding" and agreed to attend an international conference on the Danube problem this spring, or at the latest in the early summer.

France to Renovate Air Force.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 27. — Gen. Victor Denain, minister of air, appeared before the senate aviation committee today and gave a complete expose of Germany's air armaments. He emphasized the need of renovating the French air force. The committee unanimously approved, and the government will immediately ask the chamber of deputies to appropriate the necessary funds. Gen. Denain stressed the importance of training pilots in blind flying.

Italy Speeds Air Program.

ROME, March 27. — (AP) — Italy announced a fast tempo for its military aviation program today to renew its sky fleet in half the scheduled time of six years. Guiseppe Valle, undersecretary of aviation, told the chamber of deputies the move was made "for reasons easily understood."

Valle revealed the construction of superbombardment planes and said 800 men would be trained as aviators this year instead of 400 as put through the course last year.

The undersecretary said Italy would not engage in any further long distance mass flights. He said the uncertain moments of the present require the concentration of all energies in perfecting a powerful air force.

The bombing planes under construction, he said, are capable of carrying 3,300 pounds of explosives over a radius of 1,250 miles at a speed of 210 miles an hour and at a height of 8,000 meters. Others, he said, are capable of moving at 250 miles an hour at a height of 10,000 meters.

Poland Buys Warships.

WARSAW, March 27.—(AP)—Poland today placed orders for two destroyers with a British shipbuilding company. They are to complement the nucleus of the Polish navy—one former German cruiser and several German torpedo boats given Poland after the world war.

Two destroyers and three torpedo boats were recently built for Poland in France.

The new destroyers ordered in England will be of 2,000 tons each and ready in 26 months. They are to be paid for in cash, whereas a Polish ship recently built in Italy was paid for in coal.

HITLER AND EDEN FIND THEY WERE ON SAME BATTLEFIELD IN WAR

BERLIN, March 27.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, discovered by accident, it was disclosed today, that they were lying in directly opposite trenches on a world war battlefield exactly 18 years ago to the day.

The amazing coincidence was realized by both men during a luncheon at the British embassy while the peace conversations were in progress.

While illustrating a point Capt. Eden turned his menu card over and drew a map of a British sector showing exactly which trench sheltered him in 1917, and how the British troops were deployed.

Hitler then took Eden's card and drew a sketch of his own trench opposite and the general arrangement of the German troops in this sector.

Eden took the menu card with him to Moscow as his most treasured souvenir of the Berlin visit.

RUSSIA TO URGE BRITAIN TO JOIN ANTI-NAZI FRONT

London Negotiator Due in Moscow Today.

MOSCOW, March 27.—(AP)—A catastrophe as great if not greater than the world war threatens mankind, authoritative Russian sources contended this evening as Maxim Litvinov, commissar of foreign affairs, awaited the arrival from Berlin of Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, to start Anglo-Russian peace conversations. Eden is due here at 11:35 a. m. tomorrow.

The youthful British official is scheduled to see Joseph Stalin, soviet dictator, in the latter's simply furnished office in the Kremlin Friday. Meanwhile he will confer with Litvinov.

Insistance of the official press that the rearming reich threatens Russia and that the conflict growing out of any German attack would spread all over Europe and Asia reflected Litvinov's thesis that "peace is indivisible."

Urge Pressure on Germany.

For this reason foreign observers believed the Russians would marshal their every resource to convince Eden that the only safe course for England, as well as for the rest of the world, is to bring united pressure to bear on Germany to induce it to accept the proposed eastern security pact it has hitherto scorned.

Any compromise measure England or Germany might produce would be viewed with suspicion, in the opinion of these observers.

"German Fascist leaders openly declare their intention of marching their Fascist hordes eastward," the government's English language newspaper, the Moscow Daily News, said today. "Their object is the dismemberment of the U. S. S. R.

"No secret has been made of the Nazi menace to the Baltic, the central and southern European countries. Hitler's pet hope and desire is to see the U. S. S. R. attacked by Japan from the east. The idea is that any war in the Pacific or eastern Europe would divert the attention of Europe from the European continent and give Germany a free hand."

Urges British Coöperation.

Writing in the official government newspaper Izvestia, Karl Radek—whose views reflect with authority the view of the soviet government—urged Britain to coöperate in erecting barriers against "tendencies toward an explosion in world peace."

The journalist said "it is an illusion to think that war could be localized in the east—this east stretching from the Oder and the Danube to Vladivostok, embracing two continents. If war begins over such an expanse, it will decide the fate of both Asia and Europe."

Izvestia urged an eastern security pact today, saying those who do not wish to take part in such a pact "will revealed their true aims, but will not diminish the significance of this instrument of peace."

The paper said that if negotiations here are conducted in the spirit of Eden's pronouncement a year ago that England welcomes an eastern pact, "it can be hoped they will serve the cause of consolidation of peace and mutual understanding between two great powers having many points of contact not only in Europe but also Asia."

DANZIG TO IMPRISON ALL SOCIALISTS WHO RUN FOR ELECTION

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, March 27.—All Socialist candidates for the election to the Danzig volkstag on April 7 are to be arrested and put in "protective custody," according to reports received here today.

Danzig authorities explained that the order was "for their benefit," in order to prevent attacks on them. Every prominent Socialist leader has already left Danzig for Gdynia, the adjacent Polish port.

Bands of Nazi Storm Troopers have raided Socialist meetings and private homes. It is useless to ask police protection, the Socialists complain, because the police side with the assailants. After a Socialist meeting was broken up by Nazis Sunday, thirteen of the Socialist victims were arrested, including the editor of the supressed Socialist Volkstimme.

INDIANA TO FREE TWO INNOCENT MEN IN PRISON

Two Indiana convicts are to be freed shortly, one because another man confessed a robbery for which he had served four years, and the other after convincing the Indiana state clemency commission that he is innocent.

In 1931 Edward Singleton was sentenced to serve 10 years for the $40 robbery of a Hammond grocer who identified him. Last Tuesday, however, Ralph Harwood, 23 years old, confessed the crime to Hammond police, who had arrested him when he boasted of the robbery in a saloon.

The clemency commission voted yesterday to grant a parole to Abe Schultz who has served four years of a fifteen year sentence for the robbery of the Broadway bank at Ft. Wayne. Four men sentenced at the same time denied knowing Schultz. A Chicago merchant also told the commission Schultz was employed by him at the time.

GERMANY DENIES OFFER OF ARMY AID TO ETHIOPIA

BERLIN, March 27.—(AP)—The German foreign office today flatly denied a published report that Germany had offered a military air force and experts to Ethiopia. A spokesman pointed out such an act might be interpreted as direct hostility to Italy, whereas Germany is maintaining strict neutrality on the Ethiopian question.

AUSTRIA SPLIT BY PEASANT DEMAND FOR DRAFT ARMY

VIENNA, March 27.—(AP)—A demand for the restoration of a conscript army in Austria, voiced in the name of the peasants by Josef Reither, minister of agriculture, was regarded today as indicating dissension in the government between the Fascist heimwehr (home guard) and the Catholic peasant element. Reither is a leader of the Lower Austrian Peasant league.

"I don't want to interfere with Chancellor Schuschnigg's policies," Reither was reported to have said, "but his whole Austrian program is in vain if the peasants are ruined by it.

"We peasants are tired of political strife. We want neither Nazi nor heimwehr dictatorship, but unfortunately there will be heimwehr leaders who want to play Mussolini in Austria."

Referring to a recent incident in lower Austria, where members of the heimwehr in several towns tried to disarm Catholic storm troopers, Reither said:

"We must make an end to this playing at soldiers. These voluntary armed organizations must be disbanded. That is why we peasants demand restoration of conscription so private armies, a source of political unrest, finally can be eliminated from the picture."

COURT VOIDS BAN ON RETAIL SALES OF BULK MILK

State Regulation Is Held Unconstitutional.

The regulation adopted last fall by the Illinois department of agriculture, which attempted to prohibit the sale of bulk milk at retail was declared unconstitutional and invalid yesterday by Circuit Judge Victor Hemphill of Sangamon county.

He made his ruling in granting an injunction to Emil Runge, owner of the Niles Dairy Products company, who brought the suit in behalf of the 60 members of the Independent Milk Distributors' association of northern Illinois. The suit sought to enjoin Attorney General Otto Kerner, Horace I. Lepman, superintendent of the division of foods and dairies, and Walter W. McLaughlin, director of the department of agriculture, from enforcing provisions of the regulation.

Backed by Food Laws.

On Aug. 31, Lepman announced that the sale of all milk in bulk would be prohibited under an interpretation of the state food laws which permits the food and dairy superintendent to make rules and regulations to safeguard the public in the purchase of food products. This meant that no milk could be offered for sale or sold in any container other than that in which it was placed at the farm or in the pasteurizing plant.

The regulation acted to put out of business between one-sixth and one-tenth of all dairies in the state, according to Joseph E. Green, attorney for Runge. It also deprived of revenue various small retail businesses dealing solely in milk, dipped from containers and sold in bulk to customers, he added.

Judge Hemphill's ruling yesterday held that the department of agriculture exceeded its authority in making such a regulation, which could be made only by an act of the legislature. The state department can not prohibit the sale of bulk milk, he declared, unless it rules that all bulk milk is unsanitary.

State Fights for Ruling.

The state's contention was that under interpretation of the statute governing the foods sales and operation of dairies, it had the power to make this regulation. Judge Hemphill agreed that the state could make any regulations affecting sanitation in connection with food and milk, but that it could not make discriminatory regulations of this nature.

Runge brought the injunction suit on Feb 14, in Sangamon county because both Attorney General Kerner and McLaughlin live there. On March 11, Judge Hemphill took the case under advisement, returning his opinion yesterday.

After the bulk milk regulation was placed in effect last fall, 14 milk station operators of Cook county were named in suits alleging they were selling uninspected, contaminated, or adulterated milk in improper containers, and in insanitary surroundings.

Attorney Green explained that his clients have no quarrel with the agricultural department on the grounds of sanitation, but that in making a blanket ruling against all bulk milk, it acted to call all such milk insanitary.

50 YEARS LATE

Sec. Dern (left) and Gen. A. W. Greely.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—A congressional medal of honor today rewarded Maj. Gen. A. W. Greely for his harrowing adventures in the arctic half a century ago.

It was plain the 91 year old hero considered the recognition a bit belated.

"What difference does it make?" he had asked recently. "I'll be dead in a year or two any way."

Greely carried the American flag farther north in 1882 than any man ever had penetrated previously. Afterward the general saw all but seven of his 25 men die of starvation and cold before rescue came. Today officials planned to pin the medal on him with ceremony.

"I always lived a simple life—that's why I lasted through that year," Greely said. "In 74 years in the army I never got drunk once. But a trip to Boston would kill me now. I haven't been out of the house here in two months."

QUINTS BECOME WARDS OF KING; MOTHER OBJECTS

TORONTO, March 27.—(AP)—Herbert A. Bruce, lieutenant governor of Ontario, signed the Dionne quintuplet guardianship bill when the provincial legislature convened today. By the terms of the bill the five famous little girls of Callander become "wards of his majesty, the king."

Mrs. Dionne Displeased.

NORTH BAY, Ont., March 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Oliva Dionne, mother of the famed quintuplets, is dissatisfied with conditions at the Dafoe hospital and with the management of her baby girls, she told the Federation Des Femmes Canadiennes Francaises of North Bay last night.

Mrs. Dionne said she is anxious that the board of guardians include herself and two other women, both mothers, who could understand her longing to be with her babies as much as possible. She expressed a desire for changes in the hospital staf.

A public hearing on the application of the Chicago park district for permission to retain the Lagoon theater and boathouse on the World's Fair grounds and the bridges connecting the mainland with Northerly Island at 12th and 23d streets will be held at 10 a. m. today in the office of the United States engineer, room 425, postoffice building. Yachtsmen have made complaints that the retention of the bridge will prevent them from using the lagoons as harbors.

ONLY 2 OUT OF 9 WOMEN PUNISHED IN MURDER CASES

None Executed in Cook County Since 1840.

Women accused of murder in Cook county have always fared better in court than men charged with the same crime. Whether it is because the jurors are moved to sympathy by tears, or whether they are more ready to believe women's denials of the slayings, or their pleas of self-defense, at any rate, juries have continually shown leniency toward women on trial for murder.

Mrs. Anna Ericksen, who was acquitted Tuesday night of the murder of her husband George by a jury before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court, is the sixty-third woman to be freed in Chicago murder trials since 1906.

During that twenty-nine year period eighteen women have been convicted of murder and have served sentences in the penitentiary. Several others were found guilty, but were freed after new trials were ordered by the Illinois Supreme court.

Contrast in Punishment.

These figures indicate that only two out of every nine women tried for murder have paid any penalty. According to the records of the states attorney's office, approximately four out of every five men put on trial for killings are found guilty.

Since 1840 there have been 103 hangings and 27 electrocutions in Cook county, all of men. Three women were sentenced to death, but were not executed.

The first woman condemned to die was Maggie Titter, a Creole, who killed her husband in 1898. Feminine societies begged mercy for her and the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

In 1923 the death sentence was imposed on Mrs. Sabelle Nitti Crudelle and her husband, Peter, for the murder of the woman's former husband, Frank Nitti, the year before. Testimony showed that Crudelle, then a hired man on the Nitti farm, enamored of Mrs. Nitti, beat her husband to death with a hammer and flung his body in the river nearby. The body was not found until May, 1923, and in the meantime Crudelle married the woman.

Conviction Is Reversed.

The jury decreed death for the couple, but the State Supreme court ruled that there was insufficient evidence for a conviction and reversed it. The state could produce no further evidence, the murder charges were dismissed and the Crudelles went back to the farm.

The third woman to hear the death pronouncement and later evade execution was Mrs. Catherine Cassler. She was found guilty in 1927 of the murder of William Lindstrom, a cabinetmaker. The state charged at the trial that Mrs. Cassler conspired with a friend, Mrs. Lillian Fraser, and Loren Patrick, a former whisky seller, to poison Lindstrom for his $7,500 life insurance.

Mrs. Fraser and Patrick confessed and testified for the prosecution in Mrs. Cassler's trial. Patrick said that when the poison failed to kill Lindstrom he beat the cabinetmaker to death with a lead pipe. The jury brought in the death verdict, but the Supreme court held there was error in the record, reversed the conviction and granted Mrs. Cassler a new trial. The state did not retry the case and Mrs. Cassler went free.

Other Cases Recalled.

Among the confessed woman slayers who have been acquitted are Cora Orthwein, Beulah May Annan and Dorothy Pollak. Miss Orthwein shot and killed her married sweetheart, Herbert Zeigler, in 1921. She told the jury she did it "because I loved him so," adding that it was also self-defense, and the twelve men freed her.

Mrs. Annan was described as Chicago's most beautiful slayer. She shot her lover, Harry Kalstedt, in 1924 and kept a drunken vigil over him with a phonograph blaring out her favorite tunes until he died on the floor.

She wore fetching gowns during her trial and sobbed on the stand that she was a virtuous wife who had been wronged. After her acquittal she left her husband.

Mrs. Pollak shot and killed her husband, Joseph, in 1932. When the prosecution demanded some women on the jury for fear that 12 men would be susceptible to Mrs. Pollak's charms, the defense asked for a bench trial. Mrs. Pollak pleaded self defense and was freed by Judge Harry M. Fisher.

Since 1923 seven women have been convicted in killings and have been sent to prison. They are:

TILLIE KLIMEK, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of her third husband, Frank Kupczyk, in 1923.

MRS. KATHERINE BALUK MALM, with her husband, Otto, life imprisonment for the murder of Edward Lehman in 1924. [Mrs. Malm died in Joliet penitentiary in 1932.]

MRS. ELIZABETH UNKAFER, life imprisonment for the killing of Sam Belchoff in 1924.

"GRANDMA" ELIZA NUSBAUM, life imprisonment for the murder of her husband, Albert, in 1926. [John Walton Winn, her suitor, the actual slayer, was hanged.]

FLORENCE STOKES, one year to life for manslaughter in the death of James Glennon in 1927.

MRS. MARGARET SUMMERS, a 14 year term, for the murder of her nephew, Thomas Meyer, in 1932.

DR. ALICE WYNEKOOP, 25 years, for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rhets, in 1933.

SENESE TRIAL APRIL 3

The trial of James Senese and Elmer Krueger for the murder of George Ericksen, tavern owner, was set yesterday for April 3 by Chief Justice Sullivan of the Criminal court. It was indicated that the state will make some recommendations for leniency for the two young men because of their testimony as prosecution witnesses against Ericksen's widow, Anna, who was acquitted of responsibility for the murder by a jury Tuesday night. Attorneys for Mrs. Ericksen said yesterday that "she was anxious to help the state" against Senese and Krueger. Ericksen was slain last Dec. 22.

Youth Who Caused Riots Convicted on Slug Count

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Lino Rivera, 16, the colored boy whose reported detention in a store for candy theft led to the outbreak of the Harlem riots last week, was found guilty today in the Adolescents court in Brooklyn of having put a slug in a subway turnstile. Magistrate Bernard A. Kozicke placed him on probation for a year. Patrolman Alfred Eldridge of the crime prevention bureau said that three offers of jobs for the boy were being held in abeyance pending disposal of the slug charge.

Featuring the BEAUMAL Family

BEAUMAL STAR $30

This is the first season for Beaumal Star—a new lightweight topcoat destined for great success. The fabric is woven from top grade wool and kid mohair, the first practical blend of these two ever marketed. In spite of the lightness of the cloth, it will withstand the severest wear. In keeping with the originality of the fabric are the new styles and pattern effects.

LAMGORA COAT $35

The Lamgora coat is also an exclusive fabric, a scientifically balanced blend of finest Angora fleece (for softness and luster) and best quality wool. Lamgora is an all-weather coat — windproof, showerproof, wrinkleproof and comfortable at all temperatures. A complete selection of styles—plain colors and checks in all shades for every preference—and in all sizes.

LONDON DEW $45

This fabric is a double cloth tied together in weaving. The result is a soft, rich surface with a tensile strength that provides wear impossible in ordinary fabrics. To match the beautiful cloth, the latest London and American fashions have been incorporated. And the patterns are far from the usual—lively "Scotchy" patterns, subdued overplaids and individual shades.

Other Topcoats—$25 to $150

G. O. P. AT DOOR OF NEW GLORIES, ASSERTS GLENN

Outlines Platform at a Michigan Rally.

Grand Haven, Mich., March 27.—[Special.]—Former Senator Otis F. Glenn, speaking here tonight before the Western Michigan Republican organization, told his audience that "not since the days of the war between the states has the Republican party had a greater opportunity and a greater mission than at this moment."

"Born to preserve the union, the Republican party lives today to preserve the constitution," Senator Glenn said. "I find among Republicans a sturdy realization that the plight of the country demands that the party must carry on the fight for national honor and the preservation of our form of government."

Individuality Submerged.

The former senator held that individuality has been submerged by mass planning under the present régime, that initiative is replaced by regimentation, and that thrift in government has yielded to relief giving and alms taking.

"Budget balancing is despaired of as a hopeless task," Senator Glenn continued. "Radicals become encouraged, alien communists multiply steadily and go about their way sewing the seeds of disloyalty, of class hatred, or revolution—and none are deported. Soviet Russia is recognized and communists parade the streets proudly bearing the Red flag and singing the 'Internationale.'"

The former senator said he was "willing to follow Senator Arthur H. Vandenburg as the Republican presidential nominee in 1936."

Sees U. S. Lagging Behind.

Summing up the record of the present administration the speaker pointed out that the relief rolls are doubled, that America lags behind almost every nation in the battle to get out of the depression, and that the dollar is unstable. He then set forth a list of policies that the Republican party should adopt.

"We should substitute a Republican policy of spending less for the Democratic policy of taxing more," Senator Glenn said. "We should stand for strict supervision of banks and banking with adequate safeguards for the depositors, but we should oppose the entry of the federal or state government into the banking business.

Urges Sound Money.

"We should insist upon a sound, fixed and stable fiscal policy for the United States. We should insist upon this country remaining aloof from old world entanglements.

"We should watch with careful eyes the activities of alien radicals and communists, and when their guilt has been established we should see that they are promptly deported to the foreign shores from which they came."

EDITOR RALLIES G. O. P., ASSAILING THE NEW DEALERS

Says Party Will Restore U. S. Faith.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 27.—[Special.]—Harold B. Johnson, editor and publisher of the Watertown Daily Times and former president of the New York Society of Newspaper Editors, attacked the New Deal here today. He called it a failure and outlined the course he believed the Republican party should follow to restore confidence in the government. He spoke at a luncheon before the Young Republican league of Onondaga county.

Johnson, generally against the old leadership of the Republican party, declared:

"With one of those interesting and sudden shifts of sentiment not uncommon in politics, the people seem to have awakened. The administration leaders have been keen enough to appreciate it. Lights burn far into the night in the council chambers of departments, the capitol and the White House.

"New Deal Indicted."

"The indictment is clear as against the New Deal. That same indictment naturally rests against the administration that created it.

"The Republican party's responsibility is one that has seldom been equaled before in the history of American government and politics. The opportunity is equally marked, to be the means and the medium of leading America to sound foundations again. The party has that responsibility and that opportunity to straighten out the pattern."

Cites Social Security.

Johnson said the Republican party must consider social security first. Some sound plan must be worked out for social security. The force of a united party agreement must be back of it. The sentiment of the people for social security is shown, he declared, by the development of the unstable Townsend plan and the share-the-wealth tirades of Huey Long to which so many voters are listening.

Hold Preview Tomorrow of School Art Exhibition

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster and Mrs. William J. Bogan will pour tomorrow afternoon at a private preview and tea for art lovers, critics, and district school superintendents at the exhibition of public school art at Marshall Field & Co. The exhibit was arranged for the meeting of the Western Arts association which will be held next week in Chicago. Exhibitions of various phases of student work will be held in all the State street department stores in connection with the association's meeting.

MAYOR TO SPEED UNIFIED TRANSIT SYSTEM FOR CITY

Public Will Decide on Plan, Says Kelly.

A campaign will be launched shortly for an adequate, unified transit ordinance for the city, according to an announcement yesterday by Mayor Kelly, who said he would supervise the work on the measure until it is complete and ready for passage.

"I believe a public official could leave no better monument than a local transportation ordinance designed to suit the needs of the people, and I propose to see that such an ordinance is passed at the earliest possible moment," Mayor Kelly said.

"The ordinance must be one to receive the approval of the people. The entire project will be laid before the public. There will be no perpetual franchise and the ordinance must provide that transportation companies pay revenues into the city treasury.

Ordinance "Without Jokers."

"It will be an ordinance without jokers. I am going to study it as I would a textbook. I consider it one of the most important projects to come before the city government."

Mayor Kelly said he hoped the Illinois commerce commission would rule favorably on a universal transfer between trolley and "L" lines. This would provide an important step toward the solution of the traction problem, he said.

The mayor indicated that the new traction ordinance would favor lighter and faster equipment. "Lighter equipment," he said, "is more economical in the long run and it will handle the public better. A new ordinance must provide for such equipment."

Plan Rail Electrification.

A plan for the electrification of present railroad lines leading into the city in order to offer elevated service to new areas will be placed before the council committee on transportation when it is drafting the traction ordinance, the mayor indicated. He first advanced the plan fifteen years ago when he was chief engineer of the sanitary district.

"When the plan was first proposed the railroads were not interested because of the huge volume of trafic they were then carrying," Mayor Kelly said. "Now, however, with rail trafic at a low ebb, the railroads may be interested in the plan.

"Their elevated embankments would carry quiet running, speedy electric trains to areas now not serviced with elevated lines. If this plan can be worked out it will benefit both the public and the railroads."

No Subway Yet.

The mayor said he did not favor the construction of a subway until a tenant who will pay for the right of using it is found. For immediate needs the improvement of street car and elevated service will suffice, he explained.

The council committee on transportation is ready to proceed with the traction ordinance immediately after the elections and the organization of the council, according to Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the committee.

"We expect to start hearings on the ordnance soon after the elections," he said. "The committee has been studying plans for an ordinance for some time. We expect that the hearings will extend through most of the summer and that we will have a completed ordinance to place before the council by late fall."

2 GET JAIL TERMS FOR PLOTTING TO KILL MUSSOLINI

ROME, March 27.—(AP)—The special tribunal for the defense of the state today found two men guilty of a plot to bomb a train in which Premier Mussolini was riding. Mario Abbiezzi was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment and Luigi Tambussi was ordered to jail for four years.

The public prosecutor surprised the court by comparatively light demands for punishment. Instead of demanding the death penalty, as is the custom in plots against the life of Il Duce, he asked an eight year prison sentence for Abbiezzi and five years for Tambussi.

The prosecutor said it was by amazingly good fortune that police arrived in time to prevent the carrying out of the plot.

G. O. P. LEADERS AGAIN SNUB THE MAYORAL RACE

Strawn Talks, but Only About Washington.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Almost on the eve of the mayoralty election, Republican attention in Chicago was directed again yesterday toward Washington with no mention of the local contest next Tuesday. Silas H. Strawn was the speaker of the day at the weekly Republican round table in Henrici's restaurant, and he confined himself to the national situation.

This gathering probably was the last G. O. P. meeting of broader scope than a ward affair before election day. The party organization in the city apparently has ceased to function. There were about a dozen ward committeemen at the luncheon addressed by Mr. Strawn, but none of them suggested any resolution of indorsement or sympathy for Emil C. Wetten, the mayoralty nominee.

The occasion was considered significant because it was a repetition of what has occurred week after week during the period supposed to be devoted to campaigning. One important speaker after another has aimed his guns at Washington. Not one has trained them on the city hall.

Strawn Rips Into Democrats.

Mr. Strawn devoted most of his time to contrasting Democratic platform pledges and Roosevelt campaign promises with the actions of the administration during the last two years. Some of it was statistical and severe in its condemnation, but nothing of what he said took better with his audience than his occasional descents into more homely criticism.

"I confess," he said at one point, "that when I attempt to follow the ramblings of this administration I become woozy."

"The performance is silly," he said in discussing crop reduction and hog killing followed by heavy importations of grain and pork. "I can't imagine anything more monkeylike."

He also referred in a general way to the frequent broadcasts from Washington as "hooey."

Words and Deeds Contrasted.

Some of his contrasts between Democratic promises and performances were summarized thus:

"The cost of the federal government for the year ending in June, 1933, which included four months of Hoover and eight months of Roosevelt, was $5,307,000. The cost of the year ending in June, 1934, was $7,105,000.

"Instead of balancing the budget by quitting the wild expenditures and raising taxes, as Candidate Roosevelt said he would do, we are still rushing headlong into debt which will impose an unbearable burden upon future generations. During the Roosevelt administration the public debt has risen from $19,487,000,000 to $28,665,000,000.

"The federal deficit for the year ending June 60, 1933, was $3,068,000,000. For the fiscal year ending in June, 1934, it was $3,989,000,000. For the year ending June, 1935, it is estimated at $4,369,000,000."

SERVICE STARTED FOR PREMATURE CHICAGO BABIES

Provide Ambulance and Natural Milk.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A municipally owned ambulance service and a mother's milk station for prematurely born babies have been opened by the Chicago board of health, according to an announcement yesterday by President Bundesen of the board. This service may be the means, said Dr. Bundesen, of saving the lives of hundreds of premature babies who die every year.

The ambulance and the milk station were made possible, Dr. Bundesen revealed, through the financial aid of Mayor Edward J. Kelly, whose adopted twins seven years ago were saved after an almost hopeless search for mother's milk.

"The babies, a boy and a girl, were tiny and very weak when they became ill," said Dr. Bundesen, "and the mayor was told that only mother's milk would save their lives. He telephoned me urgently one night and we searched until dawn before we found any natural milk. Then we got it in an infants' home in Evanston. Now the Kelly twins are a healthy pair of youngsters, as fine as can be found anywhere."

Nine out of every ten premature babies die unless they are breast fed or otherwise get mother's milk, Dr. Bundesen said, adding that 700 premature Chicago babies died last year.

All that the parents of a prematurely born baby will have to do is to call the board of health and the ambulance, with a doctor, a nurse and an incubator, will be sent immediately, the commissioner said.

The mother's milk supply station will be in operation within a week next door to the city hall office of Dr. Bundesen. Mothers able to supply milk will be paid four cents an ounce. The milk will be sealed in sanitary containers and delivered without charge to babies in need of it.

PLAN TO REPLACE TWO OLD SCHOOLS WITH A NEW ONE

The replacing of two obsolete elementary schools, the John McLaren at 1500 Flournoy street and the Thomas Jefferson at 1533 Elburn avenue, with one modern structure accommodating 1,500 pupils, was discussed yesterday by James B. McCahey, president of the school board, with public works administration officials. The school project is to fit in with the $13,500,000 west side PWA housing program now being planned, according to F. J. C. Dresser, PWA associate director of housing. Mr. McCahey said definite action on the project would be taken at a meeting of the school board.

G. O. P. ALDERMEN PRAISE MAYOR IN COUNCIL MEETING

Predict He'll Be Elected at Tuesday's Polls.

Mayor Kelly, Democratic nominee to succeed himself, yesterday heard Republican aldermen praise him and predict his election next Tuesday by a record majority. The occasion was the last regular meeting of the present city council and most of the leading Republicans on hand had some good words to say for the mayor.

Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th], the Republican floor leader, led off. "In my twelve years as a member of this body," he said, "I have never found a mayor who presided more impartially than Mr. Kelly. He is always accessible to the public and he gives his full time to the job.

"He has been completely nonpartisan and fair to the minority. My good wishes go with him and I predict his election."

Others Follow It Up.

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [Rep., 40th] said he knew a number of Republicans who would support the mayor.

Ald. John A. Massen [Rep., 48th] told the council that he had served under both Republican and Democratic mayors and that none had given him such fair treatment as Mayor Kelly.

Ald. Robert R. Jackson [3d] said that he also spoke for his colored colleague, Ald. William L. Dawson [3d]. He declared he believed Mr. Kelly would be elected by a 500,000 majority.

"The people of our race," Jackson added, "feel a deep sense of gratitude to the mayor for his activities in their behalf. I believe that the 2d and 3d wards will accord him the largest majority given a candidate for mayor in twenty years."

Ald. John F. Healy [6th] was another Republican who had kind words for the mayor.

Wetten Critizes Mayor.

Meanwhile Mr. Kelly was being criticised by his Republican opponent, Emil C. Wetten, in an address before 40 women in the headquarters of the Woman's National Republican Club of Chicago at the Drake hotel.

Mr. Wetten told his audience that he entered the Republican primary with the belief that Mayor Kelly would be the easiest man to defeat in the election and added that he still thought so.

He charged that the legislature adjourned last week until after the election so that the mayor would not be embarrassed. He predicted that immediately after the election the legislators would vote 38 millions in new taxes for relief.

"There are a lot of stories going around," Mr. Wetten said. "One is that I have a deal on with the mayor by which I would be defeated and in return would be given the De Young vacancy on the Illinois Supreme court. Of course it is not true. I wouldn't take that position if it was offered to me."

Mayor Kelly, Wetten added, promised the city a great program for its welfare "which turned out, when he announced it, to be merely a plan to put a Coney Island on the lake front."

ROOSEVELT WILL DIRECT HIS OWN WORKS SPENDING

Decides to Handle Five Billions Himself.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt personally will direct the gigantic 5 billion dollar work relief system, the White House secretariat announced today.

The announcement was made in order to dispose of reports that either Harry Hopkins, the present relief administrator, or Harold L. Ickes, the public works administrator, is to boss the undertaking. Each of these officials has incurred a lot of political liabilities which the administration is trying to live down.

Mr. Hopkins is involved in a row with the Democratic governor of Ohio, Mr. Davey, over relief patronage, inefficiency and graft which threatens to impair the enthusiasm of the Davey faction for the Roosevelt ticket next year. Mr. Ickes has alienated the affections of numerous Democratic senators and representatives by failure to cut the public works pie to their liking.

So Roosevelt Will Be Boss.

So the President himself is to be the big boss. He is to say how much money is to be allotted to this and that work relief project in this and that village, county, city and state. Each community is to be made aware that for the bounty received it is directly indebted to Mr. Roosevelt.

The President, according to the secretariat, is to be chairman of what is to be known as the allotment committee. Among the members will be Mr. Hopkins, Mr. Ickes and Admiral Christian J. Peoples, head of the procurement division of the treasury department, a long time personal friend of the President. It was Admiral Peoples who told the senate appropriations committee that one of the work relief projects in view involves the establishment of government filling stations along highways to sell gas to motorists.

This committee, with a vast staf at its command, will sift out the appeals, proposals and schemes for the spending of the 5 billions and put the final decisions on allotments up to the President.

Will Have Advisory Aid.

The allotment committee will be assisted by an advisory committee of business men, the functions of which will be to endeavor to keep the allotment committee anchored to practicalities and to make the work relief undertaking palatable to business.

The scheme was opposed by organized business from the start on the ground that it involved a tremendous increase of government competition with private enterprise, would cost 50 per cent more than the dole, thereby postponing still further the balancing of the budget, and make inflation a certainty.

Gen. Robert E. Wood of Chicago, head of Sears, Roebuck & Co., is to be chairman of the advisory committee. Secretary of Commerce Roper announced two other members today: Robert G. Elbert, New York manufacturer, and A. R. Glancy of Detroit, vice president of General Motors.

Tugwell to Have Big Rôle.

Undersecretary of Agriculture Rexford Guy Tugwell also will have an important rôle in the organization. He will have jurisdiction of all land utilization and conservation projects involving the expenditure of nearly a billion dollars of the huge work relief fund.

The President expects to be able to take 3½ million persons off the relief rolls and provide them work on the multitude of projects that are to be undertaken. There are already 2,300,000 persons employed on work relief under the Hopkins organization. The following table shows the types of work relief and the number employed last December.

Type of project	No. of projects.	No. of employed.

FRED A. POOR, CHICAGO MANUFACTURER HURT IN FALL, RECOVERS

Miami, Fla., March 27.—[Special.]—Fred Arthur Poor, 65 years old, president of Poor & Co., Chicago railway supply manufacturers, was reported today as out of danger from the serious effects of a fall from a horse at the polo grounds in Miami Beach.

The accident occurred March 4 while Mr. Poor was riding with David J. Molloy of Lake Forest, Ill., which is Mr. Poor's summer home. Mr. Poor's horse stepped into a hole and threw its rider to the ground, then rolled on top of him.

Mr. Poor was taken to St. Francis hospital unconscious. A reconstruction operation was performed on his jaw and only a few scars remain. However, toxic poisoning and pneumonia developed, and for many days Mr. Poor's life was despaired of. His daughter, Mrs. Charles W. Canfield of Lake Forest, hurried here the day after the accident to be with her father and mother.

The Poors have been living at their winter home in Miami Beach since last Christmas. At the request of the family hospital authorities did not report Mr. Poor's accident to the police until today.

SPENDS BILLIONS OVER INCOME FOR NEW DEAL

Relief Costs in Lead; PWA Comes Second.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Soaring faster than ever before in peace time history, federal government expenditures for the 1935 fiscal year today passed the 5 billion dollar mark.

In the nine months since the fiscal year opened on July 1, 1934, the New Deal has poured out a grand total of 5 billion 6 million dollars. Revenue, meanwhile, has amounted to only 2 billion 827 million dollars, leaving the government in the red by 2 billion 179 million dollars.

Spend $13,000 a Minute.

New Deal spending has been at an average of $13,000 a minute for every minute, day and night, in the nine months since the fiscal year began. This is the heaviest spending rate ever set by the government, except during the world war.

Total expenditures are expected to reach about 7½ billion dollars, a new peace-time record, before the last three months of the bookkeeping year are over. Expenditures this year are running about 300 million dollars ahead of those of a year ago.

Unemployment relief has been the largest drain on the taxpayers' pocketbook. The relief administration has spent 820 million dollars of money appropriated for it and requisitioned an additional 488 million dollars from the funds of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, making total relief costs thus far 1 billion 308 million dollars.

Public Works Next Spender.

The public works administration, the costly attempt to prime the pump of business is the next largest tax eater, having poured out 819 million dollars in nine months. Other heavy items of expenditures are the agricultural adjustment program, the interest on the ever-mounting public debt, and the veterans' administration.

An increase in revenue over a year ago, due to increased taxation, has accompanied the upward swing in spending. Revenues thus far this fiscal year aggregate 2 billion 827 million dollars, compared with 2 billion 281 millions on the same date a year ago, a gain of 546 million dollars. Increased processing and income taxes are responsible for most of this gain.

Credit Standing Strain.

Despite the mounting expenditures, the government's credit is not as yet impaired. The treasury has been able to refund almost all of its bonds with approaching maturities. When the last of the fourth liberty loan is called for redemption, a move which the treasury is expected to make on April 15, all bond refunding will be out of the way until 1940. No federal bond will be outstanding with a call date earlier than that year.

Limit Hours of Work.

According to information obtained from the relief administration, the workers on these projects are paid the prevailing hourly rate of pay in their community. The number of hours worked per month is limited, however, to the number which, when multiplied by the prevailing hourly wage, will provide total earnings estimated to be sufficient to furnish the bare necessities of life to the worker and his family. The procedure followed in placing an unemployed worker on the rolls involves a home investigation by a "case worker," who inquires into the amount of income from odd jobs, aid from relatives, or any other source.

The amount of money to provide the family with the necessities of life is then estimated. From this estimated budget any income is subtracted, and the difference represents the amount of relief granted to the family. This figure is known as the "budgetary deficiency."

With this "deficiency" established for the family, the worker is allowed to work the number of hours on the relief program which, at the prevailing wage rate, provides an amount equal to his "budgetary deficiency." The average hours worked per month by workers on relief projects is approximately 56.

Pay Averages $27 a Month.

Inasmuch as extra allowances are necessary for those working to provide carfare or other transportation to and from the job, the necessary shoes, clothing, and other items, the earnings per person working on the relief projects average about $27 per month, as compared with $20 per month for families receiving direct relief only. The $27 represents the average for work relief throughout the country, the monthly wage ranging from as little as $10 or $11 per month in some of the southern states to $50 per month in some of the northern states on the Atlantic seaboard.

Expenditures for material, rental of equipment, and for services of supervisors and highly skilled workers, when such persons are not available from the relief rolls, bring the total cost per worker on the present work program to about $35 per month.

The conference committee on the work relief bill considered the divergent provisions of the house and senate bills for three hours today without reaching any conclusions.

Moody Refuses to Sign Waiver in Hijack Quiz

Former Assistant United States Attorney Lloyd C. Moody yesterday exercised his constitutional privelege by refusing to sign an immunity waiver and testify before a federal grand jury which has been investigating for several weeks the manner of granting probation in hijacking cases. Moody, who formerly was in charge of the prosecution of hijackers, was excused from testifying.

FREED OF FENCE CHARGES.

Judge Matthew D. Hartigan dismissed yesterday charges of receiving stolen property against Clarence Lieder, 2556 Division street, when he disclaimed all knowledge of stolen sponges and chamois skins found in his garage.

ILLINOIS HOUSE TOURISTS FAIL TO CHANGE FERA

Hopkins' Aid Talks to Them.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Illinois still will have to pay 3 million dollars a month toward relief costs in that state, despite the plea which the so-called "cherry blossom junket" of Illinois legislators laid before the federal relief administration today.

Neither did the five junketeers succeed in persuading the FERA that the Illinois relief administration should be reorganized so that the main responsibility would be shifted back to county organizations.

Thus, although the junketeers saw Mount Vernon, historic home of George Washington, and the budding cherry blossoms which make the capital city a mecca each spring, the Illinois relief situation remains about as it was before the five legislators came. Those on the junket were Representatives Benjamin Adamowski, Thomas Sinnett, Lawrence Arnold, Leroy Green, and David Swanson.

Escorted by almost the entire Illinois delegation in the national house, the five junketeers called this noon on Aubrey Williams, acting relief administrator while Administrator Harry L. Hopkins basks in the Florida sun.

Mr. Williams explained at length and in technical details how the relief administration had determined that Illinois should contribute 3 million dollars a month to relief costs. He is understood to have turned a deaf ear on the plea that it be cut to 2 millions a month or that the Illinois system be reorganized.

MAY BOOST COTTON TAX, WALLACE SAYS; INDUSTRY ANGERED

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—Fast moving developments tonight found the cotton textile industry more disturbed than at any time since the general strike last September.

Within twenty-four hours after NRA, in a move calculated to avert wholesale closing of cotton mills, issued an order providing for production curtailment over a twelve week period, Secretary Wallace announced at a press conference there was probability the cotton processing tax would be increased, rather than reduced, as demanded by textile communities.

Wallace's statement brought down the indignation of New England house members. A move was launched for a conference of the New England delegation to prepare a censuring resolution to be sent to Wallace, and to be presented to both houses of congress.

Labor already was directing its fire at the NRA for its order providing for production curtailment, and announced it would demand from the national recovery board a reopening of the cotton textile code and a new, impartial survey of the entire industry.

Representatives Rogers [Rep., Mass.] asserted that "any increase in the cotton processing tax will mean a death blow to New England cotton Mills."

Open Bids Today on First Equipment for Sewage Plant

Bids on the first equipment to be constructed for the new southwest side sewage treatment plant, 39th street and 64th avenue, will be opened today by the sanitary district board, it was announced yesterday by Ross A. Woodhull, president. The bids will be on aeration and final settling tanks, sludge removal mechanism, Venturi meters, and valve sluice gates.

PATLAK SWINDLE TRIAL RESTED IN CRIMINAL COURT

The state yesterday rested its case against Attorney David Y. Patlak, who is charged in the Criminal court of Judge Walter P. Steffen with swindling August F. Krieter of Evanston of $1,223 while posing as a tax "fixer." The attorney was exposed about a year ago as having swindled numerous holders of real estate through posing either as a tax fixer or having enough political influence to get federal home loans. He was adjudged insane in the Criminal court soon afterward and was sent to the Illinois Security hospital at Menard.

Patlak was released from the hospital several months ago, was ordered rearrested by State's Attorney Courtney, and was adjudged sane. The first defense witness yesterday was Dr. James M. McManus, managing officer of the hospital, who testified that Patlak was insane when received at the institution, but since has recovered. The defense in the case is that Patlak, having been insane at the time of his acts, is not legally responsible and should be released.

EXPERT TELLS HOW TO GET KICK FROM GASOLINE

Kansas City, Mo., March 27.—(AP)—Dr. Gustav Egloff, petroleum refining engineer of Chicago, told the Missouri Oil Men's association today that plans to mix grain alcohol with gasoline for motor fuel might make "every filling station a potential speakeasy."

"Every one knows that when water is added to a mixture of gasoline and alcohol the gas goes to the top and the water and alcohol form the bottom layer," he said.

"One would then need only to drain off the gasoline and add a little solvent to dissolve the remaining gasoline. When fruit juices have been added to the mixture you have what might be called a respectable concoction."

JURY CONVICTS 3 YOUNG MEN IN TAVERN HOLDUP

John Petrzak, 23 years old, 5057 West 32d street, Cicero, his brother, Frank, 20, and Harold Jankowski, 21, of 5217 West 30th street, Cicero, were found guilty of robbery yesterday by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Cornelius J. Harrington. Judge Harrington immediately overruled new trial motions for John Petrzak and Jankowski and sentenced them to one year to life in the penitentiary, but continued a motion to vacate the jury's guilty finding for Frank Petrzak.

After the verdict Jankowski and John Petrzak declared the latter's brother was not one of the robber gang.

The three were convicted of taking $30 from Anthony Planowski and $90 from the customers of his tavern at 5217 Archer avenue on Jan. 25.

SCOTTISH AUTHOR NAMED CANADA'S ROYAL GOVERNOR

LONDON, March 27.—(AP)—John Buchan, Scottish author and parliamentarian, was appointed by King George today as the next governor-general of Canada. He will succeed the earl of Bessborough, whose term expires in the fall.

"I am extremely proud to have been chosen as his majesty's representative in Canada," said Buchan in his first statement, "and not less proud to be given a chance of serving Canada."

When the appointment was signed Buchan automatically ceased to be a member of the house of commons.

It is taken for granted that Buchan, the first "commoner" to be appointed his majesty's representative in the dominion, will be elevated to the peerage, in which case he may return to the house of lords.

When You Buy COAL OR COKE

Insist on Certified Weight!

The Chicago Coal Merchants Association, in cooperation with City Law Enforcing Officers and the Better Business Bureau, makes this appeal in behalf of every fuel user in Chicago.

City ordinances, intended to protect fuel buyers against unscrupulous coal dealers, can be made more effective with your cooperation.

Do not accept any coal or coke until you are first presented with a delivery ticket showing signature of weighmaster, total weight, vehicle weight and fuel weight (listed as gross, tare and net weights). The official seal of a public weighmaster, bonded and licensed for the year 1935 by the city of Chicago, should be stamped over these figures.

Reputable coal merchants have complied willingly with this ordinance. Beware of those who do not. Do not allow your coal or coke to be unloaded without this assurance of certified weight.

EIGHT U. S. WOMEN PRACTICE KNEE BENDING FOR KING

Prepare for First British Royal Court Tonight.

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—When thousands of lights begin to scintillate in the crystal candelabra at Buckingham palace tomorrow night they will announce to the drab world that their Britannic majesties, King George and Queen Mary, are holding the first court of their silver jubilee celebrations. A second court will be held Friday night.

More official than succeeding courts, the first of four will be attended by the entire diplomatic corps to the Court of St. James in all the sartorial splendor conceived by the sixty-five nations represented.

Among the 2,000 guests, six American debutantes and two American matrons will be present at the palace by royal command through recommendations of the American ambassador, Robert Worth Bingham.

The American Guests.

They are:

Miss Mary Pye Hutcheson of Houston, Tex., daughter of Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, United States district judge of southern Texas; Miss Jeanne Millet of New York City, Miss Carolyn Nash, daughter of Capt. Francis S. Nash, retired, and Mrs. Nash of Washington, D. C.

Miss Anne Richardson of Mississippi, daughter of the American diplomat and writer Norval Richardson, of Hyeres, France; Miss Stellita Stapleton of Washington, D. C.; Miss Jean Watts of Lynchburg, Va.; Mrs. Gaspar Bacon of Jamaica Plain, Boston, Mass., wife of a former lieutenant governor of Massachusetts and daughter-in-law of Robert Bacon, former minister to France; Mrs. Medley G. B. Whelpley of Greenwich, Conn., wife of the international banker.

Accompanying Mrs. Bingham, wife of the American ambassador, will be Mrs. Jesse Isidor Straus, wife of the American ambassador to France, and Mrs. Hiram Bingham Jr., wife of the third secretary of the American embassy, who is a son of former Senator Bingham of Connecticut.

Other Embassy Women.

The other embassy women who will be presented among the diplomatic corps are:

Mrs. Hugh Millard of Nebraska, wife of a secretary of the American embassy; Mrs. Cortlandt Parker of Boston, wife of Lieut. Col. Parker, military attaché of the American embassy; Mrs. Hayes A. Croner, wife of Maj. Croner, assistant military attaché; Mrs. Walter S. Anderson, wife of Capt. Anderson, naval attaché; Mrs. Leslie C. Stevens, wife of Lieutenant Commander Stevens, naval attaché for aviation; Mrs. James Somerville Jr., wife of the commercial attaché.

At the private residence of the ambassador today, Mrs. Bingham had an unofficial tea party for the American women who have received the royal command. It was a function "not in the record," but was very important, as at this time the procedure of presentation was fully explained.

Chairs Represent Royalty.

With two chairs representing their majesties the Americans were taught to take so many steps forward, to curtsy, then to take three steps more, curtsy again, and then execute the difficult procedure of backing out. At this time, also, Mrs. Bingham announced the allocation of cars.

As usual, the queen, who is the arbiter of social decorum, has requested the women not to smoke in the cars waiting in the quadrangle or in the forecourt. The women are reminded, principally through their dressmakers, that the queen does not like extreme décolleté or bare arms.

Trains, therefore, are designed to conceal the back and long gloves and epaulettes reconcile the usual evening gown with the court requirements.

WHO SPONSORS WHOM.

The sponsorship of presentees in the Court of St. James is considered a choice morsel of political patronage. The state department in Washington and the American embassy in London refuse to relieve the curiosity of ordinary Americans as to who sponsors whom for presentation to their majesties, on the ground that such things are not discussed.

But incumbent senators of the home states of those women who curtsy before the king and queen are usually credited with sponsoring them. On this basis the following senators would be considered responsible for the presentation of the members of the American group tomorrow:

Senator Tom Connally or Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas; Senator Royal S. Copeland or Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York; Senator Harry F. Byrd or Senator Carter Glass of Virginia; Senator David I. Walsh or Senator Marcus A. Coolidge of Massachusetts; Senator Francis T. Maloney or Senator Augustine Lonegan of Connecticut.

Two of tomorrow's group are from Washington, D. C., and their sponsors are not so easily determined. Miss Anne Richardson is the daughter of an American now permanently living in France, but her home is given as Mississippi, which would indicate that Senator Theodore G. Bilbo or Senator Pat Harrison should be credited.

WILL GO TO COURT

Miss Mildred Booth McKinney of Richmond, Va., who will be presented at court in London Friday by Mrs. Robert W. Bingham, wife of the American ambassador.

MEAT BOYCOTT IN LOS ANGELES WINS CONVERTS

Housewives' League Is at Head of Move.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 27.—[Special.]—Through massmeetings and house to house canvasses militant Los Angeles housewives have launched a boycott on butchers. Estimates of the households pledged to meatless meals vary from 3,000 to 10,000. Organizers of the vegetarian move believe they will have 50,000 women pledged against meat within another week.

According to figures given out today by the association of meat packers, the public demand for meat has shown a definite slacking within the week. Ordinarily 9,000 cattle are butchered for Los Angeles consumption each week. Less than 8,500 will be butchered this week.

Predict Worse Conditions.

A joint statement was issued today by Los Angeles Union stockyards, Los Angeles Live Stock exchange, and Institute of Meat Packers, attributing rising meat costs to the drouth and the government's farm program. The meat dealers called the housewives' uprising a reaction "to uncontrollable conditions which will make conditions worse."

The Housewives' league of Los Angeles, which was organized in 1920 and of which Mrs. Margaret G. Dall is president, has been a leader in the campaign. Mrs. Dall said telephone calls, house to house visits, and neighborhood meetings are being invoked. The league is spreading the gospel of back yard vegetable gardens.

Forced Ice Price Cut.

The league in 1926 launched a fight against ice dealers and forced the price downward in that hot summer.

J. A. McNaughton, vice president of Los Angeles Union stockyards, tonight said:

"Prices of meat are 25 per cent lower here than they were in 1930. These steps that are being threatened are hysterical and unfounded."

McNaughton said "a communistic element is trying to stir up trouble."

MISS ATWATER TO TELL OF RUSSIA.

Conditions in soviet Russia will be described by Miss Helen Atwater at the meeting of the American Vigilant Intelligence federation in Roosevelt hall in the State-Lake building tonight. Miss Atwater recently returned to her Chicago home after a tour of Russia.

JAPAN SPEEDS PLAN TO EXPEL RIVALS FROM ASIA

Britain, U. S. Get Sharp Replies on Oil Protest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 27.—Development of Japan's plan to carry out its "Asia for Asiatics" slogan was plainly reflected in its vigorous reply yesterday to the British protest over the alleged Manchukuo oil monopoly, it became evident today. The note denied charges by Great Britain and the United States that treaty provisions have been violated by the so-called monopoly.

Two other historic events in the last few days serve to emphasize that the Japanese intend to devote their attention to eastern Asia and let the rest of the world shift for itself. These events are the completion of the deal for the purchase of the soviet Russia interest in the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchukuo and the coming into effect today of Japan's resignation from the league of nations.

Plan to Quicken Pace.

The Japanese penetration of Asia to the exclusion of European and American interest is now expected to go forward at an accelerated pace under the leadership of Koki Hirota, foreign minister.

The next few months are regarded as crucial, particularly as the tense European situation is expected to keep the western powers busy chasing peace and security for all of them at the same time.

The strong wording of the reply to Great Britain, an almost identical copy of which is destined for the United States, indicates that the Nipponese intend to back their contention that "Manchukuo constitutes an immutable factor in Japan's policy" to the limit.

Japan to Act Alone.

The note also asserted that Japan will act alone. Rumors of a military alliance with Germany were described as ludicrous. The Japanese army is fully prepared to take on the soviets without outside assistance at any time, it is declared.

While the drastic reply removes any remaining vestige of doubt that Japan is determined to assert its paramount interest in eastern Asia, government officials insist that this does not mean that Japan has slammed the open door in Manchukuo. The price of the open door is given as recognition, but trade relations, spokesmen claim, will also be maintained with those nations who look sympathetically upon Manchukuo yet who do not recognize her.

In support of this statement, it was pointed out that members of the Federation of British Industries who recently visited Manchukuo were given heavy orders.

Japan, Russia Draw Closer.

MOSCOW, March 27.—(AP)—An exchange of cables between the foreign ministers of Russia and Japan today indicated an effort to iron out any difficulties between the two nations now that the transfer of the Chinese Eastern railway from the soviet government to Manchukuo has been effected.

Foreign Minister Hirota expressed the belief that the same "spirit of cooperaton" which led to the railway agreement "will guarantee a friendly solution of other remaining questions between the U. S. S. S. and Japan and will help us to continue to strengthen peace in the eastern part of Asia."

Maxim Litvinoff, Russian commissar for foreign affairs, replied: "I am sure of our further fruitful cooperation for the abolition of all reasons for conflicts and misunderstandings."

BROMFIELD TEARS HIS SHIP TICKET, BUT IT'S SALVAGED

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Louis Bromfield, novelist and playwright, sailed on the steamship Manhattan of the United States lines for his home in France today, but he came very near being left behind. Mr. Bromfield, it seems, thoughtlessly tore up his ticket before boarding the ship.

The writer was driven to the pier in a taxicab. On the way down he busied himself disposing of a bundle of old papers. Going through the papers hurriedly as the cab rattled along Bromfield began tearing up the documents he didn't need.

When they asked him for his ticket aboard the ship Bromfield began fishing in his pockets without success. The ticket wasn't there. Then it dawned on him that he might have left it in that bundle of papers in the cab.

He dispatched a boy back to the pier with the vague instructions to find the cab that had brought him down. How it happened nobody knows, least of all Mr. Bromfield, but a few minutes before sailing time the boy returned. He had the ticket—or pieces of it. He had found it, he said, in a taxicab waiting at the pier. So Mr. Bromfield was able to sail on the Manhattan at noon with 499 other passengers.

ACCEPT 4 JURORS AS SURPRISE IN BUS STRIKE TRIAL

CRIMINAL COURT.

Shannon White, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Charles Edwards and Daniel Tufano, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Jesse Payne, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

John Petrzak and Harold Jankowski, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Cornelius Harrington.

Four jurors were accepted unexpectedly by both the state and defense yesterday in the trial of twenty-four men on charges of conspiracy and assault to murder that grew out of the bus strike called last August, and were sworn in by Judge Donald S. McKinlay of the Criminal court. Selection of the jury started Monday.

Ralph Stoltzmann, president of the striking bus drivers' union, local No. 1022, and Joseph J. Kehoe and William Taber, officials of the street car men's union, head the list of defendants. The others are either members of the two unions or alleged hired sluggers.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 16; recovered, 20; stripped, none [from police records for the twenty-four hours ending midnight Tuesday].

Herman Stoeckecht, 32 years old, already facing a one year to life sentence on which he had been paroled, was held to the grand jury in total bonds of $150,000 on eight new robbery charges by Judge Joseph B. Graber in the Automobile court yesterday. Stoeckecht was the companion of Anthony Ignatius who was shot and killed when the two fled from a policeman who had recognized their car as having been stolen.

WITNESS GIVES ALIBI FOR WOMAN 'BRAINS OF SPIES'

Takes Back Accusation of Mme. Stahl.

PARIS, March 27.—(AP)—A prosecution witness, hysterical on the stand, helped Mme. Lydia Stahl today in her effort to resist espionage charges being heard by a secret court against her and twenty others, including Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, Americans.

Mme. Stahl, an almond eyed Russian woman of 43, emerged from the courtroom with her eyes glowing and her face radiant.

She thanked her lawyer for gaining a surprise retraction from a weeping witness, Mme. Kaminka. The latter collapsed in a fit of sobbing shortly after testifying that Mme. Stahl, an ardent communist, went to New York to study political science with the intention of aiding "the cause," presumably referring to communism.

Death of Son "a Sign."

The collapse came as the court asked Mme. Kaminka to confirm previous testimony before an investigating magistrate in which she quoted Mme. Stahl as saying the death of her son was "a sign I must devote myself to espionage."

"Tell the truth, tell the truth," cried Mme. Stahl, who had been a friend of the witness for 25 years.

"I misunderstood," the witness sobbed. "What she told me was, 'It was a sign I must devote myself to the cause.'"

Mme. Stahl, who was said to have exerted an influence over Louis Pierre Martin, French translator in the navy ministry, smilingly denied the charges that she was the "brains" of the spies allegedly working for soviet Russia. She denied she attempted to get secrets from Martin or that she bought photographic equipment.

Purchased Cameras.

Detectives said they had reason to believe that she photographed naval plans; shopkeepers testified they had sold her cameras.

The defense indicated it would contend that Mme. Stahl was innocent of any connection with other spy suspects, which testimony of the Switzes tended to corroborate. Mrs. Switz declared she did not know Mme. Stahl until all the defendants went to prison 15 months ago.

The prosecution introduced testimony from several agents who said they had trailed Mme. Stahl several years and charged that she was linked with Arvid Jacobson, the American who, with 28 others, was convicted of espionage in Finland in February, 1934. Mme. Stahl, however, continued to smile and deny the charges.

Germany Sentences Spy.

BERLIN, March 27.—Frieda Wittman, 25, of Konstanz today was sentenced by the People's court to twelve years penal servitude for betraying of military secrets. The official announcement did not disclose where the trial was held, or which foreign country was involved, but added that the defendant was also deprived of civil rights for a further ten years.

Britain Miserly with Funds for Idle, Lloyd George Says

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—A new attack on the government for failing to initiate a large program of public works to assist the unemployed was made tonight at Newcastle by the fiery war time prime minister, David Lloyd George.

Speaking to 4,000 persons after a two day visit to "derelict areas" in northern England he asserted that the funds the government offered in such regions are only a fiftieth of what is necessary.

"Let the state first of all cut a straight road through the quaking bog," he said. "Private enterprise soon will follow."

Guide to Industry.

Unless the state showed the way, he said, no private enterprise would incur a financial risk, "on the off chance that a millennium is loitering around the corner." He remarked there is plenty of money available for state projects.

He was encouraged, he said, to note that Lord Philip Snowden, former Laborite chancellor of the exchequer, had found that his new deal, now being studied by the cabinet, is financially sound.

Lloyd George said it would be a good thing if parliament would meet at least once every session in the desolate industrial areas instead of always in the academic calm of Westminster, for it would realize what the country was undergoing.

Both free trade and tariffs have been tried and exhausted to the limit, Lloyd George asserted, adding:

"Unless protection is supplemented by some other scheme or plan, it cannot remove the troubles under which this country has been laboring for the last forty years."

Six Billions Spent.

Already six billion dollars have been spent in trying to end unemployment, he declared, but asserted the problem still remained.

A new plan to help the jobless came forth today from the national committee of the Conservative party, which which is boss of the national government. It recommended that an additional sum of $2.50 a week be paid to all persons pensioned at 65 years of age on condition that they leave work. This, it was stated, would provide work for a million young men now idle.

The scheme would be contributory, with the state paying a third, employers paying a third, and the workers a third—an additional 9 cents a week by each.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE

HOUSE APPROVES 38 MILLION FOR STRONGER NAVY

Plan Increase in Pacific Shore Defenses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—The navy had its inning in the house of representatives today. With little opposition, the members passed a series of bills providing for a $38,000,000 strengthening of shore defenses, increases of 1,000 in officer personnel and the creation of aviation cadets in the naval reserve.

Most of the 38 millions authorized would be used for naval construction in the Pacific area. Representative Vito Marcantonio [Rep., N. Y.], objected to the bill on the grounds that it was "deliberately waving the war flag on the Pacific coast."

"This isn't for war. It's for national defense," contended Representative Melvin J. Maas [Rep., Minn.].

Approved by President.

Chairman Carl Vinson [Dem., Ga.], of the house naval affairs committee, asserted that the proposed expenditures had been approved by the administration and the director of the budget. The bill was then passed on a viva voce vote.

The major item in the program would be for construction at the Pearl Harbor navy yard, Hawaii. Plans call for the expenditure of more than 13 millions for drydocks, mooring facilities, shop buildings, barracks, and quarters for officers.

At the Mare Island navy yard in California, $4,500,000 would be spent for a drydock and storehouse and about the same amount would go to improvements of the Puget sound navy lard in Washington.

Other Expenditures Authorized.

Other expenditures called for in the bill included:

Naval station, Balboa, Canal Zone; naval station, Tutuila, Samoa; torpedo station, Newport, R. I.; ammunition depot, Puget Sound; ammunition depots, Balboa and Coco Solo, Canal Zone; naval training station, San Diego, Cal.; submarine bases at Pearl Harbor and Coco Solo; fleet air base, Pearl Harbor, and radio receiving stations at Washington, D. C., Oahu [Hawaii], Balboa and other points in the Canal Zone.

The bill increasing the officers in the navy was necessary because of the building of new warships, according to Vinson. He said that the navy department planned to build up the officer strength by obtaining appropriations for four appointments for each congressman to the naval academy at Annapolis in 1935 and five appointments in 1936 and thereafter. Appointments had been limited to three.

The present authorized strength of line officers in the navy is 5,499 and the bill would increase the number eventually to 6,531.

The aviation cadets, provided for in another bill approved by the house, would be recruited from colleges and universities. They would be appointed by the secretary of the navy to serve on active duty for four years and at the completion of this period they would be eligible for commission in the naval or marine corps reserve.

A year of training at the naval air station, Pensacola, Fla., would be given to the cadets.

HOSPITALS CARE FOR ONE IN 17 IN U. S. IN A YEAR

A survey of hospitals in the United States recently completed by the American Medical association reveals that one person in seventeen was hospitalized in 1934. The average stay was fourteen days, but its duration in federal, state, and county hospitals was considerably higher than in proprietary and corporation institutions, according to the figures.

There are 6,334 hospitals in the country, a decrease of 103 from 1933, with an average daily census of 830,098 patients. The annual hospital number of the Journal of the American Medical association, to be issued on Saturday, discusses the survey's findings.

An editorial attacks a suggestion for federal public works funds to construct 500 or 600 hospitals in rural areas. The editorial points out that during the year urban hospitals had only 37.6 per cent of their beds unoccupied, while the figure for hospitals in rural sections was 49.8.

ILLINOIS SECOND IN DISCIPLINING BAR MEMBERS

Only California Punishes More; System Strict.

More lawyers charged with unethical conduct have been suspended, disbarred, or otherwise disciplined in Illinois during the last five years than in any other state save California. This fact was disclosed yesterday when the American Bar association, which has headquarters at 1140 North Dearborn street, announced results of a national survey of penalties imposed on unethical attorneys.

The survey was made as one of the first steps in the national Bar association's campaign to "purge the profession of unethical practitioners."

According to Scott M. Loftin, president, the campaign is a part of the association's response to the call issued by Attorney General Cummings who recently asked every bar association and court in the United States to coöperate with the government in detesting, seizing, and punishing the small group of lawyers who participate in criminal enterprises.

The Comparative Records.

From 1929 through 1934, a hundred lawyers received reprimands, 24 were suspended, and 88 were disbarred from future practice in Illinois, the survey disclosed. During the same years in California 88 attorneys received reprimands, 95 were suspended, and 92 were disbarred.

In that same interval only two lawyers were disbarred in each of the following states, Arizona, Iowa, Mississippi, North Carolina, Utah, Vermont and Wyoming. Nevada and Rhode Island each disbarred one lawyer.

Nevertheless, instead of indicating that California and Illinois lawyers are less honest than lawyers in other states, according to Will Shafroth, director of the survey, these figures indicate that there are no agencies in the other states to which the public may make effective complaints against unethical treatment.

The Proposed "Ideal" System.

The ideal system for regulation of the profession, according to most lawyers, is that employed in the "integrated bar states." Under this system every lawyer in the state is a member of a statewide association and is subject to disciplinary proceedings instituted by the board of governors through committees. Generally the committees may subpena witnesses, require oaths, and hold private hearings. Sixteen states now have in force variations of this system.

The second system is that employed in Illinois, where bar committees function under court rule. Some states have developed efficient methods of controling their legal practitioners under this system and some have not, the survey showed. Illinois, according to Director Shafroth, has a very efficient method, which accounts for the number of attorneys disciplined. There are thirteen other states which have this system in one form or another.

Just Rely on Conscience.

In 19 states the bar association committees function entirely without statutory authority. In most of these, the report states, "there is little but the conscience of the attorneys to govern ethics."

In Arkansas, Georgia, Indiana, North Carolina, Texas and Wyoming, attorneys accused of unethical conduct are entitled to trial by a jury of laymen. This procedure the association's report heartily condemned.

SENATOR HASTINGS' GREAT SPEECH.

The speech of Senator Hastings of Delaware in the closing debate on the 5 billion dollar pork barrel bill was a most distinguished performance. Probably it was the speech of the session. When Mr. Hastings sat down there was nothing left to be said about the bill and mighty little to be said about the administration.

The quality of the address is suggested by Mr. Hastings' sharp observation that the bill "placed in the hands of one man more power than any good man should want and more than any other kind of a man ought to have." In those few words the case against not only the easy money bill, but the whole New Deal program as well, is summarized. Mr. Hastings' phrase will be heard again and again in the months to come.

It was a deadly speech. It exposed the abject surrender of the Democratic majority in congress to the will of the President and went on to show that the trust reposed in him was misplaced. The money has been spent unwisely and distributed unfairly, and the amounts involved are so staggering that the credit of the government is strained and the confidence of business men is shaken.

At this point Mr. Hastings' argument consisted of little more than extended quotations from the speeches and state papers of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. The senator read Mr. Roosevelt's well-reasoned attacks upon the extravagance of the Hoover administration and showed how petty those squanderings were in comparison to ones which Mr. Roosevelt has instituted. Mr. Roosevelt's forecast of the ruin which awaited the nation if the squandering did not cease promptly was quoted, together with Mr. Roosevelt's pledge to reduce the expenditures of government and balance the budget.

Finally, Senator Hastings read from Mr. Roosevelt's budget messages to show how little the President has been bound by his own word. The man who promised no more deficits has piled up 12 billion dollars of deficit. Each time he has asked for money to prime the pump he has forecast that the spending about to be undertaken would be the last of its kind, and each time he has come back for larger appropriations.

"In view of these facts," asked Mr. Hastings, "how dare we depend entirely upon what the President says will happen to the country if we appropriate this huge sum of money and leave it to him to spend?"

No one arose to answer that question. Mr. Hastings had done much more than charge bad faith and bad judgment. He had proved both charges to the hilt. No attempt to answer him was made because no answer was possible.

TEACHERS' LOYALTY.

Mrs. Florence Hanson, an official of the American Federation of Teachers, told a gathering of the Illinois State Teachers' association, according to news report, that absolutism in government and industry is at the bottom of the proposal to require teachers to take an oath to support the constitution. She is of opinion that it is unjust to segregate teachers as a class and for public officials, in this case the lawmaking branch of government, to set up standards for the teachers. At the same meeting Mr. Robert C. Moore, executive secretary of the Illinois Teachers' association, also urged the teachers to oppose the oath bill and another measure requiring a teacher to reside in the district of teaching.

As for the injustice of the alleged segregation, the President of the United States in a solemn public ceremony takes oath that he will "faithfully execute" the office of President and will to the best of his ability "preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States." All the officials of the federal government, including all the judiciary, army and navy officers and men, congressmen and administrative officials, are required to take the oath of loyalty. In the state of Illinois and in every other state it is required of all important officials, executive, legislative and judicial. This includes all lawyers. If the teachers feel segregated, they have very large and distinguished company.

What the officials of teachers' organizations want for teachers is freedom to teach their notions of government though hostile to the constitution. They want segregation for the teachers, official segregation to attack its constitution and teach disloyalty to the youth in their charge.

There is in truth no official from whom a solemn pledge to preserve, protect and defend the constitution ought to be more invariably required than the teacher. No one who refuses to take it and faithfully abide by it in his or her professional function should be admitted to teach in our public schools.

That officials of a national association of teachers should object to the oath of loyalty is evidence that subversive purposes exist in the teaching body, no doubt among a minority, but a minority influential enough to be voted into office in teachers' associations. Isn't it time for the sensible and loyal majority to assert itself and select its own representatives and mouthpieces? At any rate, these officials have unintentionally given the legislature reason to enact the law they object to.

Another measure objected to at this gathering requires teachers to reside in the district in which they teach. We do not know the reasons advanced for this requirement. It seems to us to be of doubtful expediency and subject to fair objections. It may often be desirable from the point of view of the teacher's health, comfort and morale that she should live in another district. We can see no public advantage in this restriction and it ought not to be imposed unless the public interest is clearly shown to outweigh the reasonable preferences of the individual. There is too great a tendency these days to encroach upon liberty.

DEATH ON THE HIGHWAYS.

With the year only eighty-five days old Tuesday, Chicago's trafic toll stood at 172 deaths and 3,310 injuries. According to statistics ninety-eight per cent of the accidents could have been avoided with a system of elevated highways, but that is something for the future. What can be done now?

Perhaps it will be futile, but it is the purpose of this editorial to emphasize to all Chicagoans the danger that lurks at every intersection. We wish to impress upon each of them more forcibly, if that is possible, the thought that he may be included in the next list of victims. May the motorist and chauffeur better realize the tremendous force dependent upon his control as well as the awfulness of being charged with the death of a fellow being. Perhaps a trafic court will exonerate him, but that will not efface the impression on his memory.

PARNASSUS IN VIRGINIA.

The Virginia Quarterly Review, celebrating its tenth anniversary, devotes its current issue exclusively to the work of southern writers, an appropriate departure from the general plan of the magazine, which was founded at the University of Virginia as "a national journal of discussion." An imposing list of contributors during the last decade testifies how well the ambitious project of the founders has been fulfilled. The quarterly is both a credit to American letters and a further testimonial to the extent to which the university at which it is published has preserved its admirable individuality—a too rare accomplishment among American colleges today.

RIOTS IN NEW YORK.

Mayor La Guardia of New York has appointed a commission to investigate the rioting in Harlem a few days ago. He wants to know how it got started and how it might have been prevented.

This proves that your best friends won't tell you. Mayor La Guardia must be the only man conversant with affairs in New York who doesn't know that the mayor himself is principally responsible for the disorders. For years he preached his radical creed in and out of congress. When he became mayor it was only natural that large numbers of citizens thought he had meant what he had been saying. The turbulent record of his administration is the consequence.

New York for many years has been a haven for revolutionaries, but they have seldom had reason to regard the mayor as an ally. The fact that the relief services in New York today are providing employment to scores, if not hundreds, of communists is not without its significance. Mr. La Guardia can hardly blame his police for failing to act more promptly and vigorously in view of the doubt which must exist in their minds of which side the boss is on.

Mr. La Guardia has played with fire for years and now appoints a commission to find out how his fingers came to be burned. It is a good deal as if Br'er Polecat were to appoint a commission to discover why all the barnyard animals are complaining about the state of the drains.

NAMES FOR PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The building in Jackson park which justly may claim to be America's finest example of classical architecture now bears the awkward title of the Museum of Science and Industry. The name is descriptive of its contents, but is inadequate to identify the structure itself.

Julius Rosenwald wisely discouraged the application of his own name to the institution which he endowed so generously. His modesty was commendable, and his common sense even more so. He recognized that future contributions would be discouraged if the institution became identified as a personal monument.

The building, as distinct from its contents, deserves a better, simpler name than it now bears. Out of regard for Auld Lang Syne shall it be the Fine Arts building, in memory of the Columbian fair palace of which the present building is a restoration? What other suggestions have you?

The name of the building need not be related to its contents, for as a matter of fact the exhibits, breathing the spirit of modern machine civilization, are inconsistent with the architectural style. Simplicity should be the keynote. The name of the Louvre comes easily to almost any one, but if the French had called it the Musée National des Arts most of us would identify it as "that place where they have the Mona Lisa."

Editorial of the Day

A VICIOUS CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE HOLDING COMPANIES.

[Boston Transcript.]

Not since the most enfevered days of so-called "trust busting" thirty years ago has the country seen any movement so misguided, in many essential respects, as the current Rayburn-Wheeler campaign against holding companies for the public utilities.

Before the holding company smashers go much further, let congress and the President make sure whom and what they are smashing.

TIME WILL TELL.

The children, George, aged 4, and Ernest, aged 5, were being put to bed. "We do love you, mummy," said George, hugging her.

"Why do you love me, darling?"

"'Cos we like your face."

"But it isn't much of a face," said mother.

That was a bit of a poser. The boy thought a moment. "But we've got used to it," he said.—Tit-Bits.

THERE HAVE BEEN SO MANY REPORTS this session of fist fights in Washington by members of congress that there's bound to be a change in the kind of representatives we send to make the nation's laws. No more will the backers of a congressional candidate declare, "He looks like Lincoln!" Now they'll say he looks like John L. Sullivan or Jack Dempsey. And we won't go around bragging that our particular candidate is a great statesman with a broad vision and a stanch loyalty to the principles of our great republic. Nothing like it. We'll say that the guy we're going to send to Washington can lam the livin' daylights out of any other bird down there. It's a new day. If you want to be a congressman throw away your constitutional history of the United States and buy a punching bag and a pair of boxing gloves.

IT'S FUNNY HOW ILL TIDINGS spread. I've had six Dukes of Manchester ask me for a dime in State street since the Duke of Manchester said he was broke and persecuted and was coming to America. And one of them must have been a duke, but probably not the Duke of Manchester. I gave this duke a job of washing the car and he drank up all the stuff I put in the radiator to keep it from freezing. Dukes are like that.

RETROSPECTION.

At the heap of ruins she lingers,
Digging with her eager fingers,
Polishing each broken bit
As her tears splash over it,
Piling stone on stone, and staying
At her labor, weary, praying,
Through the long night till the sun
Streaks the heavens. She is done.
Though blood drips from wounded hands,
Solidly the structure stands,
Lofty, a resplendent sight,
Glowing with its own warm light.
Happily she fills her eyes
With its loveliness and size,
Unaware that one can fling
Over some remembered thing
Beauty that it never wore,
Strength it did not hold before.

FIAT MONEY OR INFLATION or whatever you want to call it seems to be right in front of us and the very thought of it makes me want to hire the old fashioned kicking machine and start using it briskly. Two billion dollars in greenbacks are to be issued if the veterans' bonus bill goes through and nary a greenback will have any metal deposited in the treasury to redeem it. Why, gosh! in the days gone by I've had hold of bushels of that kind of money, but I let it slip away from me. Up in the attic of my old rebel uncle's house down in Missouri there were bushels and bushels of Confederate money. Very pretty money it was, too, and I could have had all I wanted, but I left it there and in time my aunt burned it all up kindling fires with it. And I let it all go because there was no metal deposited in Washington to redeem it. But now currency with no metal deposited behind it is going to be legal tender. Oh, how I wish I had the Confederate money that once I threw away.

"TAME THE WILDERNESS!" the early pioneers shouted as they pressed westward; "civilization must advance! Let happy farms and golden harvests and a contented people take the place of the wild buffalo grass!" And so they pressed on and settled on the prairies and plowed up the hated buffalo grass and planted crops. And today the winds are bringing great storms of dirt, no longer anchored down by buffalo grass, across Colorado and Iowa and Nebraska and even Illinois. It may be, after all, that old Dame Nature knows her business. Humans think they know it all, but do they?

SONG FOR MARCH.

March, like a lover at the gate,
Whistles the theme of an old refrain;
What though the hour be dark, be late,
This is a tryst that will not wait
"With hey, ho, the wind and the rain."

March, like a lover at the door,
Rattles the latch—and his meaning plain;
Here no need, no time to implore,
This is a joy we have shared before
"With hey, ho, the wind and the rain."

March, like a lover close to my ear,
Whispers a promise of Spring again;
"Cherish this first snowdrop, my dear,
Pledge of our troth for another year,
'With hey, ho, the wind and the rain.'"

WE'LL NEVER GET OVER wondering about the strangeness of fate. I had six nearly emptied bottles of likker in the little cabinet in the pantry, but the bottle that slipped out of my hand yesterday and busted into a million pieces was the only full, unopened, four dollar and fifty cent whisky I had. Now, why is this? R. H. L.

CAESAREAN BIRTH.

IN these days of better hospital facilities, clean surgery, and superior training on the part of physicians specializing in midwifery, many lives are saved through what is known as Cæsarean section.

The operation is not new, and numerous references are found in historical literature dating from very early times. The use of the word "Cæsarean" in this special sense is supposed to have originated with the birth of Julius Cæsar [100-44 B. C.]. That Cæsar's birth occurred in this manner is disproved by the fact that his mother lived for many years thereafter. It is impossible to conceive that any mother could have survived the crude surgery of that time. For centuries the operation was rarely attempted except to preserve the life of an infant following the death of the mother. With the modern advances in surgical technique, Cæsarean section has become much more common and the conditions governing its employment have been more clearly defined.

It sometimes happens that deformities of the bones of the pelvis, tumors, heart disease, and certain other conditions indicate danger to the mother should normal labor be allowed to proceed. Because the Cæsarean operation is less dangerous to mother and child under these conditions it is now employed with relative safety.

So much progress has been made in the careful handling of the lying-in mother that the operation should not be required in more than one or two per cent of all cases. Under ideal conditions, and with the management of the case in the hands of a skilful, highly trained obstetrician, the procedure cannot be said to be dangerous. It must be pointed out, however, that the operation is sometimes performed by improperly trained and inexperienced physicians with the result that the maternal death rate in certain localities is increased.

The method consists first in opening the abdomen, and differs in no wise from thousands of operations performed daily in the hospitals of the country. The uterus, which is a thick, muscular organ, is then incised and the child removed. When the operation is clearly indicated, it is life-saving in character and may be ranked as one of the landmarks in surgical progress.

If the conditions justify Cæsarean section it should be performed before labor begins. Naturally, as a result, there is a healed scar left in the wall of the uterus, and in a few instances subsequent normal labors have been attended with tears in the line of the scar. The old saying, however, that "once a Cæsarean section always a Cæsarean section" does not hold true, as improvements in surgical technique have to a large degree eliminated the danger of rupture.

It is believed by some that if a mother has undergone a Cæsarean operation future pregnancies will not occur or, if they do, they cannot be survived. This is entirely erroneous. Many mothers have proceeded from one Cæsarean section to another, or from a Cæsarean section to a succeeding normal birth. If permanent disabilities to future pregnancies exist the operation of cutting the Fallopian tubes may be performed.

Ninety-eight per cent of expectant mothers under proper care will go through pregnancy normally and will not require surgical intervention. The modern use of anesthesia, outdoor life and exercise, the absence of tight clothing, and other hygienic factors, all make for safety in childbirth. When Cæsarean section is clearly indicated, however, there is nothing that will take its place—no method that is equally safe for mother and child.

HUMIDITY.

Mrs. P. writes: Our thermometer reads ideal, but in certain weather my outer walls are wet behind the davenport and in corners. What causes this?

REPLY.

The humidity is too high for the temperature of the walls. Insulating the walls will obviate the difficulty.

STILLBORN BABIES.

A. M. writes: What are the causes of stillborn babies?

REPLY.

Infection with disease-producing organisms, blood disease on the part of the mother, and syphilis are some of the causes.

JUST GROWING.

C. T. writes: What causes children who have been bright up to this time to have a lower mentality at the age of 13 or 14 years?

REPLY.

The period known as adolescence frequently slows up the mental development of children. A large part of the energy of the body is used in the process of sexual ripening. It is quite common for some children to slow down in their school work at this time. The condition may last for a year or two or even longer.

ANTIQUATED STREET LIGHTS.

Chicago, March 22.—[Friend of the People.]—Please find out why the streets in Rogers Park, in different parts of the section, at different times, are not illuminated. Such a condition is dangerous in many ways, especially at present, when the streets are so slippery. I live in this district, and the walk from Clark street farther east is a torture. H. H.

This system of street lights was installed many years ago, is antiquated and should have been rebuilt, but we have been unable to do so on account of the city's finances. However, as soon as the frost is out of the ground, and if the necessary funds are available, we will commence construction work on a new modern system.

O. E. HEWITT,
Acting Commissioner of Streets and Electricity.

BREACH OF CONTRACT.

Chicago, March 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1926 I purchased a lot under contract payments. This contract stipulated the real estate company (not incorporated), a one man company, was to put in the improvements on this lot free of charge. I paid for the lot and have the necessary papers. I fulfilled my part of the contract, but this one man company failed to fulfill his obligation. He died about eight months ago. In order to file claim against his estate (1) is it necessary for me to engage a lawyer? I have no money. 2. Could I compel the estate to put some money in trust in some reliable bank to safeguard myself for the fulfilment of this contract? C. B.

1. It would not be necessary to engage a lawyer merely to file the claim, but unless the executor will mark the claim to be allowed it probably would be advisable to employ an attorney to make sure the claim has been properly approved when it is reached in court.

2. The more obvious course would seem to be to collect definite damages now for the breach of contract. If you employ an attorney he will be in a better position to advise you than we are.

FLYING STORIES

By Test Pilot Jim Collins

[Collins was killed last week while making his "good-by" test flight.]

MUCH!

Somebody asked me the other day what kind of an airplane I fly. I told him any kind anybody is willing to pay me for flying.

"But don't you own an airplane?" the man asked.

"No," I answered. "And, furthermore," I added, "I have never owned an airplane, although I have been a professional pilot for eleven years."

Why?

Well, I can best explain that as I explained it to a little boy once out in California.

I was at the Lockheed factory. I had been there several months, supervising the construction of an airplane I had sold to a rich sportsman pilot in the east. It was a Lockheed Sirius plane and, at that time, a ship which was taking everybody's eye as the latest and sleekest thing yet developed by the engineers. Lindbergh had just popularized it by flying himself and his wife across the country in it and establishing a new transcontinental record.

They rolled my ship out on the line one bright, sunny day and I must say that in its shiny, new, red and white paint job and its clean, sweeping lines it certainly was a beautiful sight sitting there glistening in that California sunshine.

A little boy who had crawled over the factory fence, despite the "No Trespassing" sign, evidently thought so too, for he was standing there gazing raptly at it with eyes as big as silver dollars when I stalked out toward the ship to make a first test hop in it. He intercepted me neatly as I rounded the wing tip and approached the cockpit.

"O, mister," he said, "do you own that ship?"

"No, sonny," I answered. "I merely fly it. I find that that is less expensive and more fun."

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

Many people believe that a room is cooled by an electric fan running in it and often leave fans running in rooms not in use so that the rooms will be kept cool until used. A fan merely sets in circulation the air that is in a room and has nothing whatever to do with the temperature of a room, as can be told by any thermometer. If a fan changed the temperature at all, it would raise it, because of the heat given off by the electric motor. The cooling effect of the fan on a person is due to the increased evaporation of perspiration and not to temperature changes in the air.

DEFAULTED BONDS.

Goshen, Ind., March 22.—I think THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is the only organization big enough and broad enough to rehabilitate your city in the minds of many holders of defaulted bonds.

Every time one of these disillusioned people is slapped in the face by one of Arthur Evans' articles he feels like hunting up some high powered alleged bondholders' protective committee, some crooked Chicago judge, expert in bankruptcy, Frazier-Lemke or 77B, or the vultures of the Chicago Bar association and indulging in a bit of homicide. Perhaps your paper does not realize the bitterness of this feeling. The boys out in the sticks have taken it on the nose and liked it. They are willing to take their scaledowns and forget it. But it gives them a decided sinking feeling below the diaphragm when they see some of the soaring residential hotels on which they are holding the bonds and the bag, all dolled up with rental agents boasting of 80 per cent occupancy, when they know that not only are they getting no returns on their protective committee certificates but no attention is paid to their humble requests for information.

This is no exaggeration in the least. Some committees with a personnel including some of what I used to consider the most honored names in Chicago pay absolutely no attention to reasonable requests from decent, fair and justice loving bondholders.

Money from this community has poured into your city for many years. Chicago has prospered because of this condition. But Chicago is forgetting the source of supply. Possibly because it is running dry. I hope not.

O. P. MARTIN.

THE GUILDS.

Chicago, March 22.—Mr. Cullen's analogy, likening NRA codes to medieval guild restrictions, was clever but obviously incomplete. His first omission: These guilds existed under a preindustrial order. His second omission: The demand for much needed freedom came with increasing industrialization. And the third and most glaring omission: The result of this unprecedented freedom was an era of deplorable labor conditions. The lesson to be learned from that is not one of complete freedom, nor contrariwise, one of complete control. History provides a peculiar sequence of events that must be studied carefully before they are used dogmatically by ultraclever moderns. MIRIAM FINE.

WAR WAGES.

Excelsior Springs, Mo., March 21.—Tens of thousands of farmers in the middle west are glad to get work right now at $1.50 per day. These farmers know that the war has been over for some time, and that half a loaf when times are hard is better than none.

I can't understand why organized labor is holding out for war wages when the people no longer have the money to pay them. A. H. LENOUX.

SPEEDING TO A FIRE.

Chicago, March 23.—Every year a number of lives are lost through the fast driving of our fire department vehicles. I am certain that more lives are lost by this fast driving than are saved because of the speed. Thirty or sixty seconds gained in getting to a fire may mean saving some merchandise, but that cannot be compared with loss of lives.

E. H. EISLER.

CORRECTION.

Chicago, March 23.—I was quoted in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of March 3 as saying in a speech before the Women's Conference under the auspices of THE TRIBUNE on Feb. 27 that "Increased public office as the reward for merit was stressed by Attorney Henry P. Chandler." Although this is not what I said, I should not have troubled you with a correction except that reports made to me indicate that it may have given rise to real misunderstanding.

What I said was that governments were being called upon to render more and more service and to perform more and more functions. This made it more necessary than ever that public employés should be selected on the basis of merit. Whether we consider government from the standpoint of economy or service, a qualified personnel is all-essential.

A correction by you may save me from the imputation of urging an increase in public offices and will be appreciated.

HENRY P. CHANDLER.

LIBRARY FINANCES.

Chicago, March 23.—The statement of your correspondent, H. Griffith, that the library board last year spent about $5,000 for books and a million for salaries is true but not quite accurate. The figures are $18,835 and $935,625, respectively. And the circulation in 1934 was 10,992,812 volumes. In 1931 it was 15,807,952, book expenditures $218,835, and salaries $1,383,062. Meanwhile, the staf has been reduced from 973 to 775, although two new branches were added to the system in 1931; none since.

A public library consists of books plus service, and service means staf. And staf entails salaries—"mere" salaries, in the words of your correspondent. Dividing $935,000 by 775 shows just how "mere" they are. We are still able to give service at the rate of ten or eleven million volumes a year, and we need a staf to do that. But the circulation will continue to fall from year to year, because of progressive deterioration of the stock, and presently we shall have to cut the service hours from the present schedule of seventy-two to sixty or perhaps forty-eight hours per week, thus reducing staf in proportionate numbers, to be added to the ranks of the unemployed—a contingency that the board is frankly trying to stave off as long as possible.

Librarian, Chicago Public Library.

TREATY BREAKERS.

Chicago, March 22.—Germany must keep all her agreements sacred. Have England, France, Italy and the rest of them kept their word and paid the United States? No, they have broken their agreements, and instead of paying the U. S. have taken that money and are spending it for war. Who is lowdown? I say that Germany is snowy white beside England, France, and Italy. Why not let Germany collect from our debtor nations for us? Would it not be a grand and glorious feeling to see Germany whip our debtor nations into line until they would be glad to pay us instead of calling us "Uncle Sap"? G. H. KIEL.

COLDER WEATHER FOLLOWS WHIRL OF DUST CLOUDS

North Dakota Freeze Aids Control of Silt.

Omaha, Neb., March 27.—[Special.]—Colder weather, including snow in the northern section, brought some relief to the dust ridden plains states today after west Texas reported one of the worst dust storms of the season.

Flyers, including Amelia Earhart, were endangered by the dense clouds of dust and sand rolling southward across north and west Texas. She took to the higher altitudes in an attempt to fly over the worst of the blinding, foglike pall. She kept her ship above 10,000 feet most of the way and reached El Paso safely on a flight from Tulsa, Okla.

Residents of the Lone Star state were choked and blinded by dense clouds of swirling grit that obscured the sun and limited visibility to a few hundred feet. Citizens of Abilene, Tex., said it was difficult to see more than a block in the downtown section of that city.

Haze Over Dallas.

Driven by a cold north wind that left low temperatures in its wake, the dust clouds were whipped southward across the state. The storm spread a reddish haze over Fort Worth and Dallas.

At the capital of Kansas the return of Gov. Alfred M. Landon from Washington is set for Saturday. He has conferred with officials there about the creation of earthen barriers against the future dust storms and it is said $250,000 will be available immediately for that. A delegation from Amarillo, Tex., representing the chamber of commerce there, will consult with Washington experts about remedies, while a Colorado group will urge the planting of a federal timber belt as a protection.

Many parts of Oklahoma still were covered with blowing soil that obscured the sun's rays. Dust also blanketed eastern New Mexico, while southwest Kansas was digging out of an overnight dust storm. Soil still was blowing in a lessened degree in southeast Colorado.

Dust clouds hung over some parts of South Dakota, but its northern sister state had temporary relief from silt. Mild snow flurries and freezing temperatures prevailed throughout North Dakota, the mercury suddenly tumbling to a range from 10 to 24 degrees above zero. At Dighton, Kas., two trains collided, injuring about 30 CCC workers from Illinois and Oregon.

Ready to Abandon Farms.

Business men and relief officials of Baca county, Col., the area most severely affected in Colorado by dust and drought, said the homesteaders and the dry land farmers will hold out two months, praying for rain to end a 4 year dry spell. If the rain does not come, the businessmen and relief authorities predict a great migration of families to other farm lands. Sixty-five per cent of the population are on relief. The others, with means sufficient to carry them through the immediate crisis, remain hopeful moisture soon will settle the dust.

Meantime, Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture ordered unification of all federal soil erosion activities under the direction of Rexford G. Tugwell, undersecretary, to start a concerted drive on dust storms.

United States department officials estimated wind and water erosion has destroyed the crop production ability of more than 50 million acres of land, that another 125 million acres have lost all or most of their top soil, and that 100 million more acres are rapidly approaching that condition.

STORM UNROOFS 200 BUILDINGS IN CORINTH, MISS.

Corinth, Miss., March 27.—(AP)—A windstorm, sweeping from Kentucky through Tennessee and into northeast Mississippi, put out electric power lines and unroofed approximately 200 buildings here late today.

After spending most of its fury here, the storm veered southeast, destroying a church, school and about forty residences in the vicinity of Sarah and Savage, Miss.

Hopkinsville, Ky., almost on the Tennessee line, reported that the wind passed through there early in the afternoon after damaging about 150 buildings at Crofton, to the north.

At Henderson, Tenn., a church steeple was blown away, a jewelry store was wrecked and about 20 residences were unroofed. Windows were knocked out at Somerville, Tenn., north of Corinth.

Roofs were lifted from the McRae hospital and the Corinth grammar school here and every window in the building occupied by a department store in the center of town was shattered.

DIES IN PRISON

MICHAEL GEARY.

Michael Geary, bank robber and murderer, who has been in Joliet penitentiary most of the time since 1914, died in the prison hospital yesterday of a heart attack. He was serving two life sentences imposed for the murder of Policeman John Rowe and of H. J. Stevens, a civil war veteran, in the holdup of the Robey street station of the Lake street "L," where Stevens was ticket agent.

Geary escaped twice, first in 1917 from the old penitentiary, but was recaptured after two weeks' freedom, and again in July, 1920, when he and eight other prisoners tunneled under the stockade from the honor farm at Lockport. He was rearrested a year later as he and his pals fled after obtaining $15,000 in the robbery of the Clearing State bank at Lamont.

While in the county jail here awaiting to be returned to the penitentiary, a loaded revolver and a number of saws were found in his cell.

Accuses Husband of Trying to Sell Children; Divorced

Mrs. Mildred Yee Lum Lee, 241 West Cermak road, was granted a default divorce by Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday from Yee Lee. She testified through an interpreter that they were married in Canton, Ill., in 1931 and that Lee deserted her last April after twice trying to sell their two children, Byron, 4 years old, and Betty, 1. The interpreter was Eva Lum, 18 year old daughter of the plaintif by a former marriage.

$5,000 OFFERED FOR ARRESTS IN COURTNEY PLOT

Associations Join Forces to Protect Officials.

The Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday announced the offer of a reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the persons who early Sunday morning fired into an automobile in which State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney and Ald. Harry E. Perry [18th] were riding with two detectives.

Coöperating with the Association of Commerce are the Chicago crime commission, the Employers' Association of Chicago and the Citizens' Association of Chicago. In making the offer a committee from the four organizations stated:

"The attempted assassination of the state's attorney is a challenge by the criminal element to the law abiding people of the community. It must be met by vigorous action.

Support for Officials.

"This reward is posted that men of ability and integrity in public office may be supported in the proper performance of their duties and furtherance of the public welfare."

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday assigned two detectives to guard Quin O'Brien, assistant corporation council, who has received two letters threatening his life.

These bodyguards accompanied Mr. O'Brien yesterday to the Appellate court, where he represented the city in an action involving the status of Charles O'Kelly, a former employé of the department of public works.

Clash Over Unions.

O'Kelly was dismissed from the service by the civil service commission in July, 1933, on a charge that he had attempted to organize the city's drivers and chauffeurs for Local 726 of the Teamsters' union. This was one of the unions declared outlawed by State's Attorney Courtney.

According to Mr. O'Brien, both letters were received while he was working on the O'Kelly case.

He reported receipt of the threats to Commissioner Allman, who ordered the guards to remain with him constantly.

WOMAN TEACHER HERE AWARDED PRIZE FOR BEST TEXT ON ENGLISH

MRS. ELIZABETH CROWE HANNUM. [E. Roehlk Photo.]

Mrs. Elizabeth Crowe Hannum, for thirteen years the head of the English department of the Francis W. Parker school in Chicago, was notified yesterday that she had won the $4,000 award for the best basal textbook of high school English for her volume, "Speak! Read! Write!" The award was made in a contest sponsored by the Atlantic Monthly Press and Little, Brown & Co., Boston publishers.

Mrs. Hannum is 39 years old. Her husband, Fred L. Hannum, is head of the Spanish department of the Francis W. Parker school. They live at 856 George street.

Mrs. Hannum retired from teaching a year ago in order to write, but expects to become a teacher next year in the Chicago public schools, having passed the 1932 examination with the highest grade of any applicant. The winning book will be published this spring.

SEVENTH VICTIM OF HOLOCAUST AT ROADHOUSE DIES

The seventh victim of the disastrous fire at the Club Rendezvous in Morton Grove Sunday morning died at the Evanston hospital yesterday. Edward L. Healey, 42 years old, 121 Home avenue, Oak Park, a salesman, succumbed to a throat obstruction caused by the burns he received.

His wife, Mary, 41 years old, who also is in the hospital suffering from burns, was not told of his death. Besides Mrs. Healey, 13 other persons still are in hospitals.

While the license committee of the county board was discussing means of curbing fire hazards in roadhouses and other public places in the county area outside the city limits, state, county and village officials continued their investigation of the fire with the hope of fixing the responsibility for allowing the roadhouse to operate and disregard the fire laws.

Miss Jessie Binford of the Juvenile Protective association told the county commissioners that the same conditions that permit other violations of law in county roadhouses are responsible for the fire traps.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, said that as liquor commissioner for the county territory not within incorporated villages or municipalities he will refuse to issue licenses until fire inspections have been made.

7th Infantry Association Gives Flag to P. J. Brady

Maj. Peter J. Brady, city clerk, who is seeking reëlection next Tuesday, was given a large American flag yesterday by the Seventh Infantry Service Men's association in ceremonies in the clerk's office at the city hall. Lieut. Maurice Moriarty, commander of the association, presented the flag and Capt. William J. Grace made a speech. Lieut. John Hugulet acted as master of ceremonies. Maj. Brady is a past commander of the association.

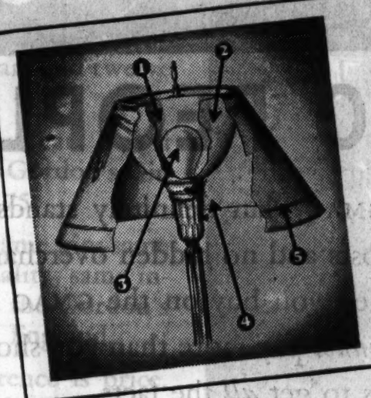
Science developed this special lamp to aid his eyes



Why These Lamps Give You Better Light

1. Reflector is translucent, lets proper amount of soft, glareless, direct light filter through, eliminating eyestrain.
2. Reflector throws light upwards, reduces contrasts, gives soft general illumination.
3. Bulb of proper wattage for sufficient intensity.
4. Shade is lined with "light reflecting" material.
5. Shade is wide enough to distribute light over whole working area.

YOUNG eyes! Beautifully clear, bright, strong eyes! Make sure that they will always possess their present perfect vision.

Scientists and lighting engineers have worked many months to perfect a special lamp that will protect eyes—that will keep eyesight at a high peak of efficiency throughout life. They now present this scientifically correct lamp—a lamp that will permit use of the eyes of young and old without unduly tiring them.

This newly developed lamp gives soft, properly diffused light without glare, deep shadows or sharp contrasts which cause eyes to tire or strain. An important function is to give sufficient light—sufficient in intensity, adequate in range—which in itself increases the comfort and enjoyment of seeing and helps to preserve eyesight. When its other advantages are added, therefore, this lamp represents the highest attainment of the art of household lighting in behalf of clear seeing and of eye and health protection.

ELECTRIC SHOPS have an extensive line of these "Better Light—Better Sight" lamps. There are floor, bridge, junior, student, and table models. All are beautifully styled, all are moderately priced. Come in and see them. Ask to see a demonstration by the "Sight Meter"—a scientific device that will show you at a glance how you can change "wrong lighting" into "right lighting."

1 Approved Better Light floor lamp. New type indirect reflector 3-candle bracket. Night light, with separate switch in base. Uses new 3-intensity bulb. Finishes in gold, bronze, ivory and gold. Pure silk shade in all popular colors. Lamp and shade $15.95

2 Approved Better Light table lamp in choice of bronze-plated or ivory finishes. Paper parchment shade with drape decoration. Lamp and shade $4.95

3 Approved Better Light davenport lamp. Choice of bronze-plated or ivory finishes. Shade of fluted grenadine over parchment paper in green or eggshell colors. Lamp and shade $9.95

FINDS PAROLED CONVICTS MAKE MEEK WORKERS

Remain Docile on Low Pay, Sponsor Tells Police.

Paroled convicts make satisfactory employes because they fear to demand union wages or the NRA scale, according to Henry B. Gray, colored owner of a garage at 5513 South Wabash avenue.

Gray was arrested for questioning in connection with the parole granted last summer to Harold Taylor, colored. After serving five years for larceny of an automobile, Taylor was released from Stateville penitentiary June 1, 1934. He was paroled to Gray, who agreed to pay him $40 a month to work in his garage. Taylor reported regularly to the parole supervisor's office.

Three weeks ago a colored robber exacted $1,400 from the Straus & Schram furniture store at 115 South Wabash avenue. He exchanged pistol shots with police, who chased him for several blocks. The lively battle endangered hundreds of persons and one bullet struck a passerby, B. Henry Martins, 1107 Byron street.

Make Two Different Arrests.

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court saw the flight. The fugitive scurried through the rooms of the Illinois Athletic club, 112 South Michigan avenue, and reloaded his pistol, but it jammed as he aimed it at Policeman Norman H. Wooden. Wooden arrested the robber, who proved to be Parolee Taylor.

For more than two weeks detectives played hide and seek trying to find Sponsor Gray for questioning. Finally a lawyer telephoned to Chief of Detectives Sullivan and offered to surrender the garage owner. On Monday night, Gray and Attorney Robert Irmiger appeared at the detective bureau. Because Irmiger insisted on hearing the interrogation of Gray, the police told them to depart. The next day they arrested Gray.

Other Ex-Convicts Hired.

The sponsor admitted having another colored ex-convict working for him, one Enos Baker. George T. Scully, chief supervisor of paroles, said he knew of a third ex-convict in Gray's employ. Gray, however, denied making a practice of acting as sponsor for convicts asking paroles, though he conceded that the penitentiary supplied him with satisfactory workers.

When a writ of habeas corpus was filed on behalf of Gray, Judge Harrington told police they might hold him until 2 p. m. today. Scully asserted his investigation showed that Gray once operated a policy game. Nevertheless the parole board considered him a suitable sponsor for Taylor and approved the employment at $40 a month, according to Scully. He said the board deemed those wages sufficient, in these times, to keep a parolee from returning to crime.

WIFE HAS HER HUSBAND SEIZED AS A BIGAMIST

Mrs. Vera Dodge Marsch, 32 years old, 6317 Ingleside avenue, yesterday caused the arrest of her husband, Robert Coey, alias Marsch, 44 years old, 1320 Waveland avenue, on a charge of bigamy. Mrs. Marsch told the police that she married Coey, who was then using the name of Marsch, on July 7, 1931, and that he left her last August.

Recently, she said, she found that a marriage license had been issued here to Coey and Miss Edna Mae Ramage, 1320 Waveland avenue, last Jan. 3.

Doing her own detective work, she went to the Waveland avenue apartment and saw her husband enter with a bundle of groceries. She then called the Town Hall police. At the station Coey admitted the second marriage and said that he and his second wife had planned to leave today for California.

Mrs. Marsch remarked that Coey also took her to California on their honeymoon. "He left me stranded there and I had to pawn my jewelry to return," she said.

COUNTY HIGHWAY TAX LEVY HELD AT 1934 FIGURE

Smith Denies Report of Increase.

BY HAL FOUST.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the Cook county board, asserted last night that the commissioners have held the property tax levy for the county highway department for 1935 at the same figure as for 1934 notwithstanding a further shrinkage in the department's revenue from the gasoline excise.

Mr. Smith, in commenting on the highway levy, called attention to an erroneous report published in THE TRIBUNE last Tuesday that the rate for 1935 was being boosted to 8 cents. "We are practicing the most rigid economy," said Mr. Smith. "The roads and bridges tax levy for 1935 remains at $1,700,000, although the gasoline tax revenue available for roads will drop this year from $1,675,000 to $1,100,000.

Highway Budget Cut.

"The budget for the highway department has been cut from $4,665,000 to $4,300,000. In addition to the gas and property taxes, we hope the legislature will appropriate $1,500,000 for use of the county department this year as refunds for pavements laid by the county on state routes.

"The property tax rate on 1935 bills to be collected next spring will not be determined until the assessment has been completed, but it is estimated at 5.98 cents on $100 assessed valuation. The 1934 assessment likewise is incomplete, but the tax rate for roads and bridges on the 1934 bills to be collected next fall is also estimated at 5.8 cents per $100 valuation.

Levy Same as Before.

"Because the rate on the 1935 bills may be slightly higher does not mean that the property owners will pay more. If the rate is higher it will be because assessed valuations are lower. The amount that property owners will pay is determined by the levy, and this has been fixed at the same figure as for 1934."

In the 1933 bills now being collected [the deadline for the second half payment is May 1] the property levy was only $750,000 with a rate of 2.6 cents per $100 valuation, about half the estimated 1934 and 1935 rates. In 1933, however, the county highway department received $2,646,000 in gas money, $1,500,000 more than is anticipated for 1935 when nearly $3,000,000 of the motor fuel revenue must be diverted from road purposes to meet requirements of the relief bond issues.

MORRO CASTLE SOLD BY U. S. FOR $33,605; TO BE USED AS SCRAP

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—The Union Shipbuilding company of Baltimore, which made the highest bid, $33,605, for the hulk of the Ward liner Morro Castle, has received the award, it was announced today by Lieut. Col. Edwin O. Ardery, army engineer in charge of the Second New York district.

The remains of the luxury cruise liner, which was built less than five years ago at a cost of $5,000,000 will be towed to Baltimore next week to be broken up for scrap. At present the Morro Castle is anchored in Gravesend Bay, where she was taken on March 14. Two days later the permanent board of inspection and survey of the navy decided that the ship could not be refitted as an auxiliary naval vessel.

The Morro Castle was damaged by a fire which took a heavy toll of the passenger list off Asbury Park last September. The ship became government property after the Ward line and the insurance companies had renounced their claim to the wreck.

DECRY WIDENING STREETS; URGE SUPERHIGHWAYS

Deaths on Broadened Roads Stir Council.

BY HAL FOUST.

The widening of Chicago streets by the state highway department was opposed before the city council yesterday on the ground that these broad thoroughfares are contributing heavily to the toll of automobile fatalities. A question of whether this gasoline tax and license fee revenue should not be conserved for elevated highway construction was referred to the committee on traffic.

The discussion arose on a motion of Ald. James J. McDermott [44th] to refer back to committee proposed ordinances authorizing the state to pave in Howard street, Elston, Devon, and Cicero avenues.

Points to City's Experience.

"Chicago has had enough experience with widened streets to know that they are death traps," said Ald. McDermott. "Why should this council stand by and let the state build more of these death traps? We're entitled to construction in return for the gasoline tax paid by trafic in this city. Let's insist on pavements with continuous grade separation."

"We widened Western and Ashland avenues and South Park way, and this widening has made them the most conspicuous motor death ways on the North American continent," Ald. John A. Massen [48th] continued the argument.

"A continuation of the street widening program means nothing less than an enlargement of the areas of motor deaths. It is about time that we abandon this policy and begin the construction of motor ways that will make motoring safer."

Mayor Tempers Action.

Ald. Roger J. Kiley [37th] pointed out that the state has authority to pave in Chicago without asking permission of the council and that the request for authorization was purely a courtesy.

"It's a generally accepted public opinion," Mayor Kelly said to close the debate on the floor, "that the wide streets have not been successful. But let's not block the work that has already been started on the four projects in question."

Ald. Massen then amended his motion. The ordinances authorizing the state to continue its Howard, Elston, Devon, and Cicero jobs was included in the omnibus while the question of a future policy was referred to the trafic committee, of which Ald. Massen is chairman.

and getting mighty scarce

THE actual age of our choice old straight pre-prohibition whiskies ranges from 11 to 17 years.

Mount Vernon rye, for instance—youngest of these venerable remnants—is 11 to 12 years old.

The few noble bourbons dealers still hold in stock, lay 16 to 18 years in wood before they were bottled and bonded under U. S. Government supervision!

We refer to Old Grand Dad, Old Taylor, Bourbon de Luxe, Sunny Brook, Blue Grass and Old McBrayer.

When you consider that the legal bonding age for whiskey in this country is 4 years—you'll get some idea of the ripe and extra mellow goodness of these elder aristocrats.

They're not particularly expensive, though, considering their dwindling rarity and great age. And the wealth of Croesus, later on, won't be able to buy a single bottle.

GROUND BROKEN FOR NEW DIESEL ENGINE FACTORY

General Motors Concern Starts Construction.

Officials of the Electro Motive company, a subsidiary of General Motors corporation, gathered yesterday in the village of McCook, southeast of La Grange, and officially broke ground for their new plant, in which high speed, streamlined, diesel powered railroad locomotives and cars are to be built.

H. L. Hamilton, president of the company, handled the spade with which the first sod was turned. With him were half a dozen other company officials and nearly 100 workmen who immediately began work with steam shovels and drills. It is expected that the first unit of the plant, which will consist of nine buildings, will be completed in August.

First Unit to Cost $2,000,000.

"The first unit will cost about $2,000,000," said Mr. Hamilton. "That will be just the beginning. Plans call for ultimate construction to cost $10,000,000. This new industry created by the railroads' demand for high speeds is as strange to us as it is to Chicago.

"Because that is true, we are planning in such a way that we can add to the plant as we get experience in the new art of building locomotives with diesel-electric power plants."

Reasons for Choice of McCook.

The site at McCook was purchased because of its proximity to the Indiana Harbor Belt line tracks and because of the presence of Niagara limestone near the surface, making an excellent foundation for the heavy machinery which is to be installed.

Among those who will be in charge of the construction and operation of the plant are R. M. Dilworth, chief engineer; Ernest Kuehn, mechanical manager; O. F. Brookmeyer, sales manager, and C. A. Gerlach, officer in charge of construction.

HUSBAND SERVED WITH WIFE'S SUIT STARTED IN 1929

Schuyler Colfax Schwartz Jr., once wealthy cigar dealer, was served with notice of his wife's separate maintenance suit filed in 1929, when he appeared yesterday before Circuit Judge John Prystalski in a case in which he is plaintif.

Schwartz' suit, brought last November, seeks to remove Attorney William T. Pridmore as executor of the $250,000 estate of his grandmother, the late Mrs. Josephine E. Springer who died Sept. 7, 1931. Schwartz set forth in his bill that he is subsisting on the charity of his friends because he has failed to receive money left him in the will.

The separate maintenance action was brought by Mrs. Georgia Gene Schwartz, who in an earlier similar action charged that her husband had 13 automobiles and a different sweetheart for each car. Process servers said they had been unable to locate Schwartz until he appeared in court yesterday. Attorneys for Mrs. Schwartz announced they will ask Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort today to enjoin executors of the Springer estate from paying over any money to Schwartz until the separate maintenance suit is settled.

FASTER METHODS IN OFFICE SPEED TAX DISTRIBUTION

The distribution of tax collections has been speeded up in the last three weeks, according to an announcement yesterday by County Treasurer Robert M. Sweitzer, who returned Monday from Florida, where he had gone for his health. The balance on hand in the treasurer's office, which stood at $36,944,372 on March 1, had been reduced yesterday to $25,240,236 because, Sweitzer explained, the office had instituted faster bookkeeping methods.

While the latter balance is no greater than the office ordinarily carries, the treasurer said, he expects that by the end of this month it will be further reduced by about $5,000,000. Of the total on hand about $17,000,000 is in trust funds and other allotments not available for distribution.

Collections of 1933 taxes to date total $62,996,331. Of this amount $61,937,867 already has been distributed, leaving a balance of 1933 collections on hand of only $1,058,464. Mr. Sweitzer declared that every effort is being made to distribute taxes immediately upon receipt.

Woman and Her Daughter Identify Two as Robbers

Two men arrested yesterday were identified by Mrs. Michael Sadowski, 2258 West Walton street, and her daughter, Genevieve, 18 years old, as the ones whom they routed Saturday when the men invaded their home in search of $1,100 belonging to the United Butchers Packing company, 1152 Fulton street, of which Sadowski is an official. The prisoners are Sam Messineo, 33 years old, 6107 Warwick avenue, and James La Velle, 26, of 2912 Washington boulevard. They were traced through the license number of Messineo's automobile which Mrs. Sadowski gave to police.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

This is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative, safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache caused by constipation—you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

U. OF C. GROUPS UNITE TO BATTLE RADICAL TRENDS

Charges by Fish Arouse Undergraduates.

Coöperation between the undergraduates and alumni of the universities and colleges of the country to uphold American traditions and policies is shown in recent activities in Chicago.

Aroused by the charge of Representative Hamilton Fish of New York, that the University of Chicago is one of the ten American schools "violently red in faculty and student body," the fraternities on the campus have organized the Public Policy association, a semi-secret organization which is pro-American, to combat radical activities. Hulen [Tex] Carroll founded the group.

Col. T. A. Siqueland will be speaker tonight in Mandel hall on the campus of the University of Chicago in the first of a series of Americanism meetings sponsored by the new group.

Plan Stagg Field Rally.

Other speakers will address similar meetings before April 11, when a rally will be staged at Stagg field. The alumni of the fraternities are quietly supporting the undergraduates of the school in their anti-radical activities.

Warren Piper, founder of "Just Taxpayers, Inc.," enlisted the aid of the alumni of Sigma Nu fraternity in his plan to limit local, state and national taxation.

He addressed the Chicago alumni at their luncheon at Mandel's yesterday.

Demands Tax Limit.

"It has been declared that 'the power to tax is the power to destroy,'" Mr. Piper told the group. "Unless some limit is put on our tax eaters and tax spenders, this country is doomed to sure destruction. We now are paying approximately 40 per cent of our income in taxes, and this should be limited to not more than 10 per cent.

Mr. Piper plans to call a meeting of the heads of all fraternity alumni associations in Chicago to talk in favor of the plan for a tax limit.

NATION'S BIGGEST ELECTRIC SWITCH BUILT IN CHICAGO

Electrical engineers are showing an interest this week in an electric switch, manufactured and assembled on the west side, that illustrates how Chicago's engineering talent keeps pace with the demands of modern industry.

The exhibit is one of 16 disconnecting switches manufactured by the Delta-Star Electric company, 2437 Fulton street, for use on the transmission line that will carry current from Boulder dam to Los Angeles. It was designed by Herbert W. Young, president, and E. S. Cornell, assistant chief engineer of the company.

These 287,000 volt switches, costing $10,000 each, are the largest built so far in the United States. Each weighs 15 tons and is motor operated.

The switches are to be installed at two stations in the desert 90 miles apart. They have been designed to withstand the severest of dust and sand storms and temperature variations from 10 to 135 degrees.

A paper on the switches has been prepared by Mr. Young for the Conference Internationale des Grands Reseaux Electriques a Haute Tension of which he is a vice president.

How much should you pay for a bottle of gin?

That depends on how good the gin is and where you buy it.

Gordon's is the world's favorite gin. More of it is sold than any other kind.

In England, Gordon's Gin costs the consumer the equivalent of three dollars and twelve cents per bottle.

In Illinois you can buy a bottle of genuine Gordon's Gin for as little as $1.75.

Yet—it is the same gin; same formula, same quality, same inimitable flavor as the Gordon's you would get in England.

The only difference is price. That is regulated by the tax.

Is Gordon's Gin as made in America, as good as the imported Gordon's Gin?

We challenge any expert to say that Gordon's Gin made in this country is not as good in every respect as the Gordon's Gin made in England.

We say this confidently because there is no difference. It is all exactly the same.

All genuine Gordon's Gin is made strictly according to the original formula which is now 166 years old.

Not more than three people have ever known this formula at any one time during the history of this business.

To ensure the quality of Gordon's Gin we have erected the largest gin distillery in the world at Linden, New Jersey.

The man who is in charge of Gordon's Gin distillation in England came to this country to oversee the operation.

The Gordon stills were imported from England where they were made according to our own secret specifications.

The principal aromatics: juniper berries, coriander seed and angelica root come from those parts of the world where climate and soil are best suited to their cultivation. Under Gordon's supervision they are scientifically matured and cared for as long as three and four years.

Why Gordon's costs a little more

Gordon's is a little higher priced than other gins for the simple reason it costs more to make Gordon's.

Every ingredient we use is of the highest quality money can buy. No expense is spared in our process to maintain the high standard that has been set by this world-famous gin.

And finally, Gordon's is higher in proof than other gins as you will see by the label which reads "94.4 proof." That means you get more cocktails to the bottle. So even though you pay a little more for Gordon's it goes further in mixing drinks.

Now, won't you try it?

If you still think "gin is gin" we ask you to test Gordon's.

Pour a little in a glass and sip it slowly. Compare that smooth, delightful quality with the raw, harsh bite of cheaper gin.

If it's only kick you want, you can buy that for a little less money.

But if you want the best gin the world produces, buy Gordon's! After all it only costs a penny more per cocktail.

GOLD DIGGER WAR BROUGHT HERE BY INDIANA WOMAN

Explains Law Barring Shyster Love Suits.

Female gold diggers and the shyster lawyers were the sort of social parasites Representative Roberta West Nicholson of the Indiana legislature sought to put out of business through her bill abolishing heart balm suits which became a law in Indiana recently and is making substantial progress in other states.

Mrs. Nicholson made plain her feelings on the subject of "money for love, or for the lack of it" before a large audience yesterday in the Palmer house, when she addressed the fourth annual joint luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Alliance of Business and Professional Women.

"Off with Their Heads."

Her topic was "Aching Hearts or Itching Palms?" and she made it clear that she felt the latter was the major cause for breach of promise actions, requests for heart balm, and that favorite legal tool of the unscrupulous, alienation of affections suits.

"It seemed to me," said the slender, smiling woman, who is the only one of her sex in the Indiana assembly, "that we should say to these gold diggers and shyster lawyers, as did the Queen in 'Alice in Wonderland,' 'Off with their heads!' Indiana did and I hear the Illinois legislature is moving in the same direction. I hope to hear soon that the bill passes."

The measure she referred to is the McSweeney bill, which passed the house at Springfield with only one dissenting vote last week and will be considered in the senate when it reconvenes April 9. It is identical with the Nicholson bill, according to the sponsor, Representative John R. McSweeney [Dem., Chicago].

"It was a little disconcerting to learn that my bill was the first of its sort to be introduced in this country, or in any country," Mrs. Nicholson said. "There was no precedent for it. It passed the house without much difficulty, but its course in the senate was stormy. Something new was being tried and several of the senators felt, 'Why should we be first?'

Rough Going in Senate.

"There was no opposition to the spirit of the bill, but some of its provisions drew fire. Some seemed to feel that the right to institute civil suits for alienation of affections should be retained in family matters, for the meddling mothers-in-law. I felt that it was an unsocial idea for a son-in-law to drag his mother-in-law into court and collect money from her. Pulling her nose, perhaps, would be proper.

"Some opposition was found to eliminating seduction as a cause for civil suits and I accepted an amendment providing that such actions could be filed in behalf of girls under 21 years of age.

Hits at Hidden Evils.

"Of course the criminal laws were not affected in any way. I am not a professional moralist, but I have attempted to set up a deterrent to irregular relationships by removing the prospect of pecuniary profit from them.

"Nothing like the number of suits that are threatened actually get into court and it is in these threatened cases that the large sums are exchanged. It is not right to place a cash value on misconduct.

"Another school of thought that I encountered held that women should be allowed to sue for expenses incurred in contemplation of marriage. I said to them that women who bring such actions do not fill a hope chest with crocheted doilies.

"As I see my bill," Mrs. Nicholson concluded, "it is symbolic of a change in attitude toward women. We don't want to see inferior women pull down our sex."

JUDGE OFFERS APOLOGY

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—[Special.]—Friends of Mrs. Roberta West Nicholson were still indignant today as the result of an incident in Superior court here yesterday when a bailif spoke roughly to the woman legislator during a divorce case involving a test of her law to eliminate "heart balm" suits.

The incident, however, was a closed subject with Mrs. Nicholson, who received an apology from Special Judge Herbert Stewart for his bailif's conduct. The affront occurred as Mrs. Nicholson was entering the court and was met by a newspaper photographer. Joseph Bowen, the bailif, is reported to have declared that photographers "and publicity seekers" were unwelcome in the court. The woman lawmaker departed in tears.

Advises Sleep

"Live right, and you'll live long." Such was the advice of Mrs. Mary Adelman who was 106 years old last Tuesday. At the home of her son, Vincent Adelman, 614 West 47th street, Mrs. Adelman revealed some of her other secrets for long life yesterday. Plenty to eat, plenty of sleep, and plenty of diversion are needed, she said. The diversion in her case inclnde motion pictures, shopping trips, and long walks. Forty-four years ago Mrs. Adelman immigrated with her husband, William, from Poland. There were 14 children, only four of whom are living now. Mr. Adelman was killed in a Pennsylvania mine accident shortly after their arrival in the United States.

HOLD PRINCETON SENIOR IN BOND AS DORM THIEF

Princeton, N. J., March 27.—[Special.]—Frank Bickerton John, 22 year old Princeton senior and football star, and Winthrop Partello, 21, of Mansfield, O., were arraigned today before Mayor Joseph S. Hoff, sitting as a committing magistrate, and held in bail for the grand jury.

The young men are charged with breaking and entering and grand larceny as a result of an investigation into a series of dormitory robberies at Princeton university.

Both pleaded not guilty. Young John's bail was set at $800 and Partello's at $1,000. John succeeded in raising the bond, but Partello was unable to do so and was sent to the Mercer county jail at Trenton.

The thefts extended over two school terms, jewelry and cash amounting to some $2,000 being taken. Detectives said they found a number of the stolen articles in Partello's lodging house room in New York City. None was found in John's possession.

Smashes Jewelry Store Window; Flees with Gems

A man who stepped out of an automobile that had been stopped at the curb smashed a window of the jewelry store of Edward Alberti, 1246 Milwaukee avenue, late yesterday afternoon, seized six trays of watches and rings, and fled with them in the car. Witnesses told the police that three other men, companions of the window breaker, covered his retreat with shotguns. Alberti valued the stolen property at $2,000.

Miss Bastien Will Be Bride on Saturday

Only Relatives, Few Friends to Be Present.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH just their families and a few close friends present, Miss Barbara Bastien and Frank H. Armstrong II. will be married next Saturday afternoon in the apartment of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Bastien, at 900 North Michigan avenue. The Rev. Samuel Harkness of the Winnetka Congregational church will read the service at 4:30 o'clock. There will be no attendants.

Mr. Armstrong, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Armstrong of Winnetka, and his bride will take a wedding trip and upon their return about the middle of June they will go to Ann Arbor, Mich., so that Mr. Armstrong can continue his law studies at the University of Michigan.

Miss Bastien, with her very black hair, hazel eyes and lovely skin, will be a beautiful bride, so her friends will be sorry to hear that she is not to have a large wedding. Her engagement to Mr. Armstrong was announced last September. She made her debut the Christmas before at a tea-dance at the Indian Hill club, having finished at Dobbs Ferry the June before. Mr. Armstrong was graduated from Yale in 1932, having prepared for college at the Berkshire school. His sister, Miss Jean, is a vice president of the Chicago Junior league, of which her future sister-in-law is a member.

Miss Mary Armstrong, sub-deb daughter of the family, is arriving at home tomorrow from Sarah Lawrence college, so she will be present at the ceremony. She is to be a debutante next fall.

Chicagoans Active in Harvard Show.

From Cambridge comes word of the part three Chicago boys are taking in this year's Hasty Pudding show, "Foemen of the Yard," music extravaganza, which opened at Harvard last night for a three day run before moving into Boston for a Saturday performance in the Repertory theater.

Francis D. Moore, '35; Barrett Wendell III., '36, and F. Sewall Gardner, '37, are the three Chicagoans prominently connected with this 89th annual production.

Mr. Moore, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Moore of Winnetka, has written most of the music for the show. He is a former president of the Harvard Lampoon, undergraduate monthly, and treasurer of the student council. He is arriving at home on Saturday to spend the spring vacation with his parents and with his fiancée, Miss Laura Bartlett, daughter of the Edmund B. Bartletts of Winnetka. Miss Bartlett is arriving at home from Sarah Lawrence on Saturday also, and it is probable that she and Mr. Moore will set a date for their marriage in June while they are at home this spring.

Mr. Wendell, who won fame as a dancer last year, does a tap dance specialty à la Fred Astaire this year, and Mr. Gardner performs the arduous duties of doubling as a gangster and as a member of the chorus. The entire production is a satirical view of what would happen at Harvard if the dean were elected by popular student and faculty vote, with Dean Bounce and his opponent, H. Michael Surley, a gangster ruling politician, struggling for the office.

Daughter Born to Oren Tafts.

From Santa Barbara comes the announcement of the birth of a daughter on March 22 to Mr. and Mrs. Oren Taft III. The baby is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Taft of Santa Barbara and of Mrs. F. M. Hanchette, also of Santa Barbara, and a great-granddaughter of Mrs. Oren B. Taft of 3100 Sheridan road, Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren E. Taft of 220 East Walton place arrived at home about a week ago from a winter in Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Ingram of Lake Forest are the parents of a third son. The young man arrived yesterday morning at the Passavant hospital and has been named Thomas Edwin after his two great-uncles, Thomas E. Wilson and E. Edwin Wilson. The Ingrams' first son, Colby, is 9 years old, and their second, Jack, is 6. Before her marriage Mrs. Ingram was Dorothy Fielder.

Chauncey B. Borlands on Way Home.

The Chauncey B. Borlands, who have been in Florida for several weeks are en route home. Their daughters, Miss Harriet and Miss Martha Borland, are not expected at home from South America until the middle of May.

The Phelps Kelleys and the Gordon P. Kelleys, who have been vacationing in Palm Beach, will arrive at home Sunday. The Charles B. Pikes, who have spent part of their southern trip with his brother, Eugene R. Pike, and part on Useppa island, will arrive in town Saturday.

Mrs. Morris L. Johnston and her daughter, Mrs. Willard Boyden, are still in Washington, where they were called recently by the death of Albert Douglas, Mrs. Johnston's father. Mr. Johnston, who went east with his wife and daughter last week, returned Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Stevenson have moved from their Lake Shore drive apartment to the Ambassador East.

Col. and Mrs. Harold G. Sperling will be moving back into their home at 20 Westleigh road, Lake Forest, next Monday. They have had an apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue during the winter.

Lunch Time for Baby Tiger Cat

Billy and Carol Gardner have great fun playing with the baby tiger cat from South America that their aunt, Miss Mary Gardner, brought home from a cruise recently. Billy and Carol would like to take Popa out to their home in Winnetka, but their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Gardner, have vetoed that suggestion. When Popa is a bit older and fiercer Miss Gardner is going to give him to the Lincoln park zoo, but at present she is keeping him in the apartment on Astor street that she and her mother, Mrs. William A. Gardner, occupy.

FOR the first time in her life Mme. Arturo Toscanini, wife of the conductor of the New York Philharmonic, traveled west of New York when she arrived in Chicago yesterday with her daughter Wanda, the wife of Vladimir Horowitz.

They went at once to Orchestra hall to hear the great pianist rehearse the Rachmaninoff Third Concerto, which he is playing with the symphony tonight and tomorrow afternoon. Mme. Toscanini wore tweeds and red foxes; watched her son-in-law through a tortoise shell lorgnette. Mme. Horowitz, dark-eyed and black-haired, also wore tweeds and a diamond clip.

The news of the item, aside from the fact that it is Mme. Toscanini's first trip west of New York, is that when she goes to the symphony tonight it will practically be the first time she has ever gone to a concert without Pichu, the little Griffon dog, who attends the Philharmonic concerts as regularly as his mistress. Pichu was left in New York.

While they are in Chicago the members of the "musical royal family" will see a great deal of Dr. Maurice H. Cottle and his wife, Gitta Gradova, as well as of Dr. Frederick Stock and his family. As a matter of fact this visit to Chicago was planned last summer when Mr. and Mrs. Cottle visited at the Horowitz place in Switzerland. Toscanini, too, had planned to come, but rehersals for next Sunday's concert prevented.

AN ingenious definition of a word, given by a student in the class of Estelle Blazek, public school teacher in Oak Park, brightened her day considerably. The lad was asked the meaning of the word "transparent." He explained it as follows:

"If your father and mother die when you are a baby and some one adopts you, they are called the transparent."

THINGS have happened rapidly to Elsa Bialk. At the beginning of the year she was graduated from doing a column called "On Betty's Beat" for the Lincoln-Belmont Booster to recognition by Burton Rascoe and Edward J. O'Brien. Rascoe has selected her first novel, "On What Strange Stuff" ["On what strange stuff ambition feeds"] for publication by Doubleday-Doran on July 5. O'Brien selected one of her short stories, "The Sainted Sisters," as the story of the month to run in Pictorial Review about the same time. Since then Pictorial has bought three more stories and another of her pieces is to appear shortly in Liberty. Also it is her first spring as a bride.

THE advertisment that appeared in a Bloomington paper the other day has opened a wide field of speculation to the citizens:

"SHARE apartment, private, close in; broad-minded girl. Phone evenings."

IN the morning mail: "Did any of your informants happen to be strolling down the boulevard yesterday and happen to see the man painting trees green in front of the dress shop at Michigan and Erie street? And did they happen to hear a little bird chirp up to him, 'Hi, Mother Nature!'"?

"THE BIRD."

Exhibit of Photographs Closes Tomorrow Night

An exhibit of striking photographs, both amateur and professional, which opened Monday, will continue until tomorrow night in rooms 1035-39 of the Peoples Gas Building at 122 South Michigan avenue. The pictures on display include photographs from the fields of science, the theater, newspapers, and advertising.

Officers, Directors of Illinois Garden Club Give Luncheon

All the officers and directors of the Garden Club of Illinois need wish for their annual flower show, April 6 to 14, on Navy pier, is that it be as much of a success as the luncheon the club gave yesterday noon at the Palmer house. The guests discussed show plans. The luncheon was delightfully informal. Mrs. Euclid Snow, president of the state garden club, sat at one end of the long table and Mrs. Owen W. Dynes, general chairman of the garden show, at the other. Among others present were Mrs. Mark W. Cresap, who has just returned from a Florida vacation; Mrs. John T. Pirie, Mrs. Frank W. Kingsley, Mrs. Raymond Knotts, who is publicity chairman for the garden club, and Mrs. Willard W. Jaques.

ENGAGEMENT

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Louise Bernice Gazzolo, daughter of Frank A. P. Gazzolo and the late Mrs. Gazzolo of 5536 Washington boulevard, to William Ross Kibble of Mount Clemens, Mich., son of the late William H. Kibble and Mrs. Mary A. Kibble of Mount Clemens. Miss Gazzolo is a graduate of the Sacred Heart convent in Lake Forest and the University of Illinois. Mr. Kibble attended the Universities of Florida and Illinois. The wedding will take place on May 2 in Chicago and will be followed by a wedding breakfast for the families. After a trip to Bermuda Mr. Kibble and his bride will live in Mount Clemens.

Color Photos of Paris Styles to Be Printed

Exotic Clothes Reproduced in Every Detail.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

The most exotic ensembles from the spring fashion shows in Paris will be reproduced in THE TRIBUNE next Sunday in a double page spread of photographs in full natural colors.

Every woman who has sighed for a seat among the favored at those exciting and important showings will find the masterpieces reproduced in all their loveliness.

Each graduation of color, every novelty of line is apparent in the magnificent photographs taken by Scaioni of Paris, whose color camera has recorded many sensationally lovely costumes for THE TRIBUNE in earlier seasons. None, it is conceded, has ever achieved the perfection of this group.

Contributing to the ultimate artistry of the photographs—which in extent and beauty have never been rivaled by any American publication—were the merged talents of experts in many fields.

Surveying the charms of the individual pictures one notes fabrics as rich, as perfect, as foreign mills could proffer to the designers; the expert handling of those cloths, in the suave, sure manner of French dressmaking skill; the handiwork of the most accomplished needlewomen of the ateliers; the deft, sophisticated blending of tints and shades to suit the coloring or to emphasize the type of the mannequins who wear them so proudly and so well.

And before and above all is the magic wrought by the color camera in perpetuating this bevy of beauty—with the genius of Scaioni pervading the whole, unmistakable in the manipulation of lights and the dignity of the severely simple backgrounds.

Both street suits and formal ensembles are presented in the collection, which includes creations from the salons of Marcel Rochas, Lucile Paray, Molyneux, and Mainbocher.

In the case of the last named—a former Chicagoan—one full page has been devoted to illustrations of his newest successes, including the hooded evening ensemble that created an unparalleled stir. In this instance it is shown in shell pink net, embroidered with dots, although it was also done dramatically in black chiffon.

Another of the Mainbocher triumphs is his evening suit for summer. Silk crêpe in a floral print in pastel tones fashions this devastating costume, with a straight shirred blouse of palest blue for contrast. Details that will be studied intently include the intricate draping of the slim skirt, and the artful use of harmonizing sprays of flowers on the short jacket in the hairdress.

For sheer fascination, however, the pictorial presentation of Marcel Rochas' ode to springtime will admit no rivalry. This gifted Frenchman has utilized embroidered ciel blue organdy to create a gown as youthful as the season itself.

A voluminous, billowing skirt, Great puffs of sleeves, shirred across the top and slipping completely off the shoulders. Anchored at one side of the belt is a rope of pale pink hollyhocks, which loops about the neck and crosses the brief bodice again to the waistline, creating havoc in masculine hearts and thumps of envy in the feminine.

This double page reproduction of fashion trends from Paris is the first of three. The second series, photographed by Scaioni and supervised by Bettina Bedwell, Paris fashion editor of THE TRIBUNE, will appear on Sunday, April 7, and a third on April 14.

You can't afford to miss them!

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Beauty after a beauty treatment that includes cleansing, toning, massage and a makeup. Its immediate effects are invaluable but even more important is its worth as a preventive of the wrinkles and sagging contours that threaten the woman over twenty-five.

One of the things you should do, for the good of your soul and the ultimate prevention of any wrinkles a cruel fate might be tempted to toss to you, is to get beauty treatment minded.

Some day when our telephone rings and a plaintive voice confides that its owner wants the name of a cream that will put an end to wrinkles we'll go stark, staring mad! We get a request like that a dozen times a day. If we knew of a cream or a lotion or what have you that would erase wrinkles we'd merchandise our knowledge. You wouldn't be allowed to speak to us for less than a thousand dollars a word!

There just ain't no such cream. It's prevention that takes care of the wrinkle question. And to keep your face and your neck young and beautiful we don't know anything better than consistent beauty treatments at the hands of a good operator.

We thought of this yesterday when we admired the glowing skin and the youthful contours of a woman we know to be well over 50. She economizes on a lot of things, but she gets her facial every ten days as automatically as she breathes. We should all do likewise if we can possibly scrape up the pennies.

A lot of women have the idea that facials are terribly expensive. They're not really. In Chicago you can get a perfectly marvelous one very reasonably. It begins with a bracing cleansing of soap and water and complexion brush. It continues through the steps of oiling and massaging of face, neck, and throat to a beautiful climax of a swell makeup. For one hour a deft operator with feathery fingers gives you a gentle but superb treatment that does wonders in the way of staying time's urge to etch lines in your face and bog down its contours.

It's the sort of treatment that's worth its weight in gold: and you can afford it.

Good Morning!

Sparkle and originality to this new "musical"!

It really isn't at all concerned with the French "Folies Bergere." It only wears the name with an air and has, for its leading character, a versatile fellow, supposed to be comic and idol in chief at the famous Parisian music hall. Otherwise the piece is, I understand, an adaptation of an old farce called "The Red Cat."

And now we see the effervescent Maurice Chevalier of the bee-stung lower lip doing a "double." He is Charlier of the Folies and he is the Baron Cassini.

Charlier, wildly adored by the masses and his jealous wife, Mimi, does a grand impersonation on the stage of the fascinating nobleman, who is having trouble both marital and financial. So excellent is his imitation that when Cassini is put to the necessity of disappearing for a time for the purpose of raising money . . . "twentee meelion francs," to be exact . . . Charlier is lured to masquerade as that gentleman. . . . And O, my dears, such a merry comedy of errors as does ensue! I do hate to be a plot giver away, but I CAN at least tell you you're going to get a large-sized kick out of developments in "Folies Bergere." Charlier does one magnificent job of spellbinding in more ways than one, and, after much music and dancing, merriment, and ado about lots of things, the picture snaps into a finale as IS a finale.

His rôle in this release is the sort of thing Chevalier knows just how to handle. It shows him as he was when he was the idol of the Paris theater world. I think that, perhaps, one of the nicest things about "Folies Bergere" is his evident enjoyment in the part he plays and the enthusiasm of general of the entire cast.

Ann Sothern as Mme. Charlier is a fascinating blonde whirlwind. Merle Oberon, dark, gracious, mysterious, poised, and evincing a delightful sense of humor, plays the Baroness Cassini to the nines. Deft bit acting is contributed by Lumsden Hare, Olin Howland, Robert Grieg, Frank McGlynn Sr., Eric Blore, and Walter Byron. Direction was praiseworthy.

Ensemble numbers are classy and pleasingly brief, and the music is love-Rain," "Singing a Happy Song," "Au ly, "I Was Lucky," "Rhythm in the Revoir L'Amour" and "You Took the Words Right Out of My Mouth" are the hit songs. And if you don't find yourselves humming every last one of 'em I miss my guess.

See you tomorrow!

Sculptured Silk

A gown to bring out the mysterious woman in you is a slithery, slinky thing at Blum's. It is so quietly made you know it must be French; that sly simplicity took an uncanny bit of draping. You wear it to match your moods, gathering its soft, rich folds up nun-like about your throat, or letting them slide from your shoulders into the wickedest sleeves of the season. It is quite backless, or discreetly slit to the waist, as you prefer. Of course it gives you the figure of a goddess. Black as the night and twice as exotic, it catches the moon's light in the gleam of a huge, fantastic buckle. This dress will break your heart if you can't have it. The price is $195.

Six Institutions to Share Income of Trust.

Nearly all of the $2,000,000 estate of Jep J. Dau, chairman of the board of Reid, Murdoch & Co., wholesale grocery house, was left to charity. This was disclosed yesterday when his will was filed for probate with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin of the Probate court. Dau died on March 13 at the age of 89.

Under the will, which was filed by the law firm of Wilson and McIlvaine, the largest share of the estate will be set up as a trust fund for the benefit of six institutions. These will share the income from the trust, which is to be established with securities that remain after a few specific bequests have been paid.

Division of the Income.

The income from this trust is to be divided into 20 equal parts. The will provides that four of these parts —one fifth of the income—are to go to each of four institutions: the Chicago Home for Incurables, the United Charities of Chicago, the Children's Memorial hospital, and the Young Women's Christian association. The remaining four parts of the income are to be divided equally between the Danish Old People's Home of Chicago and the Chicago Orphan asylum.

In addition, the will provides that a trust fund of $100,000 be set up. The income from this will be used to pay sickness and disability benefits for all employes of Reid, Murdoch & Co., who have been in the company's employ more than 10 years. Horace W. Armstrong, Sidney P. Stevens, and John MacMahon were named supervisors of this fund.

It was specified that the payment to any single beneficiary under the plan is not to exceed $5,000. The fund is to be terminated at the end of 20 years.

The will also provides a bequest of $10,000 to Ripon college in Wisconsin.

To a nephew, Frederick W. Dau of New York, and a niece, Mary Hughes Radford of Chicago, are left the Dau home at 4807 Greenwood avenue, valued at $10,000, together with all Mr. Dau's personal belongings. To them also is left the discretion of sharing their bequest among Mr. Dau's six nephews, three nieces, five grandnephews and three grandnieces.

A Margaret Connors, described in the will as an employé, was left $1,000.

Mr. Dau's wife, Harriet Hughes Dau, died in 1917.

'ALLOWS $101,360 CRANE BEQUESTS TO 14 EMPLOYES

Executors of the estate of Richard T. Crane Jr., president of the Crane company, who died on Nov. 7, 1931, were granted permission by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell yesterday to pay out $101,360 to fourteen employés as provided in Mr. Crane's will.

The provision is that each of the fourteen employés be given from the Crane estate a sum equal to his total salary during the term of service.

Albin Johnson, a chauffeur, will receive the largest amount, $24,255. Kate Sime, a maid, the oldest employé of Mr. Crane in point of service, will receive $15,824.44. Richard Sweningson, a houseman, will get $19,301.83, and George W. Pickett, a porter, will be given $14,613.25. The smallest amount under the provision is $964.83, which goes to a truck driver.

While still active in business, Mr. Crane distributed among his employés from his private fortune an estimated total of $12,500,000 in cash and stock bonuses.

RUSSIAN PRINCE, ONCE CONSUL IN CHICAGO, DEAD

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Prince Nicholas Engalitcheff, 62, nobleman of the czarist era who escaped ruin in the revolution, died in his hotel suite during the night.

The prince's last days were lonely and he died with no friend or relative at his bedside. His third wife—he was her fourth husband—is believed to be on the Pacific coast. Her money had made the prince's last years comfortable, however. Her income came from silver mines left by her first husband, Albion B. Emery.

The prince escaped the terrors of bolshevism because, when the revolution came, he was vice consul in Chicago.

Prince Engalitcheff's first wife was Mrs. Evelyn Florence Pardridge Clayton, daughter of Charles W. Pardridge, wealthy Chicago department store owner, who was divorced from Samuel S. Clayton of Philadelphia in 1891. The prince and Mrs. Clayton were married in 1898.

In 1916 they were divorced and before the year was out the prince had married Denise Melanie de Bertrand in Paris. He divorced her in 1933.

LAWYER LEAVES BULK OF ESTATE TO INSTITUTIONS

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—John Hubbard, retired lawyer and former treasurer of the International Banking corporation, who died May 27, 1933, left an estate of $1,555,314 gross and $1,423,171 net, according to a tax appraisal filed today. Much of the estate goes to public institutions, Bowdoin college receiving the largest share.

Division of various trusts results in receipt of $41,742 by the New York County Lawyers' association, $48,362 by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, $529,976 by Bowdoin, four-tenths each of $277,424 by the French hospital and the Monmouth Memorial hospital at Long Branch, and one-tenth each by the Ladies' Christian Union and the Neighborhood Music school.

The widow, Helen Fahnestock Hubbard of Paris, waived her rights and received $17,139.

LENGTHY ILLNESS IS FATAL TO REV. J. J. MORRISEY

The Rev. John J. Morrisey, formerly pastor of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament at 3600 Cermak road, died Tuesday in the Alexian Brothers' hospital after a long illness.

Father Morrisey was born in Rockford in 1865. He was ordained in Chicago in 1890 and became assistant pastor at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Joliet. He served also as assistant at St. Rose of Lima church and as pastor of the Church of Immaculate Conception, Highland Park, and St. Finbarr's before going to the Blessed Sacrament church in 1912. He was compelled by ill health to retire from his pastorate in 1927.

Surviving Father Morrisey is one sister, Mrs. Mary Doyle of Oak Park. Funeral services will be held at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

CAPTAIN'S DEATH IN COURT RIOTING LAID TO HEART

A coroner's jury investigating the death of Capt. Joseph Palczynski, 73 years old, who fell dead in the Women's court during a colored cultist riot on March 5, returned a finding yesterday that the veteran policeman's death was due to heart disease and made no further recommendation.

The inquest was held in the county jail by Deputy Coroner Louis J. Nadherny in order to permit testimony by a number of rioters, who were given jail sentences for contempt of court by Judge Edward S. Scheffler.

Father J. J. Rossiter Dead of Pneumonia

The Rev. James J. Rossiter, assistant pastor of St. Christina's Catholic church at 110th street and Homan avenue, died yesterday in the Little Company of Mary hospital after a short attack of pneumonia. Father Rossiter, 35 years old, formerly was assistant at St. Dorothy's church. He is survived by his mother and a brother.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Beetle, Phil Baker's ghostly heckler, has resigned and it is not likely that he will be replaced. With his departure it becomes known that the insolent, metallic voiced stooge was played by Henry Arthur Ladd, a young Hollywood actor. Ladd, however, was not the first Beetle. During the first few weeks John Muldowney, who had served Baker as a stooge during his vaudeville days, played the part. But he had a yen for a career under his own name and took to singing on the air.

Playing the part of a mysterious ghost in a studio the size of a telephone booth got on Ladd's nerves. The anonymity was too much for him. An actor likes to be seen and to see his name in print. It got so lately that even his friends inquired of each other: "Whatever happened to that Ladd guy?" So Ladd quit. Baker plans to concentrate more on the dialect comedy of Arthur Arbach, who doubles as a photographer on the New York Daily News.

Jan Garber' commercial broadcasts for that yeast concern will end April 8. On April 21 he leaves the Trianon and W-G-N to make a summer's tour. Carlos Molina then will play at the Trianon for two weeks. Earl Burtnett is likely to follow him, continuing until Anson Weeks arrives in July.

George Olsen and Ethel Shutta are to make a movie on the west coast before returning to Chicago next fall. . . . Mary Jane Walsh is the new soloist with Seymour Simons' orchestra at Milwaukee. She's a Chicago girl, who formerly sang with Ted Weems. . . . Muzzy Marcelino and "Candy," Ted Flo-Rito's comic soloists, both have small parts in "Roberta," the picture on view at the Palace.

Kay Kyser will play the Purdue junior prom April 12 and the military ball at the University of Illinois on April 26. The W-G-N maestro recently provided the music for Northwestern's prom and the Washington prom of the University of Chicago. Freddy Martin will play for the University of Wisconsin junior prom just before opening at the Palmer house and W-G-N late next month.

Johnny Johnstone, promotional director of WOR, visited W-G-N yesterday. He's making a tour of MBS stations. Johnstone, once pianist for Vincent Lopez, predicted that most of New York's dance orchestras will be off the late night airlanes for some time to come because of the musicians' union tax.

Several national orchestra favorites will broadcast over the Mutual network from Westwood Park, near Detroit, this season. Little Jack Little is to open the season May 30. Others to follow are Ted Weems, Buddy Rogers, and Vincent Lopez.

BUILD THEATER ON WHEELS FOR USE IN PARKS

The city's department of public works yesterday began construction of a theater on wheels which will be used during the summer to present free drama for Chicagoans in various parks and neighborhoods.

The theater, to be built on a truck trailer, will contain a stage, dressing rooms, and sound equipment of sufficient volume to permit a crowd of 15,000 to hear the plays. Unemployed actors will perform in the theater. The committee in charge of the work is seeking donations of scenery and costumes.

The theater will be ready for use in a month, according to Miss Marguerite Eustice, head of the committee, which has opened offices in the Morrison hotel.

Mrs. Margaret McLachlan Funeral Services Set

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret McLachlan, mother of William M. Dewey, managing director of the Edgewater Beach hotel, will be held at 9:30 a. m. Saturday at her home, 5555 Sheridan road. Services will also be held at 10 a. m. at St. Ida's church. Mrs. McLachlan died late Tuesday night at the Edgewater Gulf hotel, Biloxi, Miss. She had been suffering from heart disease.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

HOPKINS AGENT DENIES CRIMINAL OHIO EVIDENCE

Columbus, O., March 27.—(AP)—C. C. Stillman, federal relief director for Ohio, declared tonight he has no affidavits indicating criminal activities in connection with the administration of relief in this state.

However, he told a legislative investigating committee, he has a few affidavits alleging irregularities in the surplus commodities division.

Stillman, who took over his position after Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, charged there was a "corrupt" tieup between relief and politics in Ohio, was the third witness to appear before the committee.

Hopkins recently sent to Ohio affidavits which he said supported his charges.

W. A. Walls, former state relief director, told the investigators that the cost of administrating relief could be slashed sharply and that the state headquarters personnel could be reduced 20 per cent.

Frank D. Henderson, who preceded Walls as relief director, told the committee Hopkins did not interfere with his activities. Gov. Martin L. Davey has charged that Hopkins dictated Ohio relief activities.

Stillman's daughter is working at state headquarters, he said, but he has notified her to look for another job and she will be out April 1.

DR. J. M. FISHER, 45 YRS. A DOCTOR HERE, DIES AT 84

Dr. John March Fisher, for 45 years a practicing physician in Chicago, died yesterday at his home, 641 Oakdale avenue. He was 84 years old, and had retired from active practice two years ago.

Dr. Fisher was born in Summerville, N. J., and at the age of 4 came west with his parents who settled on a farm two miles east of Antioch. He graduated in 1887 from the University of Illinois college of physicians and surgeons, where he later taught as a professor of physical diagnosis. He also was a former professor at the Chicago Policlinic hospital, and a former attending physician at the Chicago General hospital.

Surviving are his wife, Estelle, two children, Dr. Ralph Warner Fisher of Chicago and Attorney Clarence John Fisher of Kenosha, Wis.; three grandchildren, and a brother. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Saturday in the chapel at 2701 North Clark street, with interment at Antioch.

Miss Bastien Will Be Bride on Saturday

Only Relatives, Few Friends to Be Present.

California but already she is making plans for another vacation, this one to be taken with Mr. Yager. They will leave in a week or so for a motor trip to South Carolina.

Mrs. Arthur H. Hedly and her daughter, Marion, have returned to their home in Libertyville after an extended trip through the west. They visited Phoenix and then went on to Los Angeles and Palm Springs. Motoring back they encountered the dust storm at Oklahoma City and verify all of the reports of its severity.

Because Miss Dorothy Dudley, a member of the class of '29 at Smith college, has done such noteworthy work on the concert stage since her graduation, the Chicago Smith club is entertaining at tea for her this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Otto G. Schmidt, 5528 Woodlawn avenue.

Miss Dudley came to Chicago with the Opera Comique company and since remained for a short visit before going back east. Mrs. Schmidt is the acting president of the Smith club in the absence of Miss Nettie Baumann, who is enjoying a six weeks' motor trip through the south. Miss Helen Grant, Mrs. Donald Jones, Mrs. G. Lyle Fischer, and Mrs. Adolph O. Hartmann will preside at the tea table this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wolfe and Mrs. Wolfe's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Stock, will entertain at supper after the symphony concert tonight for Mr. and Mrs. Vladimir Horowitz and Mme. Arturo Toscanini. Mr. Horowitz will be the soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra this evening.

Schipa Concert Will Be Benefit.

Among those who have taken tickets for Tito Schipa's concert next Sunday at the Auditorium theater are Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, Mrs. Charles S. Swift, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. Dewes Burgweger, Mrs. Raymond P. Hoover, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener, Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, Mrs. Edwin A. Seipp, Mrs. George Rasmussen, Mrs. Julian Armstrong, and Mrs. Sewell Avery.

The concert will benefit the scholarship fund of the Mount Vernon seminary in Washington and tickets may be obtained at the Mount Vernon office, 662 North Michigan avenue as well as at the box office of the theater.

Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, assisted by Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Arthur Allais, Mme. Marcel Peyronnet, Mme. Henri David, and Mrs. Louis K. Boysen, will be hostess at the causerie of the Alliance Française this afternoon. Mme. René Weiller, wife of the French consul general in Chicago, and Mme. Ernest Pri, wife of the director of International house, will pour. Arthur Bovee, who has been professor of French at the University of Chicago for 25 years will speak on "Cliches Français."

"The Social Rôle of Humor" will be discussed by Dr. George E. Vincent at the Woman's Athletic club next Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock.

The alumni of Mercersburg academy will give a dinner on Thursday evening, April 4, at the Union League club for Dr. Boyd Edwards, headmaster of the school, formerly headmaster of the Hill school. Dr. John Timothy Stone and Dr. Charles W. Gilkey will be the speakers. Among the Chicago alumni who are active in arranging the dinner are Samuel D. Rowe, Harold Pynchon, Walter Carroll, and Lawrence Hallberg.

College Club Party for Irving K. Pond.

The Chicago College club is giving a dinner Friday evening, April 5, for Irving K. Pond, president of the Cliff Dwellers. Mr. Pond will talk on "Architecture and the Rest of Life."

Anticipating spring house cleaning when attics and clothes closets are stripped of their white elephants, the Lake Forest Y. W. C. A. announces that it will hold its annual rummage sale all day April 6. Mrs. Calvin D. Trowbridge is chairman of the committee in charge, which includes in its membership Mrs. W. Scott Bromwell, Mrs. Edward Arpee, Mrs. Dwight Ingram, Mrs. Hermon Dunlap Smith, Mrs. Woodbury S. Ober, Mrs. Elliott Donnelley, Mrs. Fred Stevens, and Mrs. Philip Speidel.

Boxes Reserved for Dresden Choir Concert.

Although the first announcement of the coming to the Auditorium theater this spring of the famous Dresdner Kreuzchor [boys' choir of the Dresden Holy Cross church] was made just recently, already there is a long list of boxholders. The concert will be given on April 12 and among those who will hear it are Mayor and Mrs. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, the Graham Aldises, Dr. and Mrs. John Timothy Stone, the Walter Paepckes, the Charles H. Swifts, the Frederick Stocks, the Walter Dill Scotts, the Theodore Brentanos, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne and Robert Hall McCormick.

The kreuzchor consists of 65 boys, 10 to 19 years old, and has been in existence since 1200. From 1717 to 1817 the chorus sang in the Dresden grand opera performances and Richard Wagner wrote numbers in his opera "Rienzi" for it.

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink and Mrs. Archibald Freer, both of whom have heard the chorus often in Dresden, say that there is no counterpart for the unusual tonal nature of their work. Public spirited music lovers of Dresden underwrote the expenses of the tour and any surplus will go to American charities.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

RUBBER PLAY AND DUPLICATE PLAY

The spread of duplicate has been so rapid in the last fifteen months or so that I sometimes ask myself whether just as many of my readers are not interested in the duplicate aspect of bidding as in the purely rubber play point of view. By "duplicate angle" I mean only that which applies to match—point scoring; under cumulative or total-point scoring, the conditions are practically the same as for rubber play. However, nearly all duplicate games are now run under match-point scoring, whether the players move according to the Howell movement or the Mitchell movement; and nobody having played the former would ever wish to return to total-point scoring in any pair game. Only in team-of-four knockouts does [or should] total point scoring survive in tournaments.

A Misconception Which Is Still Prevalent.

I still get letters to this effect: "I am one of your readers who never play duplicate, but only rubbers. I am not interested in duplicate angles. Why do you refer to duplicate so frequently? Why are most of the hands that you give taken from tournament play and not from rubber play? Is it not true that you yourself play almost exclusively duplicate and that your system is designed primarily if not solely for tournament play?"

It is a misconception to assume that there is a real divergence between the two forms of the game. The differences are really very few, and they involve no change of theory or principle, only slight changes in strategy on rare occasions, and a slightly different application of the same basic methods. The main differences are, I think, in connection with fourth-had opening bids and in connection with part scores obtained on previous hands.

TAKE IT FROM ME that duplicate experience is necessary to produce fine contract players. It takes duplicate to develop accuracy both in bidding and in play, especially in play. Playing only rubber bridge, one is apt to be, or even to become, sloppy in one's dummy playing and in defense. I myself have to fight against this when, as sometimes happens, I travel or go on a cruise, and play rubber to the exclusion of duplicate for a time. The average player's game lacks polish until he or she takes up duplicate. They may be just as good in bidding their games; but if they neglect to make reasonable plays for overtricks when the contract is safe, just because the overtrick is unimportant as regards the points it brings in, they are deliberately neglecting to improve their card-playing. The same play, or the reasoning leading to it, may have a different value the next time. It may then be the only play to fulfill a doubtful contract, and unfamiliarity with the technique of such play may cause you to muff it. Or else this may happen. You have correctly reached what appears, after sight of dummy, to be a QUITE SAFE EASY CONTRACT OF FOUR HEARTS.

If you are a tournament player, before you play to the first trick you will be planning how to play for five-odd, or even six, without endangering the contract of four. You will be playing for five-odd from the start. If you are a rubber player contemptuous of tournament addicts, you probably will play the hand hastily, glad to have an easy game and anxious, especially if you are winning, to get the score entered and pass on promptly to the next hand. Now it develops that the hand plays very unfortunately for you. The distribution against you is fiendish. The essential suits will not break, the finesses fail, you are overruffed. Any or all of these can convert complacency into defeat. The player who was playing for five-odd from the start can probably overcome these bad breaks and make four-odd because he has already planned to play for the maximum. The one who was merely playing for the contract—from the angle of speed rather than safety—will usually find himself in a hopeless position when the unexpected difficulties begin to show themselves.

Bridge Tourney Hits Its Stride; Two Quarrels

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—A small gallery at Crockford's club today witnessed the first clash of temperaments between P. Hal Sims and Ely Culbertson, principals in the 150 rubber contract bridge match which has piqued the fancy of bridge players the world over. Mr. Culbertson won his point.

Having thus got into his tournament stride, Mr. Culbertson increased his side's lead to 3,230 points in the afternoon session. The Sims family returned refreshed after dinner, however, and by midnight had cut the Culbertson lead to a mere 600 points. They accomplished this by winning the first three rubbers of the evening session. On the first they picked up 790 points, on the second, 560, and on the third, 1,280.

The dispute was one over the keeping of the scores. On the day previous Mr. Culbertson, while eating his breakfast from a tray beside the playing table, failed to notice a part score and bid his partner, Mrs. Josephine Culbertson, into an unmakable contract.

Today Mrs. Culbertson was the offender. With a part score of thirty, she carried a four diamond bid to five, and it was after watching his wife toil over the contract that Mr. Culbertson insisted on having an official scorer.

Mr. Sims held that even an official scorer might err, and insisted that the score be kept by the principals. In the ensuing word battle Mrs. Dorothy Rice Sims left the table and wandered into the corridor.

"Ely's starting something," she remarked.

Eventually, it was agreed that Sir Derrick Wernher, who has sat at Mr. Sims' elbow since the match started, keep a score along with the principals and call out the score at the end of each deal. This he did, his booming voice announcing "Love all," or "Game and Game," or "Gulbertson part score of 30." [illegible]ughout the play.

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible]ertson won the first two rubbers of the afternoon, bettering their 1,750 carry-over from Tuesday night to 2,670 on the first and to 3,140 on the second. Mr. and Mrs. Sims then won the next two, but scored a net point loss of 90 because undertrick penalties have a way of offsetting rubber bonuses.

Had Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson bid some of their good cards to the limit, they might have increased their lead considerably.

On one hand the Culbertsons stopped at 3 no trump and took all the tricks. Asked why they did not reach the grand slam bid, Mr. Culbertson said his wife had erred in bidding 3 no trump when she should have said four diamonds, which would have given him the slam clew.

The Simses went down three tricks on another hand, and when the official scorer chalked up 450 points against them Mr. Sims spoke to his wife.

"Darling," he said, "must I tell you every time that a king and one, in a suit I've bid three times, is worth a raise?"

"But, Hal," Mrs. Sims replied, "I thought—"

"Thought!" thundered King Hal, "How many times have I told you not to think. Just do what I tell you!"

'Lipstick Lorgnette' for Glasses Shown at Beauty Meeting

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—An ingenious solution for the perplexing problem of those women who cannot read without spectacles but refuse to use them in public for the sake of appearance was offered today at the convention of the New York State Hairdressers and Cosmetologists association.

A "lipstick lorgnette," which looks like a pretty case for lipstick but from which a pair of glasses pops out at a push, was offered as the answer to milady's quandary.

The "lipstick lorgnette" weighs only one ounce and is about an inch and a half long. Originated recently by a New York optical concern, these handy spectacles fit into a corner of any handbag. The case is made of enamel and many color combinations can be utilized to make it harmonize with milady's ensemble. The higher priced lipstick lorgnettes cost $20.

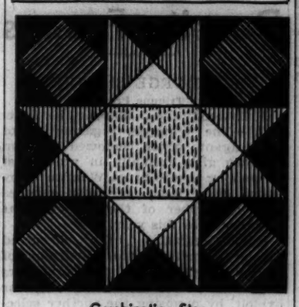
Quilt Is Lovely Result of Scraps in Combination



Combination Star.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The ease with which we select materials for quilts today was unknown to our great grandmothers, who collected treasured bits of calico, cotton, or chintz from their best dresses, and hoarded the scraps until enough pieces were on hand to make the entire coverlet. Scraps for "Combination Star" were saved by one little old woman for a whole year before she was able to begin her quilt. The results justified her patience, as was judged by the popularity of the pattern.

U. of C. Given Ancient Script of the Gospels

Call Armenian Document Second Oldest.

Acquisition of an Armenian gospel manuscript, believed to be the second oldest work of its kind in existence, was announced by the University of Chicago yesterday. The manuscript, which contains parts of the gospels of Matthew and Mark, is believed to have been written in the ninth century.

It was donated to the university by Frederick T. Haskell, Chicago capitalist, who purchased it for an unannounced sum from Prof. W. J. Gregory of Westminster, Colo. The manuscript was found somewhere in the Levant by Prof. Gregory's brother, the late Prof. Caspar Rene Gregory of Leipzig.

The gospel is in the form of rolled parchment sheets, each one 16 inches high by 12 inches wide, and is written in large Armenian uncial characters—capital letters, slightly rounded and inclined.

The identity of the scribe is not known. The manuscript contains the following texts: from Matthew, 21:21 to 25:9 and 27:65 to 28:13; from Mark, 1:1 to 6:14 and 9:14 to 10:14.

The only known Armenian gospel which antedates the Haskell manuscript is one in the possession of the soviet national library at Moscow. That manuscript is dated tentatively in the year 887.

Prof. Edgar J. Goodspeed, chairman of the department of New Testament and early Christian literature at the university, said that the newly acquired gospel will be of special significance to scholars because it was copied before the invasion of the near east by the Crusaders when the Armenian text had not yet begun to deteriorate.

The Armenian version of the gospels was made originally in the fifth century, Prof. Goodspeed said, presumably from Greek to Syriac sources, but the Crusaders carried the Latin Vulgate text to the 11th and 12th centuries, and copies made after that time often are affected by the influence of the Vulgate text.

"The Armenian version is of importance," Prof. Goodspeed declared, "because it was originally made from excellent manuscripts and in many places preserves a very ancient text. The great size of the newly acquired manuscript marks it as supreme in stateliness among ancient Armenian uncials. It must have been written to be the lectern Bible of some great church or convent in Armenia."

The manuscript will be investigated and published by Prof. Ernest C. Colwell of the university, Prof. Goodspeed said, and should help to decide the controversy as to whether the Armenian version was translated from the original Greek or from an intervening Syriac version.

Pynchon Loan Exhibit Offers Varied Types

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A loan exhibition of modern paintings from the collection of Adeline Atwater Pynchon [Mrs. Harold C.] may be seen in the Century gallery, Diana Court. It is an unpretentious show but one that has its moments.

For instance, those who like trees and whose knowledge of poetry is not too limited will hail with delight the exquisite, delicate line of "Trees" by James Chapin. Those who like mothers and babies, particularly when caught in a playful, whimsical mood, will enjoy the "Composition," by Emmanuel Romano, a truly delightful episode.

Romano is a painter of talent and he does not keep all his eggs in one basket. He tries this and that. One of his successful departures into the unique is "Strolling Minstrels," which is captivating in action and line. His approach to the sculptural in "Two Women" finds his touch heavy, but the result not without dignity.

Emil Lehner is a casual recorder. He gives us a horse that would be out of place on a track or farm, in fact, it resembles a freak horse such as cloth thrown over human legs can produce. But do not be discouraged, his "Horse" is just one item in a group that includes a charming vague tale of sailors in a blue haze and a "Basket of Flowers," a basket stacked high with tight roses against a red glow, and a crystalline clear study of "Pussy Willows," which is fascinating.

The "Subconscious Painting," by Angeles Ortiz, is a hit or miss concoction in black and white of fish, kites and eyebrows. You may call your own with this. In direct contrast is the severe "Winter Landscape" by Arnold Friedman. The "Nude" by Archipenko is rather lovely and the two sketches of "La Rochelle — France," by Raoul Domenjoz, are thoroughly pleasing.

The exhibition will continue to April 6.

Keep Away from Water

By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts the hazardous though thrilling post as companion to Miss Christine Venables, prim, kindly and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced, threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. Before leaving London Miss Venables' widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Venables, Harry's stepmother, dies suddenly. She had been treated by Dr. Gilcrest, from Ste. Brigitte, who was visiting in London. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron Henri de Bellesnaves and his beautiful wife; Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Harry arrives. Beryl Tomlins, who had just had a prescription of Dr. Gilcrest's filled by his dispenser, Marjory Barrows, is taken suddenly ill and dies. Dr. Gilcrest states an intestinal hemorrhage caused her death. Miss Venables receives another threatening letter, telling her she has one more day to live. Harry is on a visit to Monte Carlo. The baroness has gone to Arles for the day. The fatal day passes safely. Miss Venables takes her medicine and retires. Shortly after Sarah is awakened by her agonized call. She dies within the hour, after declaring to Sarah that she was poisoned. Sarah tells Dr. Gilcrest, who has been left a substantial income by Miss Venables, that it is up to him to demand a post-mortem. Harry returns. He objects to the post-mortem.

INSTALMENT XL.

A GIFT OF JEWELS.

From now on Sarah passed from one trying interrogation to another, preserving so stony a silence that those who crept soft-footed and sympathetic to her room went away in chill displeasure. She felt sorry for Mrs. Cripps, who, chalk-faced and dithering, was the first to besiege her for an opinion, but the woman's spinelessness irritated her so that she hardened her heart against admissions.

Seven o'clock came, and with it the last, faltering knock. She opened the door only to draw back with every nerve in her body taut as a violin string. There stood the baroness—swollen-eyed, dressed in sober black, her lovely face working with a grief which seemed wholly real. The slight form hesitated, then cast itself upon Sarah, who felt nauseated with the engulfing scent. Her unresponsiveness must have been sensed, for after a convulsive pressure the clinging woman withdrew to gaze with dark, swimming eyes into the dry ones opposite. Sarah remained completely dumb.

"I have just reached home," the visitor began chokingly. "I've heard—and I am completely stupified. Dead—Chressie dead! I can understand nothing." Her hands fluttered distractedly. "I was so absorbed in Henri,

I never noticed . . . Why did she die? You called the doctor at once, yes? And before he came she said—she imagined—"

"That she had been poisoned."

The baroness recoiled, covering her eyes with one hand while the other seemed warding off an attack. Against the black of her gown her nails showed blood red.

"Ah, ah!" she moaned. "Are you sure she spoke those actual words? You did not misunderstand her?"

"There were two of us who heard."

The dark eyes stared hard at her. "Then it is true. I found it impossible to believe till now. Yet even so, I cannot . . . Why should she think that? So incredible, so fantastic!" The baroness mused, apparently thunderstruck, and shook her head helplessly. One would have said she was for the first time realizing things of which she had no previous knowledge. "But," she resumed, searching Sarah's immovable features, "it is still more grotesque that Dr. Gilcrest, so sensible a man, should be taking her belief seriously enough to—to—"

She paused, evidently hoping that Sarah would help her out, but Sarah said nothing. She continued falteringly, "What can it mean? That not being present he has some slight doubt?"

"I think," said Sarah steadily, "that's a question you had better ask him."

"Ah, no!" cried the baroness, confused. "Henri himself would not like doing that, and I would certainly not dare. If there has been some error in diagnosis, Dr. Gilcrest will be feeling most sensitive about it. Though I cannot think he has made a mistake," she added firmly but in so formal a tone that she might have been speaking of a mere acquaintance. "No, no, we shall see that this has been only an unhappy delusion. How could one suppose otherwise? What puzzles me is that I, close to her as I was, should never have guessed her capable of such ideas. It is all very strange."

She sank on to the edge of a chair, her eyes upturned to Sarah's as though she sought information but hesitated to pry into what did not concern her. It was natural, thought the girl, for her to try, subtly and plausibly, to detach herself from the whole situation, most of all from Gilcrest. She no longer used his first name, and her manner regarding him had become almost prim. Recalling the intimate phrases of the note left in the book Sarah felt she could bear no more. She opened the dressing table drawer, took out the message from Miss Venables and with a brief explanation laid it in the baroness' lap.

"For me. But why?" murmured Mme. de Bellesnaves, wonderingly.

"Because she thought she might die."

With another bewildered glance, the baroness tore open the envelope, read what was inside, and crushing the paper between her fingers dissolved into a flood of tears.

"C'est trop!" she sobbed, great drops coursing unchecked down her olive cheeks and carrying with them little flecks of eyeblack. "Poor, poor darling! She has left me all her jewels . . ."

Miss Venables' jewels, as Sarah well knew, comprised only a modest row of pearls, some old-fashioned diamonds seldom taken from their cases, a handful of antique ornaments also rarely worn, a dozen strings of amber, jade and the like.

Watching narrowly, Sarah could not detect the smallest sign of anxiety regarding the post-mortem, or even any marked interest in its result. It seemed to her that the baroness was shocked, that in an aloof way she disapproved what was considered an unprovoked and pointless procedure, but not personally concerned. Essentially she was indifferent, even more so than Harry, and definitly more than the doctor, although in one respect—the entire absence of fear—her attitude echoed theirs. Was Sarah the only one who scented wrongdoing? Perhaps she had overvalued the statement of a woman overwrought by suffering and mental stress. She had not forgotten how Mrs. Bulstrode and Madge Whittaker had looked at her last night. They had thought her a person liable to run away with excitable ideas—as possibly she was.

Genuinely moved as the baroness appeared to be, Sarah could not warm towards her—and yet, O, the unutterable relief to feel that nothing actually evil had been done! Her eyes had been blinded by a noxious fog. All the atmosphere round her had breathed of poison gas. Let her sweep it away . . .

"Sarah, old girl!"

Harry had burst in without troubling to knock, taken two quick strides, and laid his hand impulsively on her shoulder. All at once he perceived the baroness. The affectionate familiarity of his manner dried up, he gulped in disconcerted embarrassment.

"I say—I didn't know . . . so it's you, madame!" He was stammering awkwardly, his good looking face fallen into depression. "You've come back then?"

Mme. de Bellesnaves had risen. Her tears had ceased, and she was struggling to command her voice. She did not immediately raise her eyes, but when she did their dark irises were filled with quiet, deep compassion. She had become very gentle, very maternal, but somehow far removed.

"Mon cher," she murmured brokenly. "I did not think to see you. I—I—forgive me, I cannot say what I wish. It is too soon. I—perhaps I had better go."

She pressed his hand quickly, bade Sarah a wordless au revoir, and with the same new dignity which made her the more appealing slipped from the room. Harry wavered, seeking Sarah's advice.

"Think I ought to see her home? It's dark, you know."

Not waiting for a reply he followed, but in a minute or so came back to say that he was not wanted, as she had come in her cousin's car. He was subdued and thoughtful.

"It seems you and I—and I suppose Mrs. Bulstrode—have got to be interrogated by the police. In fact, a whole flaming consignment of 'em are coming here tomorrow morning to put us through the mill. Jolly prospect, what? No way out of it, though."

Like the rest of his type, he had been long trained to show no emotion, and yet by the way in which he lit a cigaret, took a few jerky puffs and ground the remainder under his heel Sarah knew that he was far from unshaken.

Wampas Stars Will Be Named Despite Frowns

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 27.—[Special.]—The Wampas, organization of press agents which bestowed fame on thirteen girls annually in years past by picking them out as Wampas baby stars, finds itself at cross-purposes with a number of the producers at larger studios this year.

Film magnates have discussed among themselves the squelching of the Wampas, which the producers never have been able to manage or exploit, by opposing the further selection of baby stars and by refusing permission for the Wampas to obtain any studio participation in further enterprises. Not all the magnates find themselves as opposed to the press agents guild as some of their number, however.

According to officers of the Wampas, the thirteen baby stars will be nominated for exploitation this year as usual, and if the producers discourage the consideration of young actresses whom the producers hold under contract, the thirteen will be nominated from the ranks of free lance ingenues.

One of the girls prominently mentioned for possible Wampas honors is Ethelreda Leopold, 20 year old platinum-haired Chicagoan. Another is Verna Hillie, Finnish-American blonde, from Detroit. A third who may find herself among the charmed thirteen is Lucille Lund, former Northwestern university campus beauty.

Anne Shirley [former Dawn O'Day], a 16 year old of great promise who was featured in "Anne of Green Gables," almost certainly will be chosen by the Wampas if her studio, Radio, does not frown on her choice.

The executives who oppose the baby star feature most formidably include Louis B. Mayer of M. G. M.; Fred Beetson, local head of the Hays office; Winfield R. Sheehan of Fox studio and the new management at Paramount which already has chosen six of its own contract girls as Paramount proteges in a stunt paralleling the Wampas baby star custom.

An unusual screen test was taken of Fred Perry, English international tennis champion, when he showed up at M. G. M. studio. Perry was chatting with Virginia Bruce and, unknown to him, sound cameras were trained on him recording his natural manner, voice, postures and carriage without the tenseness that usually marks newcomers' ventures before the testing camera. Plans are to give Perry a featured part in a film.

Frank Shields, tall American tennis star, already is working as an actor at the same studio, his first part coming up shortly in the mystery story, "Murder in the Fleet," in which Robert Taylor and he play American naval lieutenants and Madge Evans is the feminine headliner. The old vaudeville couple, John Hyams and Leila McIntyre, also will appear. They are parents of the actress, Leila Hyams.

Because she wanted to determine for herself if she has any film future, or ought to go back to the Tulsa dance school of which she was head, Grace Ford has asked and obtained dissolution of her movie contract at Warners and is taking part in an independent film. She had drawn salary from Warner's since last September, but never was used in film because the company had her taking lessons.

THE STAGE

"Hollywood Holiday," the comedy in which Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon, and "Skeets" Gallagher are appearing before the footlights, will have its Chicago première on Easter Sunday, April 21, at the Selwyn theater. The story of the play deals with marital misadventures among cinema stars.

Ian Keith has been engaged to replace Philip Merivale in "Mary of Scotland," which is coming to Chicago May 6 with Helen Hayes as star. This change of cast was forced by Merivale's decision to go to England and make preparations for a Shakespearean tour next season as co-star with Gladys Cooper. Keith, well known as a romantic actor, is currently occupied in the filming of a cinema spectacle called "The Crusades."

The Illinois theater, which has been vacant for two years and scheduled for demolition, may be put back into stage service. The Shubert theatrical company has commissioned an architect to make an estimate of the cost of reconditioning the house. C. C.

BY MARY MEADE.

Refrigerators used to disclose sorry secrets in the old days—odd little cups and bowls partly full of left-over vegetables, a couple of disconsolate cold baked potatoes, a quarter head of dreary looking cabbage—you know the list! Not that there was anything sad about their just being there, but they all seemed to know that they were fated for little better than being dumped out eventually.

Maybe it's been this period of penny watching that we've been going through, or maybe it's something else, but the fact remains that every modern cook's head is buzzing with clever ways to turn these left-over odds and ends of vegetables into varied and interesting new dishes.

A few spoonfuls of cooked vegetables which have been served without a sauce of any kind may be chilled and divided in neat little piles around a wedge of crisp head lettuce for a salad. They may be heated and used to garnish a meat platter, folded into an omelet, added to a steaming soup kettle, or tucked under the crust of a meat pie. Or they may be combined with other vegetables which are making their first appearance either buttered, in a well seasoned cream sauce, or in an aspic jelly.

Now for some really definite suggestions. May they help to solve your present left-over problem or some future one:

Baked Bean Rabbit on Toast.

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
Salt, pepper
1 cup (or more) left-over baked beans
1 cup grated American cheese

Melt the fat, add the flour, and blend well. Stir in the milk and seasonings, and cook until thickened. Finally add the beans, let the mixture heat thoroughly, and mix in the cheese. When the cheese has melted to rich creaminess serve on squares or triangles of crisp toast.

Onion and Potato Scallop.

1½ to 2 cups cold cooked potatoes (either boiled or baked)
½ to 1 cup cold creamed onions
¾ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
Salt, paprika

Slice half of the potatoes in the bottom of a buttered baking dish. Add the left-over creamed onions, cover with the remaining potatoes, and moisten with milk. Sprinkle with salt and paprika, dot with butter, and bake in a moderate oven for a half hour.

Scalloped Tomatoes and Corn.

1 cup canned tomatoes
1 cup left-over cooked corn (cooked green beans may be added)
1 onion, chopped
Salt, pepper
1 tablespoon butter
½ cup cubed dry bread

Combine the left-over vegetables and chopped onion in the bottom of a greased casserole. Sprinkle with seasonings, dot with butter, and cover the top with the cubes of bread. Bake at 400 degrees F. for a half hour. Grated cheese may be sprinkled over the top during the last few minutes of the baking if desired.

Eggs in Spinach Carrot Nests.

1 cup cold cooked spinach
1 cup cooked carrots
½ cup bread or cracker crums
½ cup medium white sauce
Salt, pepper
6 eggs
2 tablespoons butter

Mix the spinach and carrots lightly with the crums and white sauce and line six small baking dishes with the mixture. Drop an uncooked egg into each hollow, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and dot with butter, and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set.

Distinctive Model for Matron

WOMAN'S DRESS.

Becoming details about this smart caped shoulder dress have been carefully designed for matrons. The long, narrow vest effect, and slimming pointed V front are especially clever. Still more helpful, perhaps, is the gored skirt with low, circular fullness. It creates length and cuts breadth. Silk, cotton, or printed linen are lovely materials from which to choose.

The pattern, No. 2954, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure.

Scoop!—The spring edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clothes Fashions is on sale. Its pages present the latest modes for spring, designs that forecast early summer styles, comprehensive suggestion for assembling colors and fabrics and feature articles, intriguing to women everywhere. The price is 15 cents; 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address Chicago Tribune, P. O. box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Carnation Red Is New Color in Spring Hats

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Looking for a new hat color?

Try the last red gasp. It's called carnation. One shop has a flock of these blushing beauties of this new fashion shade. It really looks more like the dark red carnation tucked in a gentleman's coat lapel than anything they have invented as yet.

These hats are large brimmed and a lot of the brims are dipped and twisted to make smaller affairs to go with suits and one piece street dresses. It's a grand red shade to go with Quaker gray, a color combination to watch and wear before it gets too well tried out.

New patent lether handbags with amazingly low price tags have clever extras included for the low price, a vanity, cigaret case and lipstick holder in colored enamel. For instance, you can go spring in a big way. Buy a navy blue bag fitted with snowy white vanity cigaret case and lipstick holder, or you can be dashing and try scarlet with either blue, brown or black.

For stunning swank try a white patent lether with inky black make up gadgets. And if you don't fancy patent lether you can have a dull crinkled lether and the same high colored gadgets.

Neckwear in white gets more interesting every day. From the big wide chest protector effects in piqué or linen with pointed edgings to the utterly lovely fragile gilets, vestees and frilled jabots of sheer wisps of white organdy and fine lace any one can use old and dated black frocks and achieve an exciting costume that will make every head turn.

Frilled cuffs with lace edgings to match are another trick that can be worked with the magic white frostings on dull dark wool dresses.

There's a big white chou effect of white that you tie right under your chin with a black ribbon that's quite different from the demure bows or ties. White bibs with and without ties are knockout white accents for slim tailored street clothes and they are the easiest of all tops to adjust.

Big eighteen inch sheer linen squares in lots of vivid colors to accent new spring tweeds and woolens suits are high fashion. You can find black, bright blue, clear canary yellow, gray, old gold, and scarlet.

Tucked in the big patch pocket of your suit, or used as a neck handkerchief, they are pet color high notes for spring. They are as tailored as the ensembles they were designed to contrast.

Paintings by Faculty of U. of I. to Be Exhibited

An exhibit of 47 paintings by faculty members of the department of art of the University of Illinois will be shown in the Marshall Field galleries next week. The exhibit will include works done in oil, watercolor, monotype, pastel, and brush ink drawings. Prof. LeForce Bailey, four of whose water colors will be included, received the highest award at the National Water Color show in New York City last November. Prof. Rexford Newcomb dean of the college of fine and applied arts, will speak at a tea at 4 o'clock on Monday. The public is invited and admission is free. The exhibit is sponsored by the Chicago Illini club.

White Details Must Be Ruffled to Be Smart Now

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—White touches come back in the new Paris styles, but they are not the same white touches we wore last year. You can't get away with a bow or a jabot of the vintage of '34 if you want to be on the style bandwagon. Of course, if you don't care, then this is not for you.

Sheer white ruffles, set in the front only of round necklines, are one of the new ways of putting on the white touch. Pocket edition white Valenciennes lace jabots tied with pink ribbon bows at the neckline are a Schiaparelli way. Mainbocher puts cabbage size twin white organdy flowers at the waistlines of navy blue frocks. There are lots of different ways.

Marcel Rochas has his way, shown here, and it is like that of no one else. He encrusts the whole front of the bodice with a freely interpreted plant [species unknown] that goes right up the center front of the waist above two black ciré satin leaves. The dress is made of sheer navy wool and has, also, a plain white piqué belt.

The hiplength cape has navy blue revers that are cut at the edges to repeat the white piqué application on the front of the bodice.

Children Should Be Out of Doors Much in Spring

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

By dint of skipping—with a guilty conscience—small chores like mending, and by staying up after the family had been settled for the night and kitty and the pup had been out and in, and the furnace banked, I have been able to sneak in a couple of English novels lately—"This Little World" and "The Pathway."

How those Englishmen do love the country, and how they adore their English countryside! And it isn't any blind dumb adoration—their love of nature. Their love seems to grow in direct ratio to their knowledge of outdoors. They are not just nodding acquaintances with trees and birds and brooks and flowers—they're intimate friends with them. Even every different little configuration of land and degree of woodedness has its name. One is tempted to make a little dictionary of the names—those copses and fens and coverts and spinneys and coveys—not to mention—moors.

I could actually capture at first hand a little of their English feeling about such things when one day, on the long walk back from Stratford-on-Avon to Warwick, we lost our way and strayed across a rise of land belonging to an old manor house and surprised a dozen or so does and dappled fawns playing in the sun.

Many Americans have as deep a love of their own countryside and as intimate a knowledge of its trees and flowers and feathered and other inhabitants—but not nearly enough of us have it. Automobiles are responsible for some of this lack—you need to be on foot to get close enough to nature to know her. And when you do she repays you. Do you know this from actual experience? And do your children?

It's cold, but spring is in the air as I write—the juncos and chickadees are still with us, but we've already seen lots of cedar waxwings enjoying the suet we've hung out, and two days ago we saw a bluebird—and one boy swears he heard a spring peeper—and I had the first pussy willow brought me yesterday—and the maple buds grow redder and redder.

Don't let your children miss spring. It's more than marbles and baseball and shedding galoshes and getting Easter clothes. Spring is a great sweet stirring spectacle that no child should miss. You can find it with your child in the parks if you can't get to a country place, but every big city has real country and seashore within easy reach.

To help you to help your children to know outdoors we have two full lists of handbooks and reference books on birds, seashore life, trees, flowers, and so forth. A stamped, self addressed for each leaflet is all that is necessary to obtain them.

Shorter Skirts Bring Need for Leg and Ankle Exercises

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The skirt length for day wear is certainly shorter. About twelve inches off the floor is the latest ruling. If that isn't going to contribute to a snappier street parade, nothing else will. BUT, say you, what about my legs?

Say we, get after them pronto! Don't be caught mid-season yerning for the good old days when skirts were three, four, or six inches from the floor. Don't you believe them when they say you can't get that weight off your feet. You can, but believe you aren't going to get it off overnight or over a dozen nights. Give an exercise a good month's trial, morning and night, before you complain about it.

I suggest putting the tape measure to work before you begin, just to prove to yourself what can be done in one month's concentrated effort. I'll give you two leg and ankle exercises right now that are humdingers. I've seen more than one pair of underpinnings remodeled under their able direction. One case was almost startling in the improved symmetry of calf and ankle.

1. Lie on the back, raise legs and simply go through the old bicycle pedaling movements, but with vim and plenty of vigor, as if you were going to ride that fat off the legs even if you had to ride to Cairo and back again.

2. Down in same position, raise right leg [straightened at knee] up high, then lower. But here's the trick. Lower slowly, slowly, slowly, and stretching, stretching to toe tips all the way down. Do other leg. Alternate. But stretch and stretch and stretch.

If you're where you can get out and jump rope, and you haven't any heart ailment, jump! Anyway, you can do the stationary running act, which means going through the running motions, lifting knees higher and higher, not getting far away from one spot on the floor.

Parents Unwise to Allow Girls Charge Account

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In a letter before me the question of allowing girls of high school age the freedom of the family charge account is called to the attention.

The writer of the letter is the mother of a 16 year old who has no privileges with her mother's charge accounts. The daughter's pal, Vi, we'll call her, can go in and charge stockings, gloves, shoes, dresses, without consulting her parent beforehand.

"My daughter's companion hasn't the faintest conception of the value of money. She quite boldly says 'O there's always a row at the first of the month, but mother can fight that out with dad. She always does, even if there's the devil to pay.'"

My correspondent's daughter, of course, would like to be given free hand with her mother's account, which, fortunately for the young woman, is not going to be given her. But the parent wonders how many young women are being trained in reckless spending through easy access to the family charge accounts. She says, and rightly, that this type of training surely will have a vicious influence in Vi's married life later, in the life of any girl who isn't taught to recognize that a charge account is a convenience with obligations and restrictions.

"Can't you just see her future husband tearing his hair and upbraiding the woman for her extravagance? She'll probably just fight it out, even if there's the devil to pay!"

Charge accounts in the hands of reckless women are no less than dynamite. Lord only knows how many homes have been blown over them. How many husbands' hairs have been grayed to keep up with them! Tempers blasted, bitter altercations!

It's vicious to allow a girl of high school age to charge willy-nilly what ever comes into her head to purchase. The parent is the idiot. With this free and easy access to what she wants, the girl has no way of knowing the value of money, no way of comparing, no standard of rule or judgment, and heaven help the man who attempts to retrain her later.

New England Women.

The Chicago colony of New England Women will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Herman W. Erskine, 5040 Blackstone avenue.

"Mother, I'll pass things if you're ashamed of your hands—"

"AT my bridge party, even my daughter noticed how embarrassed I was over my red, rough hands.

"Later she said, 'Mother, maybe your hands would look as nice as Mrs. Nugent's if you used Lux for dishes. She says anybody can have nice hands by using Lux instead of harsh soaps.'

"It's true! Since I've changed to Lux for dishes, I'm proud of my hands! And a big box lasts more than a month for all the dishes."

LUX for dishes keeps hands young . . .

TELLS OF DAYS SHE LOST

I'll always regret the time it took me to try Midol; the first time that I used it proved that I had simply been suffering needlessly every month." A great many women could say that! Are you one who is postponing its comfort and still enduring periodic pain?

These tablets have no narcotics of any kind, but they act very fast and are effective for hours. Two tablets should see you through your worst day. Midol is a special medicine, for this special purpose, and specialists can tell you how well it works! You'll see it on the druggist's counter — or just ask for Midol. Today, so you'll have it ready.

CHICAGO TEAM ALL SET TO WIN GOLDEN GLOVES

Wind Up Training for Bouts Tomorrow

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Come on, New York, and take your licking!

That was Chicago's Golden Glovers' theme song last night when they hung up their oversized gloves at the conclusion of their final ring workout. The team is pepped up over its chances of regaining the intercity title and while the actual lineup of 16 boxers will not be named until 2 o'clock tomorrow, none of the boys would admit defeat in any match.

They All Mean It.

From Patsy Urso, flyweight champion, to Lorenzo Pack, the lanky heavyweight titleholder, the team is unanimous in declaring that New York will be whipped. The boys will not be satisfied with anything less than an overwhelming triumph such as the one the 1931 squad scored, 13 to 3.

The training program today includes a morning trip on the road [weather permitting] and gymnasium work in the afternoon. Most of the team has no worries about weight and the three or four who still are overweight have only a pound or so to reduce. This is easily accomplished by "drying out" and refraining from drinking water excessively until time to weigh in.

Both Weigh In Tomorrow.

Both squads will weigh in tomorrow afternoon at the Medinah club at 2 o'clock. The weighing in will be secret and attended only by officials of the rival camps and the A. A. U. men.

Following the weighing in, the Chicago team will return to the Illinois Athletic club for their regular meal preceding the bouts. Then, at 7 o'clock, the squad will start for the Stadium, and one hour later the first of the flyweight bouts will start the eighth intercity program.

The schedule of bouts yesterday in the final workout was as follows and all were one round, with the exception of the featherweight match:

112 POUNDS.
Jesse Levels vs. Jimmy Urso.
Levels vs. Patsy Urso.
Jimmy Urso vs. Patsy Urso.

118 POUNDS.

The boys will receive their uniforms tomorrow morning at the Illinois Athletic club. Savior Canadeo, lightweight runner-up, who would have qualified for the squad except for an injury received in his final bout with Mike Gamiere, also will be awarded a team sweater.

Officials Meet Tomorrow.

The judges and referees who will decide tomorrow night's championships will meet at noon tomorrow at the Medinah club with officials and coaches of both teams for a discussion of the rules. William P. Kenney of Boston, chairman of the National A. A. U. boxing committee who also is one of the intercity judges, and Capt. Roy E. Davis, chairman of the Central A. A. U. boxing committee and vice chairman of the national organization, will direct the discussions.

Wins $40,000 in Sweep; Has Afternoon Off

Worry that he might lose his job was the first reaction of Rolland B. Steele, 25 years old, an employé in the Home Owners' Loan corporation regional office, when he learned yesterday that he had won $40,000 in the Irish sweepstakes. Steele said he had no immediate plans for spending the money.

ROLLAND STEELE.

"Say, do you suppose I'll have to resign now that I've got all this money?" Steele asked his superior, R. F. Lee, who has charge of the mail department. "I hope not, because I want to keep right on working. I know what has happened to a lot of other sweepstakes winners who went off on spending sprees and quit their jobs."

Takes a Few Hours Off.

As the realization of his new wealth dawned on the young man, however, he decided he could afford to take an afternoon off from his work. He promised he would return to the job this morning.

Steele is unmarried and lives at the Medinah Club of Chicago, 550 North Michigan avenue. He was transferred here from the Washington HOLC office last November. His mother lives there.

A messenger brought a cablegram to the HOLC office on the 13th floor at 20 North Wacker drive. It was addressed to "Joe Blow." Steele had used that name in filling out his sweepstakes ticket.

He Can't Believe It.

"I can't believe it!" was Steele's first remark. He snatched from his pocket a green and yellow receipt and checked the number. Finding it the same as the one in the notification, he hurriedly hired a safety deposit box and locked up the receipt.

There were nine other $40,000 awards yesterday in the lottery held in connection with the Grand National sweepstakes to be run at Aintree tomorrow. These, called "residual prizes," are not affected by the outcome of the race, nor are the 504 consolation prizes of $500 each which were drawn yesterday.

Grand National Bookies Give 5-2 on Golden Miller

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 27.—(AP)—On the eve of the 97th running of the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, England's bookmakers faced a crisis following the victory today of Lord Rosebery's heavily played Flamenco in the Lincolnshire, first big event of the flat racing season.

If Dorothy Paget's Golden Miller gets over the hurdles first in the Grand National test Friday it is believed he will bring bankruptcy to scores of the country's oldest and richest commission houses. Flamenco and Golden Miller have been heavily backed by doubles players, while the Lincolnshire winner also has been coupled with John Hay Whitney's American owned Thomond II. in many combinations.

As the result of the critical situation a special call-over was held at the Victoria club in London tonight to give the bookies an opportunity to ease their liabilities. Golden Miller was knocked down from 7 to 2 to the almost unheard of price, for a Grand National candidate, of 5 to 2. Thomond II. was shortened to 6 to 1 while the French bred Tapinoise remained third choice at 9 to 1.

The odds on George H. Bostwick's Castle Irwell, which the young American sportsman will ride himself, were cut to 20 to 1 and Whitney's Royal Ransom was reduced to 25 to 1.

Lucky Dog

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—Cracker, a spry Scottie, may never win a blue ribbon show prize, but tonight he's one of the richest dogs in the world. The 2 year old pup, through his owner, 25 year old E. Wiley Gaffield, an unemployed draftsman, held a lucky ticket in the Irish National sweepstakes, a residual prize worth $40,000 no matter what the horses do at Aintree, England, in Friday's Grand National race.

SEEMS BAER AND SCHMELING ARE GOING TO FIGHT

One Favors Germany the Other New York

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March [illegible] will defend his world heavyweight championship against Max Schmeling in Germany this summer, [illegible] 000 cash guarantee [illegible] was renewed last night.

From another source it was reported that Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, had signed with Madison Square Garden [illegible] fight Baer in June [illegible] commission insists that [illegible] Braddock still is the [illegible] the fight probably would be held [illegible] of the state, possibly to Soldiers field, Chicago, provided the [illegible] go to Germany.

A representative of Walter Rothenberg, who promoted [illegible] ing-Steve Hamas and Walter [illegible] Schmeling fights a match [illegible] on the S. S. Bremen tomorrow to do business with the champion. Abel Hoffman, Baer's manager, has left California and will [illegible] Sunday to meet the German promoter's agent.

Wants Money in New York.

Hoffman has talked [illegible] trans-Atlantic telephone with Rothenberg and indicated his willingness to accept the match, provided the purse is put in escrow in a New York [illegible] Baer is Europe bound.

Baer's purse is to be underwritten by the Reichsbank, with German government sanction. Reichsfuehrer Hitler is reported indirectly [illegible] of this international bout, which he hopes, will allay the anti-Nazi sentiment both here and abroad. Germany is most anxious now to acquire athletic prestige and it is thought the Baer-Schmeling bout will be a helpful curtain raiser to the Olympic games in Germany next year.

"Sure, Max will fight Schmeling in Germany," Hoffman phoned associates here today. "If Rothenberg goes through with his bargain and posts our money in America we're ready to grab the next boat."

May Meet Louis Later.

Assuming that Baer whips Schmeling, he would return immediately to America and probably would wind up fighting Joe Louis, sensational colored heavyweight, for Promoter Mike Jacobs, the Garden's active rival, at the Yankee stadium in September.

Although no date has been set for the Baer-Schmeling match, Rothenberg plans to stage the match late in June or early in July.

Promoter Jacobs signed Braddock today to fight the winner of his Primo Carnera-Louis match, scheduled for this city June 19. The victor in the second encounter would get a bout with the champion if Baer still is that after meeting Schmeling.

Baer, a Jew, has been assured fair play abroad. In accordance with the International Boxing union's rules, neutral officials will be chosen, with probably a Belgian, a Frenchman and an Italian functioning as referee and judges.

"I think Carnera will beat Louis," Baer predicted in an interview at Sacramento, Cal., today. "The colored boy is good, but he is too young and inexperienced. Louis may drop Carnera, but the Italian will get up, believe me. He was dropped eleven times by an expert last June, but he kept climbing off that floor, didn't he? I'll take the winner—those guys all look alike to Maxie. Braddock? Well, he doesn't bat in my league!"

Hope Commission Relents.

Both Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, and James J. Johnston, matchmaker for the Garden, were hopeful that the boxing commission would relent in naming Braddock as the foremost challenger and make it possible to hold the match in the Garden bowl in Long Island City. Under his contract with the champion, Johnston has until April 15 to notify Baer who his next opponent will be, and must stage the match before the end of June. Madison Square Garden also is incorporated in Illinois and if obliged to will be able to promote the fight there.

Schmeling is now on a hunting trip in the Bavarian Alps, but Jacobs said that the German boxer would sail for the United States late in April to go into training early in May, the exact time depending on the date set for the fight.

LORNE CHABOT, goalie for the Blackhawks, won the Vezina trophy in the National Hocky league by allowing only 88 enemy goals. . . . The number might have been only 87 had it not been for his own arm. . . .

In the final game against the Canadiens he tried to block a shot by Wildor Larochelle, but after detaining it momentarily pulled it into his own net with a wild swing of his arm. . . . A year ago Waite Hoyt expected to be dropped out of baseball by the Pirates, but stuck around to be rated the Pirates' best pitcher last season. . . . Heinie Meine was given credit for the comeback because he persuaded Waite to adopt a trick ball called a slider. . . . Meine has been given his unconditional release, but Hoyt is going strong and is counted upon as the Pirates' ace. . . . The hobby of Alfred Letourner, six day bicycle rider, is imitations. . . . His best is an impersonation of Maurice Chevalier, and when a radio announcer asked him if he thought he was better than the actor he answered: "Sure, Chevalier can't ride a bicycle." . . . This is the first year in the last ten that Dan Cahill of Chicago has missed a spring training trip with the Cubs. . . . Joyce Wethered of England, regarded by most experts as the world's greatest woman golfer, will arrive in the United States late in May for an exhibition tour which will carry her as far west as Chicago. She will play on a guarantee basis only instead of the customary gate percentage arrangement. . . .

Thirty-three of the thirty-five players counted upon by Coach Wallie Roettger for the Illinois varsity baseball club proved to be scholastically eligible. . . . The Yankees call Vernon Gomez the snake charmer because he has been frightening people in the spring training camp with a lifelike rubber serpent he brought back from Japan. . . . BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 27.—The Cubs this afternoon found a coterie of ball players they could beat. The Portland Ducks ended the Chicagoans' three game losing streak by meekly submitting, 10 to 1, in the opener of a two game series. The most notable aspect of the form reversal was the pitching of Larry French, who became the first Cub to go the nine inning route.

Whatever disappointments may be in store for Lawrence, he probably will never go along with the lazy contingent of Cubs, and his stepping out today was a happy performance.

Team Work for French.

Larry was purchased partly because it was thought his presence would shame some of his loafing brethren and the theory seemed to work out today. Practically every one on the team appeared to be awake working behind the energetic Californian this afternoon, a rare spectacle, indeed.

French did not allow a runner to reach first base in the first four innings and he allowed only five hits all the way.

Bill Cissell, former $123,000 White Sox beauty, was the first to break through on French. He doubled to start the fifth and scored on two outs for the only run.

Two Casualties Occur.

The joy of actually winning behind good pitching was tempered somewhat by two casualties. In the first inning Vice President Grimm retired with a split nail, and two innings later Assistant Manager Gabby Hartnett went out with a similar injury.

Grimm, who strained his trick back at the same time he hurt his finger tonight admitted that his old lumbago was back for a visit. Lights, lotions, balms, etc., were wheeled in hastily.

The Cubs came within one hit of making as many safeties in the first inning as they made in each of their two defeats by the Seattle Indians. The National leaguers made six runs in that opening inning on singles by Galan and Herman, a walk to Klein, a single by Lindstrom and error on Hartnett, a double by Jurges, and a single by French.

Klein Hits Homer.

In the second inning Klein knocked a homer over the right field fence. The smack was especially notable because Chuck made it off Gorley, a left handed pitcher.

A single by Cavarretta, a walk to Stephenson, Jurges' sacrifice, and French's fly were good for a run in the third, and Herman's single, Klein's sacrifice, and Lindstrom's single fetched another marker in the fourth. Run No. 10 was put across in the fifth on Jurges' single.

Tomorrow Lon Warneke, another of the Cub workers, will seek to go nine innings.

TIETJE, WYATT EFFECTIVE, BUT BATTERS FAIL

Weaver and Osborne Hold Chicagoans.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Yuma, Ariz., March 27.—The White Sox continued their spring staggering today by shuffling off another exhibition to Pittsburgh's Pirates. The score after nine sweaty innings in ovenlike heat was 4 to 1. However, the Chicagoans felt they had shown some improvement despite the defeat. They actually scored a run after struggling through twenty-one innings without getting a man around to the plate.

The fact that the Pirate run production was confined to respectable limits also was encouraging. Credit for the achievement can be given to Les Tietje and Whitlow Wyatt, the former performing during the first five innings and Wyatt taking care of the remainder. Tietje's efforts resulted in two Pirate runs, but one of them was tainted by a raw error on the part of Marty Hopkins at shortstop.

Conlan Prevents Shutout.

It was while Jim Weaver, ex-Cub, was tossing his baffling fork ball that the Sox mustered enough strength to break in with a run. Jocko Conlan, acting as a pinch hitter, inspired this bit of enterprise in the fifth. All the Sox hits also were entered into the box score while Weaver was among those present. After the retirement of the 6 foot 6 inch Kentuckian the Chicago boys were forced into complete retirement so far as their bats were concerned. The net result of their four innings of swinging against Wayne Osorne, recruited from the Missions of the Coast league, was two passes, but no hits.

The bit of good the Pirates did for themselves in the first inning started with Jensen bouncing a single past Wright at first base. P. Waner poked into a forecout and raced to third on Herman's single to right. Wright picked up Vaughan's roller for an out at first base and then threw to the plate too late to get P. Waner. Traynor also single, but Tietje avoided further trouble when Suhr flied to Simmons.

Another Pirate Run.

The Pirates didn't get a man to base in the second, third or fourth, but changed their tactics in the fifth and picked up one more run before Tietje could finish his day's work. Tietje contributed to the slight disturbance by walking Lavagetto, who was forced by Padden. Weaver fanned, which is one of his old habits. Jensen doubled to left, Padden halting at third P. Waner rolled to short and Hopkins fumbled. Padden scored on the error and Jensen tried to follow him across the plate, but was retired on Hopkins' throw to Sewell.

The fifth in which the Sox finally scored opened with Vaughan booting Dykes' grounder. Sewell banged into a double play. Conlan was ushered forth to serve as pinch batter for Tietje and doubled to left. Hayes did the same, Conlan scoring. Radcliff beat out a hit to short. Then Hafey, who had relieved Simmons, rolled into a forceout.

Wyatt Yields Tally.

Wyatt's appearance in the sixth marked the registering of another Pirate run, giving them a 3 to 1 edge. For a starter Wyatt fanned Herman, but slipped a pass to Vaughan, who scooted to third on Brubaker's single to center. Vaughan scored on Suhr's fly to Hafey. Brubaker endeavored to go to second on the throw in, but was caught, Hafey to Wright to Hayes.

The Pirates' second run off Wyatt and their fourth of the day came in the ninth because Browne led off with a double. A sacrifice moved him to third and he went home on Grace's fly to Washington.

Tomorrow's Sox-Pirate performance will be staged at Phoenix, Ariz., with George Earnshaw and John Whitehead pitching for the American leaguers and Ralph Birkofer and Cy Blanton doing the same for the opposition.

27TH RUNNING OF AMERICAN DERBY SET FOR JUNE 22

Horsemen Will Get Entry Blanks Next Week.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Derby day in Chicago this year will be June 22.

On that Saturday afternoon the American Derby carrying an added money prize of $25,000 will be renewed for the 27th time at the Washington Park race track it was announced yesterday by John P. Harding the new president of the Washington Park Jocky club.

Entry blanks for the American Derby will be in the hands of horsemen throughout the country early next week. It will cost $25 for an owner to nominate his 3 year old for the historic race and $500 more if he starts the steed.

Coming as it does on the fourth Saturday in June—later than it is usually run—it is possible the American Derby may bring about the contest that will decide the 3 year old championship this year.

The Kentucky Derby, Preakness Stakes and Belmont Stakes all are to be decided before the field goes to the post in the American Derby and there is every likelihood that the winners of all these traditional 3 year old specials will be in the American Derby starting field.

The American Derby was first run back in 1884 and was won that year by Edward Corrigian's filly Modesty. She was the only filly ever to win the race. Cavalcade won it last year as he dashed through the campaign that carried him to the 3 year old championship.

Owners of some 150 race horses which arrived at the Aurora track yesterday and were unloaded during the snow storm which hit this territory during the afternoon were considerably concerned about the health of their steeds last night.

All the horses arrived from New Orleans and the weather was so balmy along the journey north that their shipping attendants were caught unaware and had no idea the horses would be led off the cars during a cold, disagreeable storm.

Colored stable boys who had wintered in the south shivered just as much as the horses did when they left the express cars and Tim Smith, the Aurora track superintendent, had to turn on all the available heat in the Aurora barns to get the horses and stable boys thawed out.

A pair of 2 year olds which have entered near Chicago are attracting wide attention at the Aurora course. Most horsemen believe they are the best looking juveniles at the track. Their names are Sun Tryst and Exonerate and both are sons of Sunny Saint which stands at the farm of Dr. J. M. Kaiser at Lake Forest.

These colts were bred by Harry Gorham and while neither has been tested for speed they are so well put up and are such racy looking individuals they are being made eligible for all the 2 year old stakes to be run on Chicago tracks this season.

10 JOCKYS HURT, 3 HORSES KILLED IN FALL ON TRACK

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

SYDNEY, March 27.—Three horses were killed and ten jockys hurt at Ascot today in the worst race course accident ever known in Australia.

Fourteen horses started in the flying handicap and all were bunched near the finish when The Motorist fell. Nine horses behind fell over The Motorist and each other and their riders were thrown among flying hoofs and screaming horses.

Eight jockys were taken to a hospital, most of them with broken bones or concussion but all are out of danger now. Two were treated on the course for bruises.

The rider of The Motorist, which was one of the horses killed, is unable to account for his mount's fall. There was no interference but the horse suddenly dropped probably having crossed its legs. The Motorist fell at exactly the same spot in the flying handicap last June but examination of the track today revealed no apparent defect.

CAMPBELL GETS SPEED PLAQUE FROM GARNER

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell today received from Vice President John Nance Garner a silver plaque commemorating his five record automobile speed races on the sands of Daytona Beach, Fla.

While a crowd looked on and applauded from the senate steps of the capitol, the Vice President smilingly presented the token to the British racer on behalf of the citizens of Daytona Beach, where on March 7, Campbell drove his Bluebird to a 276.816 miles an hour record.

Calling the British sportsman an ambassador of good will between the United States and Great Britain, Garner said he had "demonstrated a skill and heroism which we all honor."

Purdue Defeats Louisiana Tech, 10-5, to Win Series

Chicago Team All Set to Win Golden Gloves

16 boxers who will appear in the ring against Chicago's representatives.

George Coyle, the Radio City writer and Bernie Reitman will represent New York in the flyweight division, while Charley Villareale and Ray Olivo will fight in the bantamweight class. In the 126 pound division Johnny Cabello and Angelo Bruscato were named by the coaches.

Harvey Lightweight Choice.

The No. 1 position in the lightweight class was given to the clever Harlem veteran, Sodgewick Harvey, while Murray Kravitz will fight in the runnerup spot. According to Coach Young Otto four fighters are still in the running for the two welterweight assignments. They are Eddie Steele, Sammy Meadows, Ludwig Kubisch and Herbert Solomon.

Bradley Lewis, colored New York printer, who represents the Salem Crescent club, and Otis Johnson, 20 year old member of the Roman S. C. of Brooklyn, were named as the middleweight boxers. Phil Raggosino, New York's champion of 1931, will take the champion's place in the light heavyweight division while either Dom Scappatura, Stan Hasrato, or Bjarne Ekeland will represent New York in the runner-up position.

Howell, Green Heavies.

Jim Howell, 23 year old pants presser, and Larry Green, insurance agent, will be New York's heavyweights against Chicago's great colored pair, Otis Thomas and Lorenzo Pack. Green, who lost this year to Howell, put up a great battle before losing to Max Marek in the intercity show at Madison Square Garden last year.

The eastern coaches, however, said the lineup is tentative. There may be several changes before the first bell at the Stadium tomorrow night. The 16 boys will be chosen from a squad of 38 who were brought to Chicago from the east.

Scare Chicago Scout.

While yesterday's session was secret, as all other New York drills since their arrival have been, a Chicago reporter sneaked into the Medinah club gymnasium shortly before noon and from one of the far reaches of the large gymnasium watched the New Yorkers belt each other around two rings. He shuddered as the big eastern heavyweights, light heavyweights, and middleweights leveled each other off.

The trembling Chicagoan left the gymnasium and his copious notes were handed to Chicago's coaches, who hope they will aid them in handing New York its fourth defeat in the series.

600 TRACK MEN TO COMPETE IN OAK PARK MEET

Oak Park High school's track team will defend its championship Saturday at the Oak Park fieldhouse in the fifth annual high school invitational relays. The preliminaries are scheduled at 2 o'clock and the finals at 7:30.

The meet has been won by Oak Park each year. Last spring it finished with a total of 55 points, Evanston placed second with 34, and Senn third with 22.

Glenn Holmes, athletic director at Oak Park, will have charge. Invitations are extended to 40 schools from the northern half of Illinois, and a total of 600 athletes compete.

Lincolnshire Handicap Is Won by Flamenco

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LINCOLN, England, March 27.—Flamenco, owned by Lord Roseberry and 8 to 1 in the betting, today captured the Lincolnshire handicap, Flamenco finished three lengths in front of Bow and Arrow. Heavyweight was third in the one mile race, the first important event of the flat racing season.

WONDERBOLTS DRILL IN SNOW FOR ST. LOUIS

Thunderbolts, Chicago [illegible] from taking a hard workout for their second game with the St. Louis Cardinals, national champions, at De Paul field, Sheffield and Webster avenues, Sunday in the [illegible] of the national cup competition.

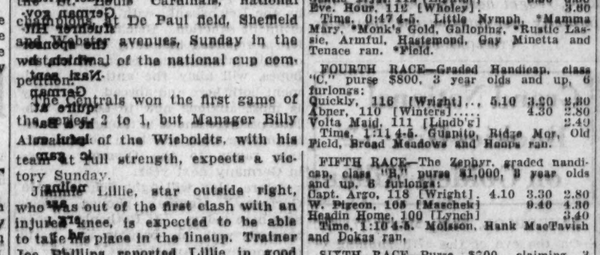
The Centrals won the first game of the series 2 to 1, but Manager Billy Alexander of the Wisbidts, with his team at full strength, expects a victory Sunday.

Jimmy Lillie, star outside right, who was out of the first clash with an injured knee, is expected to be able to take his place in the lineup. Trainer Joe Phillips reported Lillie in good shape.

HELEN STEPHENS REFUSES TO RACE STELLA WALSH

St. Louis, Mo., March 27.—[Special.]—Helen Stephens of Fulton, Mo., who defeated Stella Walsh, Cleveland star, in the 50 meter event in the National A. A. U. track meet last week, today refused to meet the Olympic champion in a series of three races.

Miss Stephens, who is 17 years old, captured three events in the national meet. She gave no reason for declining Miss Walsh's challenge.



TIGERS HAMMER BOTH DEANS AND BEAT CARDS, 13-8

Bridges Repeats World Series Victory.

Bradenton, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers, behind the pitching of Tommy Bridges, lambasted the Dean family for 12 hits and beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 13 to 8, today.

It was Bridges who pitched Detroit to victory over Dizzy in the fifth game of the 1934 world series. Neither Dean was effective today against the team they vanquished last fall. It was the Tiger's second spring training victory over the Cardinals. Score:

Detroit [A.].....204 005 110—13 13 1
St. Louis [N.].....220 010 201— 8 13 4

Batteries—Bridges, Sullivan and Cochrane; J. Dean, P. Dean and Delancey.

SENATORS, 3; BLUES, 2.

Biloxi, Miss., March 27.—(AP)—Washington evened its count with the Kansas City Blues, 3 to 2, today, but the afternoon brought the bad news that Irving Hadley, right hand pitcher, had developed an arm ailment that may keep him out part of the season.

So serious does Trainer Mike Martin consider the ailment that Hadley, who was purchased from the St. Louis Browns in a winter deal, will leave tonight for Chattanooga for treatment.

Kansas City [A.]..200 000 000—2 5 1
Washington [A.].....101 000 001—3 6 3

Batteries: Niggeling, Beard and Gaston; Whitehill, Pettit and Bolton, Holbrook.

PHILS LOSE, 4 TO 3.

Orlando, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—The Phillies suffered their third straight setback by an International league team today when they lost to the Montreal Royals, 4 to 3.

It was a banner day for Phils castoffs. Harry Smythe started on the mound for the Royals and was given credit for the victory. Lineup:

Philadelphia [N.]....000 000 021—3 10 2
Montreal [I. L.].....000 100 03*—4 7 3

Batteries—Gumbert, Hansen and Todd. Jonard: Smythe, Frazier and Stack.

REDS WIN, 14 TO 7.

Tampa, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Cincinnati's Reds and their International league farmhands from Toronto matched home runs today, the Reds winning, 14 to 7.

Handley chalked up a homer for Toronto, but Riggs hit a homer and a triple, and Mize another four bagger for the Reds to win back four runs which Hollingsworth yielded on three passes and three singles in the first. Bennie Frey signed today, completing the Red pitching staf. Score:

Cincinnati [N.].....221 112 014—14 18 4
Toronto[I.].....401 011 000— 7 9 4

Batteries—Hollingsworth, Frey and Erickson, Warth: Hilcher, Grissom and Crouch.

BROWNS ENJOY REST.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns took it easy today as they started down the home stretch of a highly successful spring training season.

With nine victories out of 11 games, the American leaguers have only six more grape fruit contests before they entrain for home. Today was an open date and Rogers Hornsby spent the time mulling over the selection of a starting pitcher to oppose Buffalo tomorrow. He selected Jack Knott.

GIANTS, 2; INDIANS, 0.

Pensacola, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—With Fred Fitzsimmons, Leon Chagnon and Al Smith combining to pitch shutout ball, the New York Giants turned back the Cleveland Indians, 2 to 0, today to end a three game losing streak.

Each team got six hits but the Giants made the most of theirs, as Phil Weintraub pounded out two triples. Score:

New York [N.].....100 000 100—2 6 1
Cleveland [A.].....000 000 000—0 6 0

Batteries—Fitzsimmons, Chagnon, Smith and Mancuso, Danning: Hudlin, Winegarner and Pytlak.

YANKS TRIUMPH, 6-1.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—After going hitless for four previous games and the first three times at bat today, Lou Gehrig finally came through with a double as the New York Yankees defeated the House of David, 6 to 1. The double was Lou's third hit in 37 trips to the plate this spring.

House of David.....100 000 000—1 4 1
New York [A.].....030 001 20*—6 11 2

Batteries — Swancy and Hangnew; La Flamme, Melton, and Glenn.

DODGERS FACE TIGERS.

Orlando, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—The Dodgers had a half holiday today while the Phillies and Montreal used Tinker field for an exhibition game, but they had an extra long morning workout to make up for it. Van Mungo and Johnny Babich were let off with a light drill as they are scheduled for mound duty when Brooklyn resumes its exhibition series with Detroit at Lakeland tomorrow.

PAT CRAWFORD'S PLAYING DAYS BELIEVED OVER

Kingston, N. C., March 27.—(AP)—Dr. Floyd Wooten said today he feels that Pat Crawford's baseball playing days are over.

Dr. Wooten said the recently appointed manager of the Rochester Red Wings and reserve infielder last year of the St. Louis Cardinals would have a permanently stiff left hip as a result of septicemia, which has been localized in the thigh joint.

Crawford became ill with blood poisoning early this year after an operation. He spent several weeks in Memorial General hospital here under care of Dr. Wooten. The infielder was back at the hospital today for further observation.

Kieckhefer Loses Second Game in Cue Tourney

Augie Kieckhefer, playing 55, lost his second game in the All Star handicap three cushion billiard tournament at Kieckhefer's last night when he was defeated by Harry Ticks, 45 to 49, in 48 innings. High runs were Ticks 4 and Kieckhefer 7. Tonight Len Kenney [50] meets Harry Ticks [45] at 8 o'clock.

Roughhouse Glover Knocks Out Tony Zale in Ninth

Cincinnati, O., March 27.—(AP)—Roughhouse Glover, Jacksonville, Fla., middleweight, scored a ninth round knockout over Tony Zale of Gary, Ind., tonight at Music hall. Zale made an impressive start, but in the fourth was weakened by a right uppercut to the stomach. Glover weighed 161, Zale 159.

Hawks Disband as Hocky Foes Continue Playoffs

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

While the Toronto Maple Leafs, Boston Bruins, New York Rangers, and Montreal Maroons prepared yesterday to continue the playoffs for the world's hocky championship, the Chicago Blackhawks, deposed as holders of the Stanley cup, yesterday began to disband, a few to remain here and the majority to go to their homes in Canada.

The playoffs will continue tonight, the Maple Leafs and Bruins resuming their first place bracket at Toronto, while the Maroons, who eliminated the Hawks from the cup competition with a 1 to 0 overtime victory at the Stadium on Tuesday, will invade Madison Square Garden to meet the Rangers in the first game of the semi-final round. This bracket will be decided on the basis of total goals for two games, the teams meeting again at Montreal on Saturday.

The winner of the Ranger-Maroon series will meet the victor of the Toronto-Boston contests, which are being decided on a three out of five basis, for the Stanley cup. Toronto and Boston each has won one game thus far. The remaining three will be played at Toronto.

Hawks Pull for Maroons.

The Blackhawks, who lost the Stanley cup with a short handed team growing out of a major penalty to Lolo Couture, after he had accidentally slashed Dave Trottier of the Maroons with his stick, had recovered their poise yesterday and set the defeat down to one of those unfortunate breaks which might happen to any team. Many of the players will be pulling for the Maroons to go through the playoffs and win the cup, if only that they may say they bowed only to the ultimate champions.

One matter was quite definitly settled during the business of the Hawks' demobilization yesterday. That was a denial of the rumor that the Chicagoans' goalie, Lorne Chabot, who won the Vezina trophy as the best net minder of the year, would not return to the Hawks next season. Lorne himself said that he will be on deck to defend the trophy in November. He will spend about five days here, and then will return to his home in Toronto, where he is sales manager for a leading ice cream company.

McFadyen, March Remain.

Donnie McFadyen and Mush March, of course, will remain here, the former to continue his work in a law office and the latter to supervise his gas station, with the possibility of building still another. Art Coulter will visit his folks in Pennsylvania for a couple of weeks and then loaf about Chicago until June 1, when he will go up into the north woods for the summer.

At least three of the Hawks will be detained here in the Garfield Park hospital for a few days. Before he returns to his lodge in Minnesota, Doc Romnes, who has not been well lately, will undergo observation by Dr. H. F. Meacham, the team's physician. Art Wiebe and Bill Kendall will have their tonsils removed at the hospital today by Dr. Meacham. When he is released Wiebe will marry a Kansas City girl at her home there.

Johnny Gottselig will leave for his home in Regina, Sask., tomorrow to have a look at his farm there. Johnny is contemplating the purchase of a billiard parlor and bowling alley in Regina. Couture entrained for Winnipeg last night. Howie Morenz and Marty Burke will head for home soon, Howie for Montreal and Marty to get set for a season as manager of a summer resort at Grand Bend, Ont. Norm Locking is bound for his home at Owen Sound, Ont., and Tommy Cook will soon be back managing the Blenheim club of the Ontario Baseball Amateur association.

Thompsons Are Motoring.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thompson and their small daughter, together with Louis Trudell, are motoring to Edmonton, Alberta. Paul will join his brother, Tiny, Boston goalie, in running their farm outside of Calgary as soon as the season's over for Tiny. Clem Loughlin, who made good a dozen times over as the Hawks' manager, will hie himself to his farm at Viking, Alberta, and one of his helpers will be Trudell, who hopes to pick up 10 pounds during the summer.

Alex Levinsky will remain here for a few weeks and will return to Toronto in April, when he will marry a local girl there. Levinsky plans to make his home in Chicago and hopes to make good as an outfielder with a semi-pro baseball club here, possibly the Duffy Florals.

FORT SHERIDAN AND RAMBLER POLO TEAMS WIN

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Fort Sheridan and the Ramblers survived their first round matches as the Western indoor polo tournament opened last night at the 124th Field Artillery armory.

The Fort Sheridan team, composed of Lieut. E. C. Greiner, Maj. C. A. Wilkinson, and Lieut. Larry Smith, defeated Don Rice, Bill Everett, and Chris Schuh of the 124th Field Artillery, 7½ to ½.

The Ramblers, consisting of Romeo Mura, Herb Lorber, and Steve Hammond, advanced at the expense of Jim Hannah, Maxwell Corpening, and Jack Armstrong of the Chicago Riding club. The score was 8 to 6½.

Champions Will Go East.

Both games were in the 6 to 12 goal division, the winners going to the semi-finals. The teams entered in the tournament are divided into the 0 to 5 goal class, 6 to 12, and 13 to 18. Western champions of each division will go to New York to meet the eastern winners, with the national titles at stake.

Both Fort Sheridan and the 124th Artillery were ineffective on offense during the early part of their game. The first chukker ended with Fort Sheridan leading, 1 to 0. Fouls committed during the second period reduced the count to ½ to ½ at the intermission. In the third period, however, the Fort Sheridan players began working smoothly and scored five goals. They made two more in the final chukker, bringing the final count to 7½ to ½, the Artillery having made only one goal and two fouls during the second half.

Hammond Strong on Defense.

With Hammond providing a strong defense, Lorber setting the ball in scoring position and Mura doing considerable sharpshooting, the Ramblers maintained a small margin over the Riding club throughout the second game of the evening. They led, 3 to 1½, at the end of the first chukker, 5⅛ to 3½ at the end of the second, and 8½ to 8½ at the third.

Mura and Corpening tied for high goal honors, each making four.

Lineups:

FORT SHERIDAN [7½].		124TH [½].
Lieut. Greiner	No. 1	Lieut. Rice
Maj. Wilkinson	No. 2	Capt. Everett
Lieut. Smith	Back	Lieut. Schuh

RAMBLERS [8].		RIDING CLUB [6½].
Capt. Mura	No. 1	J. A. Hannah
Herb Lorber	No. 2	Capt. Corpening
Lieut. Hammond	Back	Jack Armstrong

Police Find Man Knows Baseball, but Not Himself

Minneapolis, Minn., March 27.—(AP)—Apparently suffering from complete lapse of memory, except for a thorough knowledge of the Chicago White Sox baseball team, a well dressed man was under observation in General hospital here today as a possible amnesia victim.

The man, about 38 years old, said he had a vague recollection of having played for Washington in the world series of 1924.

Physicians wired Chicago police, who replied there was no such address as the man gave.

Police said the patient seemed to be faintly familiar with past and present prominent baseball players. No identification of any kind was found on his person when he walked into police headquarters early and he had only a very small amount of change in his pocket.

MARION MILEY IS 4 AND 3 VICTOR OVER JEAN BAUER

Augusta, Ga., March 27.—(AP)—Revenge for the defeat last year that cost her the championship came today to Marion Miley, Lexington, Ky., woman golf star, who defeated Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., 4 and 3 in the quarter final round of the Augusta women's fifth annual invitational tournament.

It was the feature match of the day's play. Miss Miley, 1934 runner-up, led Miss Bauer 1 up at the turn.

Miss Deane van Landingham, Charlotte, N. C., who defeated Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare of Philadelphia, a former national champion in yesterday's play, came through with a 1 up victory over Miss Jane Cothran of Greenville, S. C., the Carolinas women's titleholder.

Lilly Harper of Norfolk, Va., the Virginia state champion at 18, who sent Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., out of the tournament in yesterday's play, eliminated Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., 3 and 2.

Peggy Wattles of Buffalo, N. Y., the medalist, had little trouble defeating Miss Isabel Ogilvie of Augusta, 6 and 4.

Semi finals play tomorrow will find Miss Wattles paired with Miss Harper and Miss Van Landingham meeting Miss Miley.

Fischer Pins Demetral in 36:07 at Marigold

Charles [Midget] Fischer threw Jimmy Demetral in 36:07 last night in a match at the Marigold Gardens. Clarence Smith, who was originaly scheduled to meet Fischer, became ill yesterday and was replaced by Demetral. Fred Fulton won over Buck O'Neil in 18:02. O'Neil fell out of the ring and was unable to return. Gorilla Parker and Walter Roxy, and Ralph Garibaldi and Mike Kilonis wrestled thirty minutes to a draw.

O'Mahoney Throws Foe Twice and in Hurry

Cleveland, O., March 27. — (AP) — Danno O'Mahoney, Irish heavyweight, won his third wrestling match in three nights by throwing Scotty McDougall, 219, twice tonight. Using his Irish whip, O'Mahoney scored the first fall in 13:35 and the second in 6:29.

ARCADIA GIRLS WIN.

The Arcadia Girls basketball team, defending champions of the Northwest Suburban league, defeated the T. J. Bowler Boosters, 24 to 15, last night at the Green Brier fieldhouse.

JORDAN, REFUSED RAISE OF $2,000, LEAVES BRAVES

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Baxter Jordan, the Boston Braves' first baseman, who led the Braves in batting with a .311 average last season, tonight quit the training camp and headed for his Salisbury, N. C., home because Manager Bill McKechnie would not grant him a $2,000 salary boost.

Jordan, who reported 10 days ago and has been playing in exhibition games, was tendered a contract calling for $500 over his 1934 salary. When it became evident that his terms would not be met Jordan packed his bags and left the camp, warning McKechnie to "notify me when Babe Ruth gets tired of playing around first base."

LEVINSKY WHIPS BABE HUNT IN 10 ROUND BOUT

Dallas, Tex., March 27.—(AP)—King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, was awarded a decision over Babe Hunt of Ponca City, Okla., in a vicious 10 round fight tonight.

Levinsky weighed 206 pounds to 196 pounds for Hunt.

The attendance was approximately 5,000, the largest crowd to see a Texas fight since the sport was legalized.

BABY RUTH GIRLS BEATEN IN A. A. U. BASKET TOURNEY

Wichita, Kas., March 27.—(AP)—The Lions of El Dorado, Ark., third place winners last year, won their way through the third round of the women's national A. A. U. basketball tournament here tonight with a 36 to 16 triumph over the Wichita Merchanettes. The Lions meet the Holdenville, Okla., Flyers in the semi-finals tomorrow night. Holdenville advanced by a close victory over the Chicago Baby Ruths, 15 to 13.

The Baby Ruths had narrow escapes in the first two rounds, but they appeared to have tonight's game in hand until the Flyers opened up their rally while Frances Williams and Lera Dunford held down the opposition. Lineup:

Baby Ruths Win Western Hocky Crown

The Baby Ruth Hocky club won the western division A. A. U. hocky championship at the Stadium last night by defeating the Boston Store, 4 to 0, in the finals of the division tournament.

Kenneth Richards scored the first goal for the Ruths in the opening period, sending home Schotzlin's pass after 7 minutes and 42 seconds of play. Ed Nichols, unassisted, rapped in the second goal late in the second period. Soumi, with Saari assisting, made it 3 to 0 in 6:51 in the final period. Art Sameo slipped in the final score on Ken Richards' pass while the Boston Store was pressing with a five man rush.

The Baby Ruths will meet the Boston Olympics Sunday at Madison Square Garden in New York in the first of a two game total goals series for the national A. A. U. title. The second game will be played here Wednesday night.

According to present plans the national champions then will play the Allen cup winners, Canadian champions, for the North American trophy. The lineup:

BOSTON STORE [0].		BABY RUTH [4].

Runyan Leads North, South with 65 Card

Pinehurst, N. C., March 27.—(AP)—Paul Runyan dashed about the Pinehurst No. 2 course in the rain today for a 65 and spread eagled the field for the first round of the north and south open tournament.

Only two others among the 100 entries, Felix Serafin of Scranton, Pa., and Ray Mangrum of Los Angeles, who scored 68s, could break 70.

Byron Nelson of Texarkana, Tex., Willie MacFarlane of Tuckahoe, N. Y., and Craig Wood of Deal, N. J., were even, 70 while tied at 71 were Mike Turner of Elmsford, N. Y.; Harry Cooper of Chicago, Joe Ezar, Waco, Tex., and Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J.

Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., winner last year and the leading money winner of the winter tournaments, was well back with a 73 for the first round of his title defense.

For the bantamweight Runyan, it was an amazing performance over the wet, 6,553 yard course. He was forced to use a wood for his second shot on many of the longer par fours, but he banged them up to the hole and canned putts with unerring accuracy to string six birdies on his card, never going over par.

"It was the best single round of my life, under the conditions," he said.

Well down the scoring list were several of the golfing great, among them Walter Hagen of Detroit, Tommy Armour of Chicago, and Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee, each with a 75.

After another 18 holes tomorrow the field will be cut to the low sixty for the final 36 holes on Friday.

BELOIT DEFEATS MADISON, 34-32, IN STATE MEET

Madison, Wis., March 27.—[Special.]—Beloit High school, state basketball champions for the last three years, won its 15th consecutive state tournament game this afternoon, turning back Madison West, 34 to 32, in the first round of class A division.

The defending champions played their usual cool, deliberate game to whip a team which had twice defeated them in nonconference games during the season.

Kenosha Is Beaten.

In the other afternoon game in the upper bracket of class A Stevens Point scored a 22 to 15 surprise victory over Kenosha's undefeated Big Eight conference champions.

Both Superior teams, East and Central, came through tonight to the other two class A semi-final berths. East grabbed an early lead in its game with Sturgeon Bay to win, 23 to 18, and Central won as it pleased from Tomah, 35 to 15.

The teams from the shores of Lake Superior, playing together in the state tournament for the first time in history, will clash tomorrow night in the championship semi-finals. The winner will meet the victor of the Beloit-Stevens Point game for the 1935 state championship.

Bannick Clinches Game.

East took a 3 to 4 lead over Sturgeon Bay at the end of the first quarter and held a 14 to 10 advantage at the half. With three minutes to play, Louis Bannick, East guard, dropped a short basket and added a free throw to insure victory.

Superior Central completely dominated Tomah during the entire game, leading, 10 to 1, at the end of the first quarter and 20 to 6 at the half. The margin was increased to 29 to 9 at the end of the third quarter, and with an entirely new Superior team on the floor the teams fought an even battle in the last period.

UTICA BOWLER TAKES 3D PLACE IN A B C MEET

Syracuse, N. Y., March 27.—(AP)—Three more changes occurred among the American Bowling congress leaders today.

Ward Murray of Utica, N. Y., piled up a 692 total in taking third place in the singles division, and Walter Urtz of Buffalo rolled into a tie for tenth with Bill Mattison, Toledo; Jake Graziano of Carbondale, Pa., and Bill Ferguson of Detroit, Mich. Urtz rolled up a 674 total in the solo class, which helped him vault into fourth position in the all-events.

WHAT! ONLY A NICKEL FOR THIS DIME FLAVOR?
Asks "GABBY" HARTNETT
CHICAGO CUBS' CATCHER
SURPRISED, Mr. Hartnett? Well, no wonder! The tobacco in 5c Charles Denby was actually purchased for a 10c cigar. But today, dime cigars just aren't selling—so you get this mild, mellow 10c tobacco for only a nickel. Some smoke!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—With the exception of two or three issues, trading in treasury bonds decreased materially today, but without impairing prices. During the greater part of the day this list averaged about one-eighth point above the previous closing.

The new 2¾ per cent bonds were the most active on the list, reaching a new high record. Treasury 3¼s of 1946 and Home Owners 2¾s were also active. There were some discussions today of the likelihood of the treasury announcing next week an exchange offer to holders of first Liberty Loan bonds.

Market Status Altered.

The market status of called fourth Liberty 4¼s changed over night, as far as regular transactions were concerned. Books for subscriptions to the new 2⅞ per cent bonds, open only to holders of called fourth 4¼s, are scheduled to close tonight. Therefore, bonds purchased today for regular clearing through the stock exchange will be delivered too late for conversion. The bonds lost the value of subscription rights, which amounted to about three-quarters of a point.

Gilt-edged railroad, utility and industrial bonds were little changed. The outcome of today's offering of 3¾ per cent Swift bonds was watched with great interest, not only on account of the low interest rate but also the novel method of distribution.

Secondary Loans Decline.

In the domestic corporation group many of the lower priced rail and industrial issues were forced down 1 to 6 points. The obligations of Southern railway were especially weak. However, a number of rail issues selling above par increased their premium by a point or more. The gains in the public utility group were led by the communications issues.

Foreign loans showed fairly wide fluctuations. It was generally the case that the bonds of a given European debtor country failed to move in unison. However, in the Latin Americans section of the list Argentine bonds were uniformly strong.

Otis Steel.

Investors' Guide: Please let me know about the bonds of Otis Steel company, the 6s, due 1941. Is this issue secured by mortgage?—G. M. J.

Answer: Otis Steel company is a relatively small unit in the steel industry, but it is well integrated. It is engaged chiefly in production of sheets, plates, and hot and cold rolled strip. About 75 per cent of output is, under normal conditions, taken by the automobile industry. Earnings consequently tend to vary with activity in that trade.

In 1933 the company finished a $12,700,000 improvement program. Repairs, maintenance, and renewals during the nine years to Dec. 31, 1933, aggregated $17,000,000. Its plants are now modern and ample. This huge outlay of funds coupled with substantial losses for 1933, 1932, and 1931, however, depleted working capital and forced the company to default on March 1 and Sept. 1, 1934, interest. Sept. 1, 1933, interest was paid one year late.

Pickup in the automobile trade during 1934 put operations on a profitable basis. With improved prospects the company was able to negotiate a $2,500,000 three year bank loan which provided sufficient funds to pay off all defaulted coupons and have funds to pay the March 1, 1935, coupon. Consequently the bonds are now in good standing.

Net income in 1934 was $561,000, against loss of $1,510,000 in 1933. Charges in 1934 were earned 1.78 times. Interest charges run about $719,000 a year. In 1933 the company lost $790,000 before fixed charges, against corresponding losses of $2,111,000 for 1932 and $849,000 for 1931. Charges were earned 2.18 times in 1930.

On Dec. 31, 1934, current assets, including cash of $1,777,000, were $6,372,000 and current liabilities were $4,413,000. Profit and loss deficit was $423,000.

There are outstanding $10,827,500 of first 6s, due March 1, 1941. The bonds are speculative at present.

Argentine 5s, 1945.

Investors' Guide: I hold several Argentine Republic internal gold 5s, indue Sept. 1, 1945. Are these the bonds that have recently been called? This nation has so many issues that it is confusing to one, hence my question. If it is the issue, where do I go to get my money?—H. S. W.

Answer: Argentine government 5 per cent internal loan of 1909, due 1945, was called for payment on March 1, 1935, at par at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., New York City. The bonds are payable in United States currency at the rate of $973 per $1,000 Argentine pesos principal amount.

UTILITIES BILL DISSECTED AND TERMED 'SILLY'

Experts Find Harm in Control Plan.

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—A former state utilities commission chairman dissected the holding company control bill before the house interstate commerce committee today and variously termed parts of it "impractical," "impossible," and even "silly."

He was former Gov. Clyde Reed of Kansas. During his four hour extemporaneous criticism of the "too drastic," semi-administration measure he said he confidently assumed the committee would "substantially and materially" modify it.

The president of an independent utility, Samuel Ferguson of the Hartford Electric Light company, then took the stand to tell the committee the bill would do more harm than good, both to investors and consumers.

Reed Has Suggestions.

Reed, speaking for Kansas utility investors only, summarized his suggestions for a regulatory bill he said he earnestly hoped congress would enact before it adjourned, in this manner:

1. Put the federal jurisdiction in one body, preferably the power commission, and not have it divided between that and the securities and exchange and trade commissions as proposed for electric power, utility securities and natural gas regulation, respectively.

2. Require full reports from holding companies such as the interstate commerce commission gets from railroads.

3. Bring inter-company contracts under the commission.

4. Reverse the section calling for abolition of holding companies in 1940 by making the commission find affirmatively that they should be dissolved instead of compelling the companies to justify their existence before being allowed to continue.

5. Tax intermediate holding companies to drive out the unnecessary and bad ones and give the commission power to wipe out the still belligerent bad ones through court proceedings.

Many Things Unlawful.

"This bill as proposed makes so darned many things unlawful," said Reed, "that about all you read in here is that it shall be unlawful to do this and unlawful to do that."

Both Reed and Ferguson struck particularly at the provision that power lines—electric and gas—shall be regarded as common carriers and required to transport the other fellow's product if the federal body pleases.

"That's impossible of application for natural gas," Reed declared. "And I don't think any commission anywhere can make anybody buy anything he doesn't want. This is one of the 'impossible' things in the bill."

The Connecticut utilities official had stronger language for the common carrier feature.

"The principal object of this section," Ferguson said, "is obviously not to cover the present unregulated gap, but to use the accident of a small amount of interstate electricity to justify the creation of twelve or fourteen wholesale power pools wholly under federal control as to what plants shall be run, what plants shall be built, what transmission lines built or abandoned, and from this pool current may be distributed to the ultimate consumers at prices to be fixed by the several states."

Tells of Harm in Plan.

The passage of the bill, Ferguson said, would result in:

"1. For those investors who already have lost heavily in the holding company equities acquired either by purchase or exchange of operating company stocks, the result will be the loss of what little they have left.

"2. For investors in bonds of operating companies such as trusts and insurance companies, a heavy loss through the forced liquidation of holding company portfolios.

"3. For the customer—no gain not readily obtainable through reasonable regulation, and a material slowing up in the lowering of costs and improvement and extension of service which have been so very marked during the last fifteen years."

BELGAS RALLY SHARPLY; OTHER EXCHANGE MIXED

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Belgas recovered part of yesterday's 85 point plunge today when they rose 52 points net, to close at 22 cents. This figure still is 1.4 cents below the gold import point. Other major currencies were somewhat irregular in terms of the dollar.

Reports were circulated in Brussels that the program of the new government includes a managed currency under the control of an exchange fund. It is expected that restrictions on foreign exchanges will be removed soon.

British pound sterling advanced 1¼ cents to $4.79⅝, with the Canadian dollar and Scandivanian currencies rising moderately in sympathy with the pound. French francs dipped ⅜ point to close at 6.59 cents, the gold import point.

With the franc at this level the value of the dollar was $1.0066 against francs, compared with $1.0064 yesterday. The gold value of the dollar, based on the old parity of the franc, was 59.45 cents, against 59.44 yesterday.

Bar gold in London declined 4 pence to 145 shillings 3 pence, equivalent to $34.75.

Easy Money Causes Wave of Refunding

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Easy money rates, the result of manipulation by the federal government, are the cause of the sudden wave of bond refunding operations by leading corporations.

For two years the government has been forcing interest rates downward. While it has been loading the banks with excess funds it has been steadily lowering the interest rates on its own bonds. Long term treasury bonds which were quoted on the market two years ago at prices which would make them yield about 3½ per cent to investors today are selling at prices to yield little more than 2½ per cent and the trend is still toward lower yield.

If there were a normal supply of new high grade corporate bond offerings this reduction of yield on government bonds would not be so important, but for several years there have been almost no new corporate issues of any importance.

* *

Thus, even though there has been no noticeable increase in public demand for bonds, there is an acute shortage of supply.

No matter what the condition of business may be there is always a demand for bonds of the gilt edge variety from banks, insurance companies, and trust estates. As new funds are acquired by these agencies or as old bonds held by them are redeemed they must find new investments in order to get some return on their money.

Bank and insurance companies during the last year have been particularly hard pressed to find employment for idle funds. Normally the banks would find outlet in commercial loans and the insurance companies would lend a large proportion of their new funds in mortgages. Good commercial borrowers are not using their lines of bank credit because most of them have idle funds of their own, and, besides, they are not greatly expanding their operations. And the mortgage market still is not regarded as attractive by the insurance companies.

* *

The result has been a scramble for government bonds. This competition has enabled the government to call in outstanding long term bonds and replace them with bonds with a lower interest rate. The government has also been able to force the banks to buy its short term paper yielding almost no return at all.

The government itself has rendered the situation more acute by piling up additional idle funds in the banks through its borrowing and spending operations and by persuading the various federal reserve banks to reduce their rediscount rates, meaning the rates at which member banks are privileged to borrow money at the federal reserve banks.

For months corporations hesitated to take advantage of the reduced money rates because they dared not attempt to call in their outstanding bonds—most of which contained the "gold clause"—until the Supreme court had rendered its decision on the action of congress in revoking the gold clause.

* *

Almost immediately after the Supreme court decision corporation managements began to get busy. Some of them—notably Standard Oil of New Jersey and National Tea—arranged for bank loans to be repaid over a period of several years and used the proceeds to retire outstanding bonds which would mature in the near future. The bank loans cost them less in interest and the banks were glad to find this outlet for idle funds.

Other important corporations are now calling their outstanding bonds and offering new bonds bearing lower interest rates. The demand for gilt edge investments by banks, insurance companies, and trust estates insure the success of the new offerings provided the company is in good financial condition.

* *

The net result of all this refinancing, however, is no increase in the amount of capital actually placed at work. Investors, whether institutions or individuals, are merely substituting one bond for another. The investor gets less income and the company reduces its fixed charges.

As each call for the redemption of a block of bonds is published by a corporation a vacuum is created which is filled either by the refunding bonds offered by that company or by refunding bonds offered by some other company.

* *

President Ralph Crane of the Investment Bankers Association of America said, in a speech before the Bond Men's club of Chicago last week, that a wave of refunding bond issues normally marks the first step in the revival of the bond market. To date, however, there has been no indication that industry is yet ready to ask for new capital in any volume.

Therefore, it is expected that money rates will continue low for some time, because of the fact that the demand for good bonds is greater than the present comparatively meagre supply of such securities.

C. B. AMES, HEAD OF TEXAS CORP., GETS $75,000 PAY

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—C. B. Ames, chairman of the board of the Texas corporation, one of the nation's largest oil companies, today reported to the securities commission that his salary during 1934 was $75,000.

Ames and other officials of the corporation reported their salaries in connection with the company's application for permanent listing on the New York Stock exchange of 9,851,243 shares of common capital stock, already issued; 1,434,244 shares not yet issued, and 90,000,000 in sinking fund 5 per cent gold debentures due in 1934.

W. S. S. Rodgers, New York, president of the corporation, received $50,000; T. J. Donoghue, Houston, Tex., vice president, $34,600; R. Ogarrio, New York, vice president, $34,600; T. Rieber, New York, vice president, $34,600; H. T. Klein, New York, general counsel, $34,600.

Seven other officers, not named, received a total of $118,799.

Detroit Bank Heads 'Didn't Know of Loan'

Detroit, Mich., March 27.—(AP)—Several former officers of the First National bank, Detroit, testified in Federal court today they did not know of the $212,000 loan the government charges three of their former associates with concealing until their attention was called to it months later by a national bank examiner.

The same men said on cross-examination that the loan might have been brought before the bank's loan committee and that they had forgotten it.

The government charges that John Ballantyne, Herbert L. Chittenden, and John H. Hart made the loan to two employés of the bank as a "dummy" transaction.

Charge Attempt to Hide Deal.

The move was made, it is alleged, to hide an illegal speculation in stock of the Detroit Bankers company, one of the two great Detroit holding companies which collapsed with nation-wide reverberations in 1933.

The defense struck at the charge of concealment when Herman A. Leitner, clerk, who signed the note covering the loan with Clarence D. Blessed, a vice president, testified on cross-examination that a memorandum showing existence of an understanding to invest the $212,000 in the stock was carried in the bank's records.

Both Blessed and Leitner testified, under questioning by Guy K. Bard, special assistant attorney general, they signed the note with the understanding they were acting as trustees and were not to be held personally liable.

Sought to Make Up Loss.

During examination of both Blessed and Litner, Bard asserted that he was "taken by surprise" by the testimony and obtained the right to cross-examine his own witnesses.

Blessed testified the stock purchase was agreed upon when the bank decided to accept an offer of $212,000 in settlement of a $276,439 loan made several years earlier to the Wayne Body corporation. It was hoped the difference could be recovered through a rise in price of the stock.

Paul Fitzpatrick, a former vice president of the bank, testified that R. L. Hopkins, chief examiner for the controler of the currency, described the loan to Leitner and Blessed as illegal at a meeting with bank officials in the fall of 1931.

It was at this conference, nearly a dozen former officers of the bank testified, that they first became aware of the existence of the loan. Bard said he hoped to complete presentation of the government's case Thursday.

STRIKE THREATS INCREASE COAL PURCHASES HERE

Industrial consumers and railroads in Chicago having been buying coal in excess of current requirements for the last month in an effort to protect themselves against a possible general strike of miners next month. This was confirmed last night by George W. Reed, vice president of the Peabody Coal company.

He estimated that most big coal users have a month's supply on hand as a result of their recent purchases. Prices have remained unchanged through the recent movement.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, is now in Washington conferring with eastern operators. Existing contracts between miners and operators expire April 1. More than 38,000 miners are employed in Illinois. The mines have been working overtime recently to meet the unusually heavy demand.

BANKING BILL MEANS POLITICAL CONTROL, PROF. SPAHR ASSERTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—A professor told the banking and currency committee today that the administration's banking bill was an attempt to convert the federal reserve system into a political instrumentality.

The speaker was Walter E. Spahr, professor of economics at New York university. He said the bill would give the political party in power absolute control and domination over each federal reserve bank, while the governor of the reserve board would be a "czar" and the board itself "a politically controled and dominated agent of the President."

"The bill is a dangerous attempt of politically minded planners to increase their destructive and devastating hold on business enterprise," asserted Spahr. "It is an un-American, unsound creation that must never be permitted to find its way into our statute books."

Spahr said that to assume government credit should be given an artificially high value by a central banking system was to assume that a function of the system would be to inflate the currency.

A group of competent experts, the professor declared, should be named to revise the present money and banking systems, but that drastic legislation should not be enacted during the present atmosphere of "tense emotionalism."

PLANS TO BOOST NEWSPRINT PRICE MEET OBSTACLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., March 27.—Plans of the provincial government of Quebec to compel all newsprint companies, some of them against their will, to ask a higher price from American publishers for Canadian newsprint are meeting with difficulties.

Overtures made to the province of Ontario to adopt similar coercive methods have not been fruitful, it is admitted in official circles.

The second chief obstacle is the conservative opposition in the legislature, which challenges the legality of the government's move.

Court Halts Work on Unit of TVA Chain

Knoxville, Tenn., March 27.—(AP)—Charging the city of Knoxville with entering into "unlawful competition" with its business, the Tennessee Public Service company, local utility, today obtained a temporary injunction halting work on the city's new municipal power distribution system. The city has a contract to use Tennessee Valley authority electricity.

The injunction, granted by Chancellor A. E. Mitchell of Knox county, also restrained the city from obtaining further funds from the Public Works administration or any other source for use in building the municipal system, and from delivering the city's bonds to PWA.

City Manager W. W. Mynatt said the city already had obtained $300,000 of a $2,600,000 loan and grant from the PWA and spent about $100,000 on plans and construction work. More than 300 poles for the first unit have been set.

A bond issue of $3,225,000 with which to build or buy a municipal power system was voted by citizens two years ago.

The petition charged that the city's contract with the PWA was "null and void," and the project unauthorized by the National Industrial Recovery act.

It alleged that Harold Ickes, PWA administrator, in granting the $2,600,000 loan grant "was guided solely by his arbitrary determination to exercise the power of his office so as to enable TVA to unlawfully engage in and carry on a general proprietary business of producing and selling electricity, either by coercing and constraining plaintif to sell its properties to the TVA or by advancing public funds of the United States for the construction of a competing municipal system."

E. T. Weir to Address Union League Club April 3

Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation, will discuss present relations of government to business at a general meeting of the Union League club April 3, it was announced yesterday.

STEEL DEMAND HOLDS DESPITE UNSETTLEMENT

Output Falls Only .5% to 46½% Last Week.

Steel demand has shown only slight contraction since last week, despite unsettling political influences, says Iron Age. Requirements of tin plate consumers are definitly increasing and buying of other finished steel products is fairly well sustained. Steel ingot output declined only ½ point last week to 46½ per cent of production capacity.

Chicago and Cleveland were the only major producing centers that showed any contraction since the middle of last week. In Chicago the rate is off ½ point at 47 per cent and at Cleveland it is down 4 points at 54 per cent. In Detroit there was a rise of 7 points to 90 per cent, while other leading districts report their rates substantially unchanged.

Sheet Production Off 5 Points.

Tin plate production has again increased and is now estimated at 90 per cent of theoretical capacity, the magazine says.

Sheet production is off 5 points at 65 per cent of capacity and strip mill schedules have suffered a similar contraction to 50 per cent.

The automobile industry has begun to place orders for its May requirements, which are expected to be somewhat smaller than April needs, the journal continues. The second quarter is again expected to yield a production of a million cars.

"While recent duststorms in the west have checked demand for tractors and farm implements," the review says, "manufacturers' forward commitments are so heavy that production schedules can be maintained for many weeks. Although implement makers expected an increase in demand this year, actual orders have been four times as large as their most optimistic estimates."

Expect Activity to Hold.

"Makers of electrical refrigerators, washing machines, and a number of kinds of household equipment have already indicated that their second quarter activity will be as great as in the first three months of the year. Other miscellaneous steel users are taking material regularly but on a strictly requirement basis."

Current monetary troubles of Belgium are by no means confined to financial circles, for steel consumers are also very much interested. Confusion over the recently announced reciprocal trade agreement with Belgium has been intensified by financial difficulties.

Steel scrap prices continue to be weak with the magazine's composite price dropping from $10.83 to $10.75 a ton, the lowest level of the year. The finished steel and pig iron composites are unchanged at $17.90 a ton and 2.124 cents a pound, respectively.

The American Iron and Steel Institute announced yesterday that the reduction of $3 a ton on cold finished bars of carbon steel reported Monday was effected by only one of the smaller makers in the Cleveland district. Other Cleveland manufacturers, it was stated, have not followed the reduction and are maintaining their previous quotation.

Charge Central Trust, RFC Juggled Assets

Charges that the Reconstruction Finance corporation and officers and directors of the Central Republic Trust company acted together in improperly transferring assets of the Central Republic to the City National Bank & Trust company are contained in a bill filed in the United States District court here yesterday.

It is alleged the RFC has "wrongfully used, misapplied, negligently and wrongfully sold, disposed of or liquidated" assets of the old Central Republic following the making of an $80,000,000 loan to the bank in 1932.

The bill, filed by Attorney George F. Marks, is an answer to the RFC's suit against stockholders and a cross bill against the former bank's officers. The four stockholders for whom it was filed are William C. Woodward, Ray E. Woodward, Mary Winton Kimball and Alice F. Rud. Each own fewer than 10 shares of the bank's stock.

Declare Obligation Discharged.

The answer sets forth that when an account has been taken and proper credits given the Central Republic it will appear that its obligation on notes to the RFC has been discharged. It says that the $50,000,000 which the RFC advanced Oct. 6, 1932, was in fact paid to the City National Bank and Trust company, which took over the deposit liabilities of the old bank.

The answer says this payment was part of an unlawful plan of action consented to and concurred in by the RFC by which directors of the old bank went through the form of transferring such money together with $18,000,000 in cash or readily marketable securities from the old bank to the new bank despite the fact that such procedure was contrary to the Illinois banking law.

The RFC is charged with holding off properly constituted authorities from liquidating assets of the old bank, with permitting action to deal wrongfully with debtors, and with allowing action which precluded possible reorganization or continuance.

Name Former Directors.

Former directors named in the cross bill are Charles G. Dawes, Philip R. Clarke, Henry M. Dawes, George B. Dryden, George F. Getz, John Goodridge, Harry B. Hurd, James S. Kemper, T. W. Robinson, Rawleigh Warner, and Robert E. Wood.

The bill alleges accounts and transactions were juggled so that it might appear stock subscriptions to the new bank had been paid, whereas money belonging to the old bank was used to pay the subscription until funds could be raised by the director defendants and their associates.

The bill says the bank was not properly compensated for transferring its trust business and asks that the defendants be required to account to the Central Republic Trust company for all profits, salaries, and other emoluments which they may have received because of the transfer.

The action is the outgrowth of a suit filed by the RFC in November, 1934, against stockholders of the Central Republic to collect $14,000,000 double liability.

Decline in Wholesale Food Prices Is Checked

The decline in wholesale food prices in effect since mid-February was checked last week, says Dun & Bradstreet. The agency's weekly food index rose to $2.65 from $2.62 in the preceding week. The figure was $2.11 a year ago.

INLAND STEEL REPORTS LARGE GAIN IN PROFIT

Net Sales Increase to 40 Millions.

Net profit of the Inland Steel company, one of the largest independent steel companies in the country and one of the largest Chicago district industrial enterprises, amounted to $3,729,889 in 1934, as compared with a net income of $166,693 in 1933, according to the annual report of L. E. Block, chairman, and P. D. Block, president, issued yesterday.

P. D. BLOCK. [Steffens Photo.]

The rate of operations for 1934 averaged 53.1 per cent of capacity, as compared with 42.3 per cent in 1933, the report stated. During the first half of 1934 the average rate of operation was 65.1 per cent. The report said there was a decided decrease in business during the greater part of the last six months, with some recovery in December. The average rate during the second half of the year was 41.1 per cent.

Sales Sharply Higher.

Net sales for 1934 totaled $40,404,309, as compared with $27,554,644 in the preceding year. Selling costs, administrative expenses, etc., totaled $30,962,099, compared with $22,980,695 in 1933. The earned surplus account increased from $15,628,927 at the end of 1933 to $20,506,869 at the end of 1934. Current assets totaled $23,007,154, compared with $20,599,201. Current liabilities were $3,391,836, compared with $6,108,947.

"The expenditures for new construction and additions to property amounted to $1,408,045," the report said. "In conformity with a plan of reconstruction pursued by the management, continued progress has been made in rebuilding such equipment as requires modernization. To complete this program an appropriation of approximately $1,000,000 has been approved.

Dismantles Milwaukee Plant.

"The plant at Milwaukee, consisting of ten old type sheet mills, has been dismantled and, with the exception of the value of the land and buildings, has been written off. This plant has not been in operation since November, 1931. It was deemed inadvisable to make further expenditure on this property."

The report said that the company, on Dec. 31, 1934, had 10,231 employés. Total pay rolls for the year amounted to $13,017,048, compared with $8,980,681 for 1933. It was explained that the increase was the result not only of more employment but of raises in wages. The average hourly wage for men was 67¼ cents in 1934, compared with 56 cents in 1933. The report said that satisfactory earnings for the first quarter are assured and that the company can look forward with confidence to a fairly active demand for its products for the remainder of the first half of 1935.

The report said that at the close of the year $2,769,235, hitherto shown as capital surplus, was transferred to earned surplus.

STOCKS HIGHER, INFLUENCED BY GRAIN UPTURNS

Utilities Stronger; "Dry" Issues Active.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—The monotony of continuous selling was broken today and the stock market turned upward, the more active issues recovered fractions to a point or so of their lost ground. Trading continued at the same snail-like pace, however, with turnover falling to 462,490 shares.

About the only discernible bullish item in the news of the day was the sharp rise in wheat and other grain prices, and the improvement here appeared to be in belated recognition of the extensive crop damage that must have been done and is continuing in the duststorm areas. Such business statistics as the day afforded were somewhat less favorable.

U. S. Smelting Dips 7 Points.

Reduction of the United States Smelting and Mining company's dividend caused a break of more than 7 points in the company's common shares. The stock closed at 108¼, or less than two points above its low for the year. Other silver mining shares lost ground with the leader.

News of the fresh duststorms in this "feeder" territory was blamed for a flurry of selling which sank Atchison to a new low record in the early dealings. The stock rallied later, however, and closed nearly a point above yesterday's final quotation. Other rails bucked up in the late trading.

Public utility stocks looked a little better and brokers believed credit for their turnabout should be given in part to the statement of Secretary Ickes that municipalities would have to show savings to consumers on rates before they could get government loans to be used in establishing city power plants. Consolidated Gas struggled above 20 for the first time in about two months, but could not hold its advance.

"Dry" Stocks Are Active.

Dry stocks held much of the market interest. Coca Cola continued its climb toward the 200 mark, adding more than $4 to the market price of its own common shares. The $200 level is the price to which it was said the stock would be moved before the long awaited stock split is announced.

Canada Dry Ginger Ale took a tumble to the lowest price in two years on news of a dividend reduction. White Rock rose fractionally after having stumbled to the lowest price in two years on its dividend cut last week.

Allied Chemical was a feature of strength in the chemical division, rising 4 points. DuPont bettered its standing by more than $1 a share.

Motor shares looked up and the oils were firm, particularly the shares of producing companies.

'DRAFT WHITNEY' DRIVE BARRED ON EXCHANGE FLOOR

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Active campaigning for the presidency of the New York Stock exchange by the factions aligned for and against Richard Whitney, the incumbent, continued today on and off the floor of the exchange. Circulation on the floor of cards pledging members to vote for Whitney was halted, although none would say by whose order or advice the "draft Whitney" move was blocked.

Whitney remained silent in the face of renewed rumors that he would withdraw from the field in favor of Charles R. Gay, senior partner of Whitehouse & Co., who is regarded as the choice of the nominating committee of the exchange which will report on April 8.

Reports of a compromise by which Whitney would be returned to office for one more term and Gay named vice president were denied by proponents of a change in the administration of the exchange.

TRADES IN NEW ALLEGHANY CORP. STOCK HELD UP

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Virtually all of the dealings in 5,925 shares of Alleghany corporation $2.50 prior preferred stock, undertaken on the New York Produce exchange, are being held in abeyance as a result of the corporation's filing for a reorganization under the bankruptcy law, it was disclosed today. Meanwhile, it developed that over-the-counter trades in certain Alleghany bonds on a when-issued basis were involved in the situation.

The securities committee of the Produce exchange will meet tomorrow in an endeavor to frame a ruling which will permit the closing or cancelation of the transactions in Alleghany stock. Trading in this stock, which was done on a when-issued basis, was suspended on Oct. 13, because the Securities and Exchange commission had not passed upon the stock.

RAIL FINANCING PROBE PREDICTED BY SEN. WHEELER

Inquiry Plan Is Supported by Eastman.

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—A joint investigation of railroad financing by a senate committee and the interstate commerce commission was predicted today by Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] after Joseph B. Eastman, transportation coördinator, asserted such an inquiry would have a "wholesome effect."

Wheeler, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee which concluded a week of hearings today on his resolution for an investigation of alleged banker control of the carriers, said the inquiry, if ordered, would be deferred until after congress adjourns.

An inquiry now, he explained, would prevent his committee from pushing administration favored measures for consolidating regulation of all transportation agencies and utility holding company legislation.

Will Ask $25,000 for Costs.

The senate committee will meet Friday to act on the Wheeler resolution. The Montana senator intends to ask for $25,000 to pay the cost of the inquiry.

Eastman told the committee today an investigation of financing and expenditures of the roads would have a "tendency to clear the air." While such inquiries sometimes have the immediate effect of impairing the credit of railroads, he said, there could be no objection to one now "because the railroads have no credit" except what the RFC is giving them.

Senator Minton [Dem., Ind.] asked: "Do you think we should investigate all the railroads?"

"It should cover a fair cross section of the roads," Eastman answered, "so the public may know the good conditions as well as the bad."

Asks About Dividends.

Wheeler asked if it had not been the practice of some roads to pay dividends without earning them.

"It hasn't been a general practice," the coördinator replied. "It did happen in 1930, but why I don't know. The most unsound thing financially about holding companies is that they bought stock equities and issued bonds against them."

Questioned as to the extent of the tieup between railroad officers and supply companies, Eastman said he did not know, but that J. P. Morgan & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. about equally divided the financing of the bulk of the carriers and there was a "somewhat similar division in the case of some supply companies."

LIGHT RECEIPTS, TRADE NEWS SEND HOGS UP 5 TO 15c

Hogs moved 5 to 15 cents higher yesterday to the best levels in nine days. Receipts were light and reports from the provision trade encouraging. After a big share of the run had changed hands at the early advance of 10 to 15 cents, some of the local interests balked at paying the higher live costs without a parallel rise in pork, and late buyers managed to shave opening quotations as much as 5 to 10 cents. The supply was pretty well picked over before weakness appeared, however.

Fancy 233 to 251 pound butchers cost $11.50, including the processing tax, which was the highest sale made here since March 18. The bulk of the supply cost buyers $11.15 to $11.40, with the average for the day at $11.50, tax included.

A limited number of top grade steers held firm, but the bulk of the crop was slow and losses of as much as 15 to 25 cents were uncovered in final sessions. Prime 1,453 pound steers sold at $14.20, equaling the best level since December, 1930, but sales over $13 were few.

The bulk of the beef steers changed hands at $8.25 to $13, with illbred natives yielding very little beef selling at $5 or less. Calves were steady.

The lamb market turned erratic after a slightly higher opening session and closed 15 to 25 cents lower, with packers buying the bulk below $8.15.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per hundredweight collected by the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are per 100 pounds of live animal.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Salesmen.

Our most active season has begun. Business is good.

We have an opening for a few neat appearing men, 25 years of age or over, to represent the largest retail Home Furnishing House in the middle west. Previous experience an advantage but not essential. We are laying a foundation for future purchasing among our numerous customers and are paying our representatives advanced commission weekly in full on a basis of average sales expectancy. Also allowing a daily drawing account privilege, if necessary, while getting started. An intensely interesting and dignified program for those capable of conducting enthusiastic conversation. Can earn $30 per week and upward consistently. No night calls. Apply from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. only. Can also use a few saleswomen.

STRAUS & SCHRAM,
Mr. Jacobs. Mr. Zuber.

Miscellaneous.

There's an old story—

that many a man who could make $7,500 a year or more never gets into that class because he has an inferiority complex. In other words, he's scared out.

There's a good moral to that story. And here's a case in point. I have an opening right now for two good men in electrical unit business with unlimited opportunity. But I can't afford to offer these places to any fellow who would be scared to death if he found he was making a percentage rate of $7,500 a year.

The money is here to be made. Others are making it. If you feel that your ability is below average or that you'll always be in the rut of low-bracket earnings, save your time.

If, on the other hand, you wouldn't mind stepping into the real money class, I'll be glad to give you an interview 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Mr. Jones, Rm. 618, 203 N. Wabash-av.

WITHIN THE NEXT FEW DAYS THIS highly successful manufacturer of electrical machines and units will select and finance in business a few North Side men who have initiative and good references. If you wish to realize ever-mounting commission checks and will work hard for genuine and permanent success, I shall be ready to talk it over in Room 205 at 4300 Montgomery-av. at 11:15 a. m. sharp, Friday, March 29. Be on time and be prepared to put in about 90 minutes if it appears we can get together. I cannot use men under 26 or over 40.

"Operators Wanted"

Prepare at DeLEE with Mme. Louise

Exclusive beauty shops want operators who have been trained the DeLEE way, under Mme. Louise. Mme. Louise, internationally famous hairdressing and beauty culture expert, will aid personally in training you for a BETTER POSITION and a larger income.

At DeLEE you will find the ideal "set-up"—capable instructors who have had years of teaching experience, and up to date 100% equipment. Classrooms are colorful, light and airy.

A RECOGNIZED SCHOOL.

The DeLEE University of Beauty Culture is the only beauty school which has been permitted to incorporate as a University in Illinois. DeLEE meets all requirements of the Department of Education and Registration. Why be satisfied with an old fashioned "trade school" training, when the DeLEE "university type" of schooling is available at no greater cost? Previous experience or a high school education NOT necessary. Day and evening classes. Tuition reasonable and payments can be arranged to suit your convenience.

A visit to DeLEE won't obligate you. It will open your eyes. Come in TODAY.

TODAY
IS USED CAR MOVING DAY
AT STUDEBAKER

We must move out at least 100 cars at once. We're just not physically equipped to handle all the used cars in our stock now—so cut so half of them, regardless of cost. Cars priced from $200 to $300 slashed to $95; those marked $400 to $500 cut to $195; others reduced in proportion. Over 225 to choose from. 5 days' driving trial goes with each.
